Former village resident on 'death list'

by JOE SWICKARD

A former resident of Arlington Heights was among 72 business executives and their wives marked for death by an "International People's Court of Retribution."

The death list was revealed by Sandra Good, roommate of Lynnette "Squeaky" Fromme. Miss Fromme, being held for the attempted assassination of President Gerald R. Ford last week, and Miss Good were members of mass murderer Charles Manson's "family."

Carroll V. Roseberry, formerly of 2003 E. Robin Hood, Arlington Heights, was the only Chicago area person named on Miss Good's execution list.

Roseberry, a retired vice president of Westinghouse Electric Corp., laughed off the threat.

"I'M NOT REALLY very concerned about it. But maybe I should be. I wasn't aware that I had offended anybody," Roseberry told the Herald in a telephone interview from his Arizona retirement home.

As a Westinghouse executive, he said he was "directly involved in atomic power generators as a manager."

He and other persons named by the cult member included executives in the power, lumber, oil, food and chemical industries.

Miss Good first revealed the "court's" assassination targets in a radio interview with Bob Ruby, of WWL New Orleans.

"Anyone who pollutes the earth, destroys wildlife or cuts down trees had better stop now or they and their wives will be terribly, terribly murdered. Assassinations are necessary since people are asking for trouble by hurting the earth, the children and their own lives," she told Ruby.

SHE SAID THE wives of six executives would be hacked to death first. The wives are guilty, she said, because they did not force their husbands to reconsider their actions.

Ruby's life was also threatened during the interview, but it was edited out before it was broadcast, according to radio station spokesman.

Roseberry said, "I don't know too much about the details other than what reporters told me — that I was on the list."

Westinghouse sold Commonwealth Edison Co., the atomic generator for their Zion operation, in addition to sales to power companies in the Midwest.

"I never was threatened before and I never got any crank calls or letters," he said.

ROSEBERRY SAID he had not been contacted by local police nor agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation about the threat on his and his wife, Roberta's life.

He said he had not taken any special precautions because of the murder threat.

"Nope. No, I haven't. What should I do?" he said.

When told some persons were on the list for "killing animals," Roseberry chuckled and said, "Well, I do a lot of fishing."

He said his wife was "a little amused and somewhat concerned" by the Manson family's revelations of her "guilt."

ALTHOUGH MISS Good stopped short of directly linking the family to the "International People's Court of Retribution," she said, "Manson must be given a seat in the United Nations."

Miss Good said the assassination would be carried out by an international underground network of killers who could strike against the executives wives while they were on the golf course.

"Assassinations are necessary since people are asking for trouble and from what they are programming on television," she said.

The assassins will "move of their own accord — necessity dictates policy," she said.

The FBI said it is studying a tape of the broadcast interview.

"IF WE DETERMINE there has been a violation of federal law we would give the information to the U.S. attorney in Sacramenta, Calif. (Miss Good's home) and he would prosecute there," an FBI spokesman said.

Roseberry said he was not going to change his re-

'Big boon' seen in Sunday racing

by KURT BAER

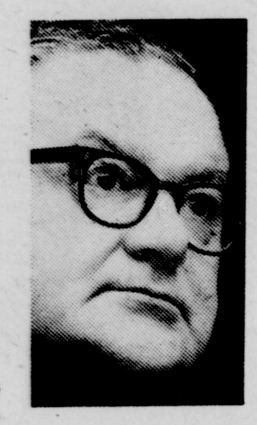
Sunday racing at Arlington Park Race Track next year is a "possibility," Track Pres. Jack Loome said Thursday, following Gov. Daniel Walker's favorable action on a sweeping new state horse racing bill.

Walker used his amendatory veto power and returned the bill to the Illinois General Assembly for revision, including restoration of the current prohibition on political contributions from racing interests.

But he left untouched the part of the bill which would open the door to year-round and Sunday racing in Illinois. Arlington Heights still would have final authority over Sunday racing at Arlington Park if the bill becomes law as expected later this fall.

LOOME SAID that under the right circumstances, Sunday racing "could be a big boon" to Arlington Park, nearly equaling the present Saturday racing crowd.

"We can't do anything immediately, but I wouldn't preclude going after it next year," he said.



Jack Loome

Arlington Park Race Track would have to ask the Arlington Heights Village Board to approve an ordinance permitting Sunday racing.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan said Thursday he would need to know the number of Sundays on which Arlington Park would want to open and other details of the operation before he could approve Sunday racing.

"To the extent the new bill reserves autonomy for the village, I am pleased with it," he said.

During his campaign for village president in March, Ryan sent a letter to the Illinois Racing Board, stating his objection to Sunday racing and an extended racing season at Arlington Park.

"In my opinion, the institution of Sunday racing at Arlington Park would only serve to make what is intended to be a day of rest to be instead a day of noise, traffic jams and general confusion," Ryan said at the time.

SUNDAY RACING particularly has been successful on the West Coast, Loome said. But at Detroit's Hazel Park, Sunday racing recently was abandoned, largely because of high labor costs.

"Sunday racing is not necessarily the great thing everybody thinks it is," Loome said, explaining that if labor unions demand high Sunday wages it may not be profitable to open the track.

He also left open the possibility of winter thoroughbred racing at Arlington Park.

Although Arington Park traditionally is considered a summer track, Loome said the interior grandstand is completely enclosed and heated. "Every day in the winter isn't 60 below zero," he said, "and I think if people come dressed for it, winter racing could be successful."

With his amendatory veto Thursday, Walker tightened the racing bill in four principal areas. He acted to:

- Reinstate the ban on political contributions from racing interests.
- Close a loop hole which would have allowed corporations with felony convictions to dodge the law by form-

6% teacher wage hikes approved by Dist. 25

by KATHERINE BOYCE

A teachers' contract calling for raises of 5.7 to 6.5 per cent received unanimous approval of the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education Thursday.

The contract was ratified by the Arlington Teachers' Assn. last week after 74 per cent of the district's teachers voted to accept the agreement.

The new contract calls for raises in base salaries of 5.7 per cent to 6.5 per cent this year in addition to the annual raises of 4 to 6 per cent given to teachers with an additional year of experience.

THE BASE SALARY for beginning teachers has been increased 5.7 per cent from $8,800 to $9,300. The base salary for teachers who have been granted tenure in the district has been increased 6.1 per cent to $9,550, and teachers who are at the 10th step in the salary schedule will now receive a 6.5 per cent increase on a base salary of $9,800.

Teachers and board members have been negotiating the contract since April.

"The negotiations with the teachers were well done, with a high level of professionalism," said board member Nicholas J. Raino. He said the contract is an "equitable" one and recommended the board approve it.

Board Pres. William J. Beck said he takes "special pride in our negotiators and teachers in reaching an agreement" in light of the problems other school districts in the area are facing in their contract negotiations.

The new contract also includes:

- A plan for improved health insurance. The Dist. 25 administration is working on the details of the plan and is consulting with several health insurance companies.
- A revision in he teachers' grievance procedure which will give teachers more time to file a grievance and will give the superintendent more time to settle the matter before it is taken to the board.
- A new system for evaluating teacher performance. Teachers have been rated on a checklist system of about 20 items, but will now meet individually with principals to set up goals for the school year, and will be evaluated on the basis of these goals.

Flea market Saturday to aid Susan Lark

Nearly 200 families in the Arlington Vista subdivision are planning a cooperative flea market Saturday for the benefit of Susan Lark, 11-year-old victim of bone marrow cancer.

The sale is the latest in a series of fundraisers that have been held throughout the suburbs this summer to help defray medical costs for Susan. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lark, 1415 Rose Hill Dr., had no hospitalization insurance when Susan's disease was diagnosed in July, requiring a leg amputation.

The Lark's neighbors in the Arlington Vista subdivision have already raised about $2,000 for Susan and this week hope to boost the total substantially with proceeds from the flea market.

Families have contributed a wide variety of items for the sale to be conducted on Lilac Terrace, between Rosehill and Maple Lane, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Cash only will be accepted.

State board seeks override of veto

Restoration of school aid urged

by WANDALYN RICE

The Illinois Board of Education Thursday urged the Illinois General Assembly to override one of Gov. Daniel Walker's vetoes of measures increasing funds to state schools.

The board, however, backed away from urging blanket overrides of the governor's education budget cuts.

The board agreed to ask the legislature to override the veto of Senate Bill 1493, a measure which changes the state school aid formula to provide extra state aid to some districts and allow others to get more revenue through property taxes.

The board, however, asked the legislators only to "consider the restoration of full state funding" for the state school aid formula, despite the urging of the state Committee for Full Funding, a coalition of state education organizations.

STATE SCHOOL Supt. Joseph Cronin told the board, "The bad news is that Illinois cannot afford an override of all the governor's education vetoes" because of a decline in state revenue caused by the recession.

Cronin said, "The governor and the legislature expect us to take a responsible, defensible stand to reconcile the two mandates of the constitution — to assume the primary responsibility for education and to avoid unlawful deficits for any fiscal year."

Last June, Walker cut the state education budget by $141 million, with most of the cut coming in a reduction of the appropriation for the state school aid formula. Senate Bill 1493 would restore $22 million of the cut. It also would repeal the requirement that school districts with high property taxes cut their tax rates in order to receive funds under the formula.

SUBURBAN SCHOOL districts which would benefit from the override of S.B. 1493 include High School Dist. 214 and High School Dist. 211, both of which are being required to roll back taxes under present law. The bill would provide no additional money for the Chicago Public Schools.

Cronin said the board should ask the legislature to restore cuts in the state school aid formula and in special education programs if the state's financial picture improves between now and next spring. He said cuts in those funds could be restored next spring by a special appropriation of the General Assembly.

Cronin said the state is paying school districts 97 per cent of the amount they would receive if the state school aid formula were fully funded. "Unless we file a supplemental request (for additional funds) by early spring, some districts may lay off teachers. Librarians and art specialists will be dismissed and class sizes will be increased in many schools," he said.

State board seeks override of veto

by WANDALYN RICE

The Illinois Board of Education Thursday urged the Illinois General Assembly to override one of Gov. Daniel Walker's vetoes of measures increasing funds to state schools.

The board, however, backed away from urging blanket overrides of the governor's education budget cuts.

The board agreed to ask the legislature to override the veto of Senate Bill 1493, a measure which changes the state school aid formula to provide extra state aid to some districts and allow others to get more revenue through property taxes.

The board, however, asked the legislators only to "consider the restoration of full state funding" for the state school aid formula, despite the urging of the state Committee for Full Funding, a coalition of state education organizations.

STATE SCHOOL Supt. Joseph Cronin told the board, "The bad news is that Illinois cannot afford an override of all the governor's education vetoes" because of a decline in state revenue caused by the recession.

Cronin said, "The governor and the legislature expect us to take a responsible, defensible stand to reconcile the two mandates of the constitution — to assume the primary responsibility for education and to avoid unlawful deficits for any fiscal year."

Last June, Walker cut the state education budget by $141 million, with most of the cut coming in a reduction of the appropriation for the state school aid formula. Senate Bill 1493 would restore $22 million of the cut. It also would repeal the requirement that school districts with high property taxes cut their tax rates in order to receive funds under the formula.

SUBURBAN SCHOOL districts which would benefit from the override of S.B. 1493 include High School Dist. 214 and High School Dist. 211, both of which are being required to roll back taxes under present law. The bill would provide no additional money for the Chicago Public Schools.

Cronin said the board should ask the legislature to restore cuts in the state school aid formula and in special education programs if the state's financial picture improves between now and next spring. He said cuts in those funds could be restored next spring by a special appropriation of the General Assembly.

Cronin said the state is paying school districts 97 per cent of the amount they would receive if the state school aid formula were fully funded. "Unless we file a supplemental request (for additional funds) by early spring, some districts may lay off teachers. Librarians and art specialists will be dismissed and class sizes will be increased in many schools," he said.

BIG MEN TALL MEN

SANDRA GOOD, left, and Susan Murphy pick up possessions following a search of their handbags after entering the Federal Building in Sacramento to attend the arraignment of Lynette Fromme for the attempted murder of President Ford. At the hearing, Lynette warned "the gun is pointed."

'The gun is pointed' Squeaky tells court

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Manson cultist Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme Thursday delivered a rambling political harangue at her arraignment on charges of trying to assassinate President Ford, telling the federal judge "the gun is pointed — whether it goes off is up to you."

Over attempts by U.S. District Judge Thomas MacBride to cut her off, Miss Fromme, 26, indicted for attempting to kill the President, calmly persisted with her tirade until the judge ordered her ushered from the courtroom.

But Miss Froom's stage was rapidly being stolen by her friend and roommate Sandra Good, who was issuing wild and vague communications to whomever she could.

Her first outburst was given to a New Orleans radio station newsman whom she told of a murder scheme aimed at six southern businessmen and their wives.

"Assassinations are necessary," she said. "Since people are asking for trouble by hurting earth and from what they are programming on television."

In her court appearance, Miss Fromme, who was charged with pointing a loaded .45-caliber pistol at the President outside the California Capitol, said, "There's an army of young people and children who want to clean up the earth."

As two other Manson women, including Miss Good, wearing similar red tunics watched from the front row of the courtroom, Miss Fromme demanded that MacBride order the federal government to purchase heavily logged land around California's north coast Redwood National Park or to tell the U.S.Corps of Engineers to prevent further timber cutting in the environmentally fragile area.

"The gun is pointed, your honor, the gun is pointed," she warned at the conclusion of the arraignment. "Whether it goes off is up to you."

MacBride, who allowed her to make a statement but warned he would cut her off if it became political, tried repeatedly to stop her after she began but Miss Fromme kept talking calmly into the microphone.

She did not elaborate further on what she meant by the pointed gun.

"Save the redwood trees in California," she blurted out, adding that chopping down redwoods was "like cutting down your arms and legs."

"You'll think about it?" she asked the judge.

"I'll think about it, but it won't have any effect" on the case, MacBride replied.

A few moments later, she told the judge, "I didn't mean to be rude." The judge replied he didn't consider her to be rude and called up the next case. Federal marshals escorted her back to a jail cell.

Judge MacBride set Sept. 19 for Miss Fromme to enter a plea to the charge of attempting to kill President Ford. If convicted, she faces a maximum life sentence under a federal law enacted two years after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

MacBride agreed to consider a reduction in Miss Fromme's maximum $1 million bail at a hearing next Tuesday but termed her a "high risk defendant." He said the trial should begin within two months.

Kissinger wasn't told of imminent '73 war

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former intelligence official said Thursday he tried to tell Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger that Middle East war was imminent in 1973 but Kissinger aides refused to "trouble" their boss with the information.

Egypt and Syria attacked Israel the next day, Oct. 6, 1973, catching Israel — and the United States — by surprise.

In public testimony before the House Intelligence Committee, the CIA took the blame for that element of surprise, calling it "a failure of U. S. intelligence" and saying analysts failed to draw the right conclusions from ample evidence the Arabs were about to attack.

An agency spokesman said that evidence included notice the Soviets were withdrawing civilian dependents from Egypt and Syria two days before the attack. Other evidence before the committee indicated the Defense Intelligence Agency correctly predicted the attack three days in advance.

But Ray Cline, former chief of the State Department's Bureau of Intelligence, suggested Kissinger himself was partially to blame for the intelligence breakdown because he held too much power in his own hands and restricted the upward flow of intelligence advisories.

Cline testified that on Oct. 5, 1973, on the eve of the Arab attack, his group concluded war was imminent and tried to alert Kissinger, who was in New York City. Cline said Kissinger's aides discouraged him from contacting the secretary that evening.

"They didn't want to trouble him," Cline testified.

He said he sent the material to Kissinger by diplomatic pouch, but the Yom Kippur war had begun before Kissinger got it.

Cline said he did not try to phone Kissinger personally because he had been discouraged by the restricted channels of communication that existed under President Richard M. Nixon and Kissinger, who was — and still is — both Secretary of State and the President's chief national security adviser.

"Isn't it the bottom line that we really have got a one man show in Kissinger and that it now seems to affect our intelligence?" Rep. Morgan Murphy, D-Ill., asked Cline.

Cline responded that policymaking had been constricted to "a very narrow sphere." He recommended no one man should be allowed to hold both Kissinger's jobs simultaneously.

Cline, a professional intelligence man for 30 years, left government service a month after the outbreak of the Yom Kippur war and now heads a graduate research group at Georgetown University in Washington, D. C.

The State Department issued a statement Thursday night saying Cline's account was " INCORRECT." It said none of Kissinger's assistants who were with him in New York recalled any attempt by Cline to reach the Secretary. The statement gave a long list of other officials Cline could have contacted.

Army has no plans to jail Calley

The Army said Thursday it would not attempt to put former Lt. William L. Calley back behind bars despite an appeals court ruling reinstating his My Lai murder conviction. The Army had granted Calley a parole, effective Nov. 19, 1974, but 10 days before the parole would have become effective a U.S. District Court judge in Columbus, Ga., set Calley free on grounds that massive publicity surrounding the My Lai case had prevented him from receiving a fair trial. The district court ruling was overturned Wednesday. The case will be appealed.

Nearly full disclosure of 'tapes' ordered

Congress Thursday ordered nearly full public disclosure of 42 million White House documents former President Richard M. Nixon claims are his personal property. The Senate, by voice vote and without debate, rejected regulations proposed by Arthur F. Sampson, head of the General Services Administration, which would have limited public access to the tapes.

The Senate gave Sampson, a Nixon appointee due to step down soon, until Oct. 10 to give Congress new guidelines permitting public access with the fewest possible exceptions.

Senate unit wants 8.66 per cent pay hike

The Senate Civil Service Committee, rejecting President Ford's suggested 5-per-cent pay raise, voted Thursday for an 8.66-per-cent raise for three million white-collar federal employes — from Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller on down. The committee voted 7 to 2 to send the higher recommendation to the full Senate, which must vote on the issue by Oct. 1. If approved, it would cost $3.5 billion.

The documents, released by the Senate multinational corporations subcommittee, indicated that some of the payments in Indonesia may have gone to the very top officials including the late Gen. Ford campaigns in safety vest

Soviet oil-for-grain deal hinted

From Herald news services

President Ford, campaigning in New Hampshire with a safety vest beneath his shirt and coat, indicated Thursday the United States may negotiate with the Soviet Union to trade American wheat for Russian oil.

He announced an American team of negotiators was already in Moscow and hinted an oil-for-grain deal might result.

"I wouldn't rule out the possibility that might materialize," said Ford when asked if the negotiators might try to work out the trade with the Russians.

"I think it's a good deal not only to sell it (grain), but it's conceivable — it's possible — that we can use wheat in the negotiations for oil," Ford said during a trip through New Hampshire in support of Republican Louis Wyman's senatorial campaign.

"I think it's better to sell it than to store it," he said of the controversial sale of some 10 million tons of grain to the Soviets already this year and apparent plans to sell more later.

The statement came as grain loadings for Russia returned to normal, and the Agriculture Department announced prospects for a record 1975 corn crop declined slightly last month, but the crop remains big enough to permit more grain sales to Russia.

The Department's Crop reporting Board, estimating the nation's harvest of the basis of Sept. 1 conditions, put prospective corn production at 5.687 billion bushels, down 162 million bushels, or 3 per cent, from the August estimate but 22 per cent above last year and fractionally above the 1973 record.

Wheat production was estimated at a record 2.136 billion bushels, down about 5 million bushesl from August.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard Bell told a news conference that despite the corn losses caused by hangover effects of a summer draught, "this does not change my assessment that we can supply further grain to the U.S.S.R."

Bell said he was not prepared to say how much more grain — beyond the 10 million tons sold before a moritorium was imposed last month — the United States could sell Russia without risking sharp price increases for American consumers.

Anyway, he noted, President Ford has decided no new sales will be permitted until mid-October to allow time to seek agreements on maritime issues and a hoped-for long-term grain supply deal with the Russians.

The government crop report again showed Illinois as the nation's leading producer of corn and soybeans though U. S. production in both was estimated lower than in last month's report. Illinois is expected to produce 1.171 billion bushels of corn, compared with the August estimate of 1.160 billion and 830 million a year ago.

During Ford's campaign, he shook hundreds of hands and waved at big friendly crowds in his first political trip since his life was threatened Friday in California.

Reminded by a reporter of his brush with death during a similar visit a week ago in Sacramento, Ford said: "It's more fun this way — what the heck."

House OKs oil price control extension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House swiftly passed a 60-day extension of oil price controls Thursday, but Democrats urged the Senate to attach conditions that would limit what President Ford can do with prices.

The House bill, keeping the price of most domestic oil — and thus the prices of products such as gasoline and home heating oil — under a lid through Oct. 31, was approved by voice vote in the House.

The Senate Democratic Conference met at lunchtime and approved a resolution urging the passage of a bill that would extend controls 60 days from the day the bill was passed. That would be about two weeks longer than the House version. But more importantly, the conference's suggested bill would prohibit the President from presenting to Congress any oil decontrol plans for the first 45 days of the period.

Mother Seton has had miraculous cures attributed to her. One was Carl Kalin, a Swedish-born Lutheran who recovered from fulminating meningo-encephalitis, regarded as terminal. Another is Mrs. Ann O'Neill Hooe, a Baltimore housewife who recovered in 1952 at the age of 4 from leukemia. They will be among some 15,000 persons attending the canonization.

• Funeral services were held Thursday for Minta Durfee, who played opposite Charlie Chaplin in a dozen films and shared 13 years of Hollywood glamour with her husband, comedian Fatty Arbuckle. Miss Durfee died of congestive heart failure at the Motion Picture Country Home and Hospital in Woodland Hills, Los Angeles.

• President Ford is nominating Richard Dunham, a former assistant to Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, as chairman of the Federal Power Commission. Dunham, 56, will replace John Nassikas, who is resigning.

• Betty Ford's mail has been running 2 to 1 in disapproval of her comment that she "wouldn't be surprised if her daughter Susan had an affair before marriage. Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld, the First Lady's press secretary, said Mrs. Ford has received about 19,500 letters critical of her stand, and 8,000 from persons who support her view.

• The Greater Little Rock Jaycees have canceled a speaking appearance by Annabel Battistella, whose stage name is Fanne Foxe, because: "It would not be in the best interest of our community and our Jaycee organization to have Ms. Foxe appear." Jaycee President Mike Logue said, "The Jaycees do not want to have anything to do with Miss Foxe in any way."

Six more victims of encephalitis

Six more confirmed cases of encephalitis were reported Thursday by the Illinois Dept. of Public Health, bringing the total number of confirmed cases to 49 in Illinois and 22 in Cook County.

No new confirmed cases were reported in Cook County, for four cases hospitalized in southern suburbs were moved from the suspected list to the confirmed list. Two new confirmed cases were reported downstate.

Five Northwest suburban residents suspected to have the mosquito-borne disease remain hospitalizied Thursday. Two have been released from area hospitals. A 42-year-old Rolling Meadows man is suspected to have died from the virus.

NINE NEW CASES of encephalitis were reported Thursday by state health officials, who have said the worst of the epidemic is over. They point out that these new victims were bitten by encephalitis-carrying mosquitos between two and three weeks ago.

Of the new cases, three in Homewood are listed as probable. Downstate Illinois reports three new probable and three new suspected cases of the virus.

Totals now show 79 probable and 82 suspected encephalitis cases in Illinois and 45 probable and 46 suspected cases in Cook County. Symptoms of the disease include fever, headache, disorientation and, eventually, coma. While most victims recover spontaneously, encephalitis can result in brain damage and death.

Dist. 21 teachers OK 2-year pact, 10% pay raises

by MARILYN McDONALD

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 school board members and teachers signed a two-year contract Thursday which features one of the best financial settlements reached in Northwest suburban school districts this year.

The new two-year contract grants teachers an average 10 per cent salary increase this year, said John Barger, associate superintendent and chief board negotiator. The district salary schedule will now range from $9,300 for a bachelor's degree and no experience, to $20,000 for a teacher with a master's degree plus 30 gradu- 59 and 8.5 per cent increase in High ate hours and 17 years teaching experience.

The second year of the contract provides for cost-of-living raises, Barger said. Each of the 20 steps on the salary schedule would be increased by 1 per cent for every 1 per cent increase in the cost of living up to 3 per cent. Past that point, the contract grants 5.5 per cent slary increases for every 1 per cent increase in the cost of living up to 6.5 per cent, Barger said.

DISTRICT 21'S average 10 per cent salary and benefit increase in its first contract year compares favorably with an 8 per cent increase recently approved in Elk Grove Township Dist. School Dist. 214. Dist. 21's starting salary now matches Arlington Heights Dist. 25, the district Wheeling teachers used as a model in this year's talks.

Thursday afternoon, 196 of 200 teachers present at a district teachers' meeting voted in favor of the contract. There are approximately 450 teachers in Dist. 21. In addition to the salary increases, teachers say the district will spend $56,000 for new fringe benefits and increases in existing benefits. Those benefits include new items of:

• Summer school salary increases. The district agreed to set summer school salaries this year according to experience, said Edward Searing, chief spokesman for the teacher's union negotiating team.

• Extra duty pay increases. Teachers say the district will bring pay for sponsorship of women's sports up to par with men's sports. Searing said extra duty pay will be increased an average of 10 per cent over the next two years.

• Life insurance. The district will offer each full-time teacher a $5,000 term policy for the first time this year. This will cost the district $7,000 in premiums, Searing said.

• Tuition reimbursement. The district will reimburse teachers $17.50 per graduate credit hour earned this year and $20 per graduate hour next year. The district last year paid $15 per graduate hour.

In addition to financial benefits, the contract gives teachers:

• Two personal leave days to be taken at the teacher's discretion. Previous contracts granted one day at the teacher's discretion, and another day to be taken when the employer granted it.

• Use of five emergency snow days for budgeting and teacher conference days, if not used during the school year.

• Guidelines for reducing the present teaching staff if the need arises. These guidelines, new in this contract, determine the order in which teachers would be laid off.

Village backs Harper bond vote

The Arlington Heights Village Board has voted unanimously to support Harper College's $12 million bond referendum Sept. 27.

Included in the bond issue is $2,106,000 to buy a 117-acre site at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads, Ariington Heights, to use as a second campus. The bulk of the bond issue will be used to complete building at the present Palatine campus.

Harper board member William Kelly appeared before the village board to ask the trustees for their support.

Plans for the second campus tie-in with the village's proposal to build a flood control lake, Lake Arlington, along McDonald Creek south and west of the campus site.

The two projects will form a "college-park" that will "add substantially to the stature, web and fabric of the community," said James T. Ryan, vilage president.

Earlier, the village board reserved the 117-acre site for a second campus in the Arlington Heights master plan.

Parks award $64,000 paving contract

The Arlington Heights Park Board has awarded a $64,000 resurfacing and paving contract to Two W's Black Top Inc., Rolling Meadows.

The contractor will begin work this fall on resurfacing asphalted areas including walkways and tennis courts in a number of village parks.

The work is being paid for with funds from a $537,000 general obligation bond issue that was approved by Arlington Heights residents in March. The bond issue will cover 39 deferred maintenance projects in 22 different parks and the construction of an equipment storage building.

The park board awarded the bid at a meeting Tuesday night when it also accepted a deed from the village for land in the Ivy Hill subdivision. The park district has also leased an adjacent parcel from the village and plans to construct a park across both pieces of land.

The combined 12-acre parcel is on Crab Tree Drive near Prindle Avenue in the northeast portion of the village.

• Eliminate a provision which would have allowed municipalities to add a 10-cent per person local admission tax.

• Insure the continuation of the racing board from October 1975 to January 1976. As written, the bill would have left the state without a racing board during that period, with no control over racing operations and unable to collect taxes.

"PROVISIONS OF the bill that I am approving will reduce the admission tax at race tracks, open up winter racing throughout the state for the first time and allow Sunday racing at tracks where the people of the community approve the idea," Walker said.

The bill with amendments must be approved by a majority vote of the Illinois Senate and House. If approved by the legislature and signed by Walker, the bill would take effect Jan. 1, 1976.

Reacting to the elimination of the 10-cent local admission tax, which has been mentioned in Arlington Heights, Ryan said that he still believes the village can impose the tax under its home-rule power.

A race track admission tax approved by the home-rule community of Cicero currently is being tested in court.

Loome called the local admission tax "a big question."

On the subject of banning political contributions, Loome said he was "not anxious to give money away to anyone — especially state legislators."

Rep. Joseph G. Sevcik (R-Berwyn), House sponsor of the bill, said Thursday he was pleased the governor restored the ban on political contributions.

The prohibition was in the origina bill, but deleted during House debate, he said, adding that he did not oppose taking the ban out because "under the new financial discosure law, all contributors have to have their names listed — and the racing people would be damn fools to try to get good racing dates through contributions that are going to be made public."

Youths go overseas in Rotary exchange

Two youths from Arlington Heights will spend the next year overseas as part of the Arlington Heights Rotary Club's youth exchange program.

Mary Gormley, 506 E. Marshall St., and Kim Robson, 1431 N. Belmont Ave., left the Northwest suburbs last month. Miss Gormley will spend a year in Sweden, and Miss Robson will spend a year in Brazil.

In return, one youth from each country resides in Arlington Heights' homes. Regis Maia, a Brazil resident, is currently living with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Borcherding, 1928 Cherry Hill Dr. In addition, Boel Nilehis of Sweden will spend the next year with the Robson family.

Responsibility for the students while overseas belongs to the local Rotary Club. The youths' families provide transportation to the foreign country.

This year's travelers were selected in November 1974.

Dist. 21 teachers OK 2-year pact, 10% pay raises

by MARILYN McDONALD

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 school board members and teachers signed a two-year contract Thursday which features one of the best financial settlements reached in Northwest suburban school districts this year.

The new two-year contract grants teachers an average 10 per cent salary increase this year, said John Barger, associate superintendent and chief board negotiator. The district salary schedule will now range from $9,300 for a bachelor's degree and no experience, to $20,000 for a teacher with a master's degree plus 30 graduate hours and 17 years teaching experience.

Past that point, the contract grants 5.5 per cent slary increases for every 1 per cent increase in the cost of living up to 6.5 per cent, Barger said.

DISTRICT 21'S average 10 per cent salary and benefit increase in its first contract year compares favorably with an 8 per cent increase recently approved in Elk Grove Township Dist. School Dist. 214. In addition to the salary increases, teachers say the district will spend $56,000 for new fringe benefits and increases in existing benefits. Those benefits include new items of:

- Summer school salary increases. The district agreed to set summer school salaries this year according to experience, said Edward Searing, chief spokesman for the teacher's union negotiating team.
- Extra duty pay increases. Teachers say the district will bring pay for sponsorship of women's sports up to par with men's sports. Searing said extra duty pay will be increased an average of 10 per cent over the next two years.
- Life insurance. The district will offer each full-time teacher a $5,000 term policy for the first time this year. This will cost the district $7,000 in premiums, Searing said.
- Tuition reimbursement. The district will reimburse teachers $17.50 per graduate credit hour earned this year and $20 per graduate hour next year. The district last year paid $15 per graduate hour.

In addition to financial benefits, the contract gives teachers:

- Two personal leave days to be taken at the teacher's discretion. Previous contracts granted one day at the teacher's discretion, and another day to be taken when the employer granted it.
- Use of five emergency snow days for budgeting and teacher conference days, if not used during the school year.
- Guidelines for reducing the present teaching staff if the need arises. These guidelines, new in this contract, determine the order in which teachers would be laid off.

Parks award $64,000 paving contract

The Arlington Heights Park Board has awarded a $64,000 resurfacing and paving contract to Two W's Black Top Inc., Rolling Meadows.

The contractor will begin work this fall on resurfacing asphalted areas including walkways and tennis courts in a number of village parks.

The work is being paid for with funds from a $537,000 general obligation bond issue that was approved by Arlington Heights residents in March. The bond issue will cover 39 deferred maintenance projects in 22 different parks and the construction of an equipment storage building.

The park board awarded the bid at a meeting Tuesday night when it also accepted a deed from the village for land in the Ivy Hill subdivision. The park district has also leased an adjacent parcel from the village and plans to construct a park across both pieces of land.

The combined 12-acre parcel is on Crab Tree Drive near Prindle Avenue in the northeast portion of the village.

Village backs Harper bond vote

The Arlington Heights Village Board has voted unanimously to support Harper College's $12 million bond referendum Sept. 27.

Included in the bond issue is $2,106,000 to buy a 117-acre site at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads, Ariington Heights, to use as a second campus. The bulk of the bond issue will be used to complete building at the present Palatine campus.

Harper board member William Kelly appeared before the village board to ask the trustees for their support.

Plans for the second campus tie-in with the village's proposal to build a flood control lake, Lake Arlington, along McDonald Creek south and west of the campus site.

The two projects will form a "college-park" that will "add substantially to the stature, web and fabric of the community," said James T. Ryan, vilage president.

Earlier, the village board reserved the 117-acre site for a second campus in the Arlington Heights master plan.

Sunday horse racing seen as 'big boon' by Loome

ing subsidiary corporations to obtain racing dates.

- Eliminate a provision which would have allowed municipalities to add a 10-cent per person local admission tax.
- Insure the continuation of the racing board from October 1975 to January 1976. As written, the bill would have left the state without a racing board during that period, with no control over racing operations and unable to collect taxes.

"PROVISIONS OF the bill that I am approving will reduce the admission tax at race tracks, open up winter racing throughout the state for the first time and allow Sunday racing at tracks where the people of the community approve the idea," Walker said.

The bill with amendments must be approved by a majority vote of the Illinois Senate and House. If approved by the legislature and signed by Walker, the bill would take effect Jan. 1, 1976.

Reacting to the elimination of the 10-cent local admission tax, which has been mentioned in Arlington Heights, Ryan said that he still believes the village can impose the tax under its home-rule power.

A race track admission tax approved by the home-rule community of Cicero currently is being tested in court.

Loome called the local admission tax "a big question."

On the subject of banning political contributions, Loome said he was "not anxious to give money away to anyone — especially state legislators."

Rep. Joseph G. Sevcik (R-Berwyn), House sponsor of the bill, said Thursday he was pleased the governor restored the ban on political contributions.

The prohibition was in the origina bill, but deleted during House debate, he said, adding that he did not oppose taking the ban out because "under the new financial discosure law, all contributors have to have their names listed — and the racing people would be damn fools to try to get good racing dates through contributions that are going to be made public."

Youths go overseas in Rotary exchange

Two youths from Arlington Heights will spend the next year overseas as part of the Arlington Heights Rotary Club's youth exchange program.

Mary Gormley, 506 E. Marshall St., and Kim Robson, 1431 N. Belmont Ave., left the Northwest suburbs last month. Miss Gormley will spend a year in Sweden, and Miss Robson will spend a year in Brazil.

In return, one youth from each country resides in Arlington Heights' homes. Regis Maia, a Brazil resident, is currently living with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Borcherding, 1928 Cherry Hill Dr. In addition, Boel Nilehis of Sweden will spend the next year with the Robson family.

Responsibility for the students while overseas belongs to the local Rotary Club. The youths' families provide transportation to the foreign country.

This year's travelers were selected in November 1974.

Panel OKs disclosure law; covers land, gifts, deals

by JOE SWICKARD

A proposed financial disclosure ordinance for elected and some appointed officials has been endorsed by the community services committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The proposed ordinance would carry a provision which could mean the ouster of any official found to be in violation.

Trustee Robert H. Miller, committee chairman, said the five-point standard covers a statement of general purpose for officials and calls for disclosure of land and business interests in the village and gifts or services in excess of $50.

THE ORDINANCE would require:

- Disclosure of land ownership within the village limits and within a 1.5-mile radius outside the village limits.
- Disclosure of all gifts and services valued at more than $50.
- Disclosure of any interest in any business in the village or doing business with the village government.

Officials found in violation of the standard would face a review by the board of trustees. Miller said the board could censure or call for the resignation of officials found guilty of violating the ordinance.

Miller, elected to the board in April, campaigned on a platform which included a strong call for such an ethics ordinance.

The ordinance, if adopted, would cover not only village trustees but also members of the zoning board of appeals and the plan commission.

MILLER SAID THE statements of interest would be filed upon election or appointment and each year the person served on one of the three bodies. He said the statements would be open to public inspection.

The listing of business interests and holdings would make the public aware of any possible conflicts of interest by trustees or appointees, he said. Trustees and other officials would probably abstain from voting, he said, in cases in which they had financial interests.

The proposed ordinance was forwarded to village attorney Jack M. Seigel to put in draft form and for recommendations.

After the committee reviews Seigel's draft, Miller said the committee will recommend it be considered by the board's legal committee before putting it to a vote by the full board.

THE LEGAL COMMITTEE would be asked to consider including another section to cover the political solicitation of village employes for funds or work, Miller said.

Despite the proposed ordinance's unanimous endorsement by the committee, Miller forecast opposition to it by some trustees.

He said the four attorneys serving on the village board might find some conflicts between the ordinance and the judicial canons covering the confidential relation between lawyer and client.

"I feel strongly about this. I think an attorney could do this (meet the proposed ordinance) without violating his professional ethics," he said.

Dunne pals linked to Wheeling payoff

LUISA GINNETTI

Two associates of Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne were linked to a $50,000 zoning payoff in Wheeling by a prosecution witness in U.S. District court Thursday.

Edward E. Sheldon, a zoning consultant for Wickes Furniture Corp., named Ira Colitz, 59, a Democratic Party political figure who rents office space in Dunne's Near North Insurance Agency, as organizer of the payoff scheme.

He also named Michael Segal, head of Dunne's insurance agency, as one of three persons who attended a meeting in December 1971 to arrange the payoff.

Colitz, a former Democratic state representative from Chicago, and Nicholas Phillips, 40, of 410 Marion St., Prospect Heights, were charged 21 months ago with conspiracy and with extorting $50,000 from Wickes to influence zoning for a furniture warehouse at 35 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

Colitz and Phillips were county employes when indicted.

Segal was not named in the indictment.

SEGAL TOLD The Herald Thursday he had "no information about it" when asked if he was involved in the payoff scheme.

Dunne said Thursday Segal has worked for his insurance company for 10 years and is currently the director of the company.

Dunne said Colitz has never worked for the insurance company but has shared offices with Dunne for "a couple of years." Colitz' company is Continental Sales Enterprises, Inc. which has the same phone number as Dunne's agency.

Sheldon, of Deerfield, told U.S. District Court Judge Prentice Marshall that he met Colitz at a "hunt club" party Oct. 23, 1971.

"I told him I was a consultant for Wickes. I said to Ira, 'It's a good thing running into you. Maybe you can help . . . they can't get into Wheeling.' "

Colitz, a vice chairman of the 42nd Ward Democratic Organization, answered that Wheeling is "the Greek's place — that's (James) Stavros," Sheldon said. "Stavros was, I don't know, like the mayor of Wheeling," Sheldon added.

STAVROS, former Wheeling political boss and Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, was indicted and then pleaded guilty to other Wheeling extortion charges last year and is serving a four-year sentence in a federal prison.

About a month after the party, Sheldon said he telephoned Colitz about the Wickes property after two zoning petitions were rejected by village officials.

"I asked if he had found out anything about Wheeling," Sheldon said. "Ira said, 'Well, I told you that's strictly Stavros' area. I'm going to have to get some more information for you'."

"What were you asking him (Colitz) to do," defense attorney Harvey Silets said.

"See if he could talk to anybody on the political scene in Wheeling to see why Wickes couldn't get in," Sheldon answered.

Sheldon said within two days, Colitz told him that " 'It's going to take some money . . . I think it's going to take 50 big ones . . . $50,000'."

"Colitz said, 'the person who would help on the case would be a person named Segal . . . He is a young lawyer . . . he works in George Dunne's office'," Sheldon said.

SEGAL, SHELDON and Colitz met for lunch in December 1971 at a Holiday Inn in Chicago to discuss the payoff, Sheldon said. The Holiday Inn, which is about six blocks from Colitz' Lake Shore Drive apartment, also is the alleged site of the Dec. 30, 1971, payoff by a Wickes representative to Phillips.

Although Sheldon denied during questioning by Assistant U.S. Atty. Steven Kadison that he wrote to Colitz about the Wickes project, defense attorney Silets produced a Dec. 20, 1971, memorandum and a related newspaper clipping from Sheldon to Colitz. The clipping was coverage by The Herald of a Wickes zoning hearing in Wheeling.

A proposed financial disclosure ordinance for elected and some appointed officials has been endorsed by the community services committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The proposed ordinance would carry a provision which could mean the ouster of any official found to be in violation.

Thyroid problem needs right care

by Lawrence E. Lamb

i am 67 years of age and was a business woman for the last 30 years. My work was my entire life. About 10 years ago I had one thyroid gland removed. Two years later I had the other removed. I also sold my business with plans to travel.

Three months after the second thyroid operation I had been put on no medication, and I was so weak I could hardly walk, speak, or think. When I made the doctor realize how weak I was, both physically and mentally, he had tests run on me. The blood tests showed I was in the danger zone for both calcium and phosphorus. I was diagnosed as having hypocalcemia and hypoparathyroidism.

The doctor put me on calcium which helped very little until he added dihydrotachysterol. The treatment gradually corrected my blood level of both calcium and phosphorus. But, I have never gotten rid of all the muscle spasms, particularly in the leg and arm muscles. It is very painful and a great effort to walk up stairs and get up from sitting in a low chair.

My doctor said that when I had the thyroid operation the parathyroid glands must have been removed, and there was no function from them.

I would like your opinion on the prognosis of my problem and the effects of dihydrotachysterol. Is there any other drug to use with at least the same effect or better? The spasms have begun in the organs as well, and I can do little exertion because of shortness of breath.

My doctor had me do without the use of any drug except thyroid tablets to see if I could do without, but I am getting very weak and depressed.

You have a rare condition. The tiny parathyroid glands are like small buttons imbedded in the edge of the thyroid gland. Incidentally, you must have had a lobe or part of the thyroid removed the first time and more the second time as there is only one thyroid gland. Rarely the parathyroid glands are injured or removed when the thyroid gland is removed.

Shortly after surgery a patient may appear to have low or absent parathroid function but regains it in time. This is why your doctor took you off treatment, to find out if you had recovered.

The parathyroid glands regulate the level of calcium and phosphorus in your blood. When they are not functioning the level of calcium falls markedly. Increased bone density from deposition of calcium and arthritic-like changes may occur.

The usual symptoms are muscle spasms, cramps, mental confusion, difficulty in breathing, sometimes with spasm of muscles related to breathing, nausea, vomiting, lethargy and a host of other symptoms similar to what you describe. The symptoms can be relieved with adequate treatment.

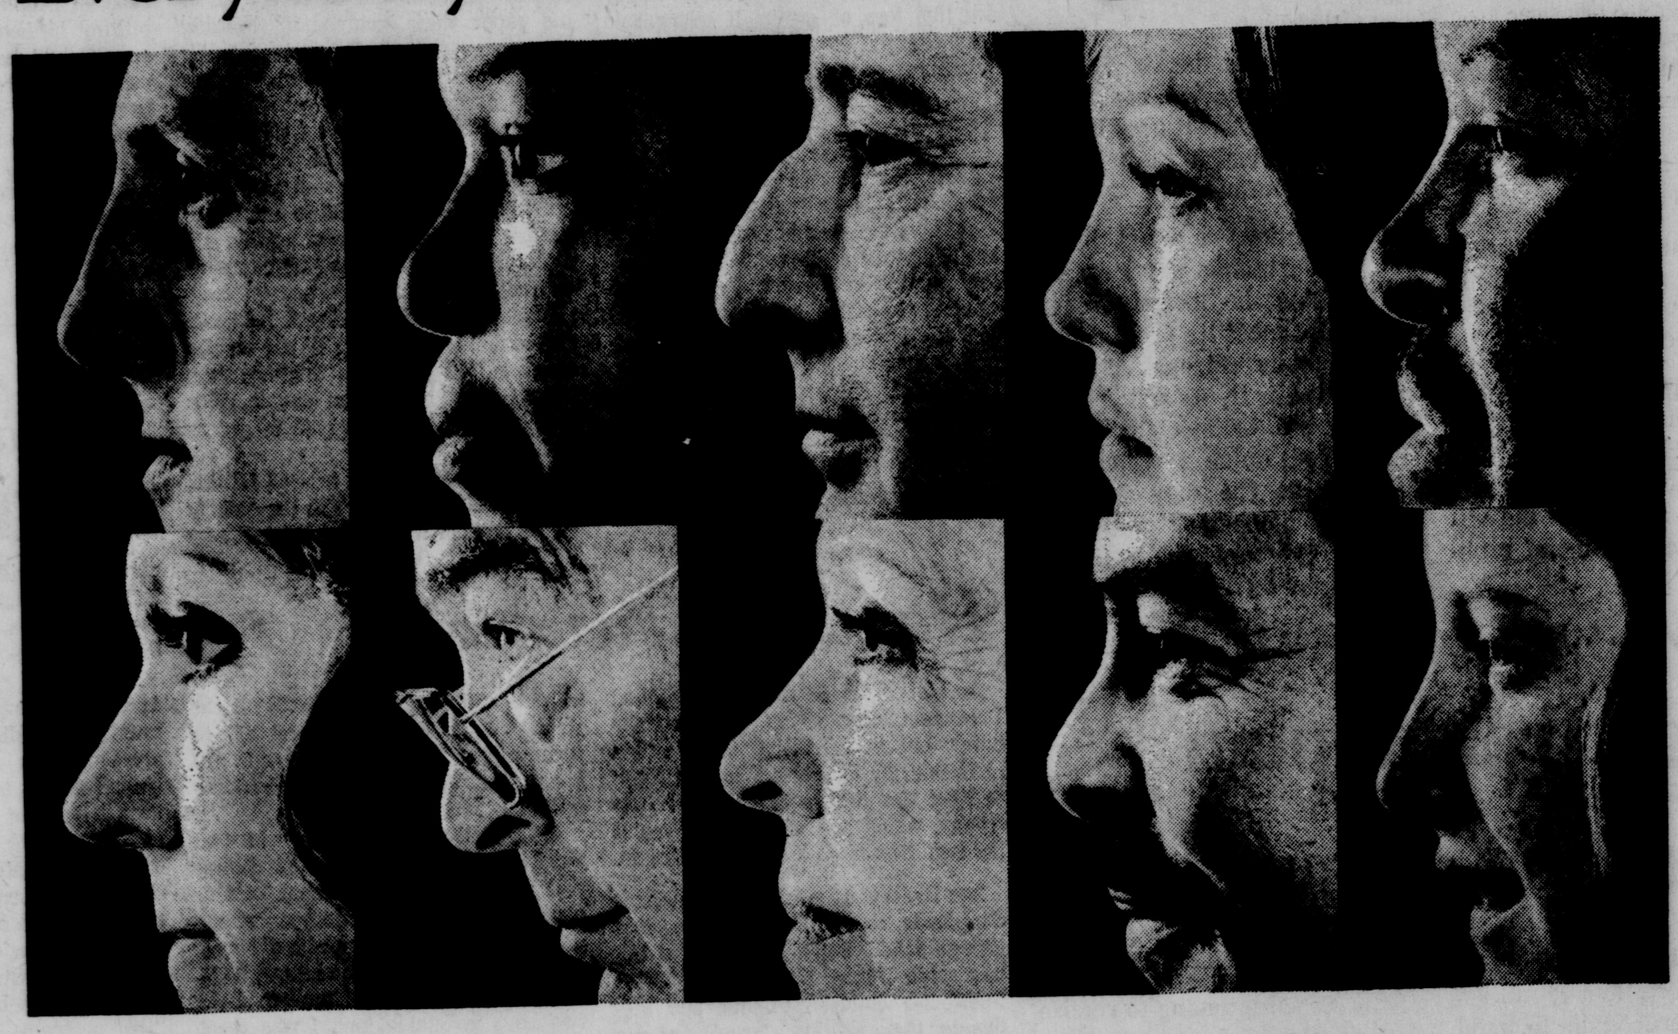
Everybody has a natural gas detector.



But what should you do if it ever detects?

Odds are you won't have a gas leak in your home. But if you do, your nose will let you know. Because, while natural gas has no odor of its own, Northern Illinois Gas Company adds an odorant that gives it a distinctive smell. It's one of hundreds of precautions we take to make gas the safest energy you can use. And if you'll take these few simple precautions, you'll help make it still safer.

Natural gas safety procedures:

1. Keep our phone number handy.
There's a Northern Illinois Gas Company (NI-Gas) emergency phone number for your area listed in your local telephone directory. Look it up now and write it down with other emergency numbers you keep near your phone.

2. Find the gas shutoff valve for your home.
It's located just ahead of your gas meter. If you can't find it, ask your NI-Gas meter reader to point it out. This valve shuts off all gas service for your home. Be sure all adult members of your family know where it is.

3. If you smell gas, call NI-Gas immediately.
A faint odor of gas near an appliance may be of no consequence. A pilot light may be out and simply need relighting. But if there's any doubt, call us immediately. NI-Gas representatives are on duty around the clock. They'll come right to your home and make a thorough inspection.

4. If the odor is strong or persistent, you can follow these procedures:
- Ventilate the building by opening windows at top and bottom. Start where odor is strongest.
- Do not operate any electrical switches or pull any plugs from outlets.
- Extinguish open flames. Use only manual controls on appliances.
- Get everyone out of the building.
- Shut off gas service at the meter and do not turn it on again. Let the NI-Gas representative do it.
- Call NI-Gas and your fire or police department. Use a neighbor's phone.

Herald opinion

Fiscal action causes concern

We can only shake our heads as the Mount Prospect Village Board continues its indecisive approach to solving the village's financial crisis.

Most recently, the board voted down a proposal to increase water rates by 40 per cent. The water rate hike would have halted a drain on the village's general revenue funds, which have been used to subsidize the water department.

By the action, the board again delayed any positive and immediate approach to solving a financial problem which finance committee chairman Edward B. Rhea Jr. said will be a "crisis situation" by the end of the year.

Mayor Robert Teichert views the situation differently. He says the village could levy a utility tax — a tax on phone, gas and electricity — if the situation becomes serious enough.

By this uncertain rhetorical position the village board is avoiding its duty to the people of Mount Prospect.

Obviously, no rate increase is popular, but in sidestepping an unpopular decision Teichert and the village board have merely postponed an answer to the village's persistent financial problems.

The crisis developed in April, when the board approved $371,000 to pay village employes 8 and 9 per cent raises. To provide a temporary solution for this budget overload, the board agreed to tap almost $300,000 in funds that were produced by a quirk in tax collection.

The board could have accomplished last week a short-term solution, allowing it the room to begin confronting long-term financial problems.

In short, next summer the village board will have to revive this spring's intensely political search for either added revenue or sharply curtailed village services.

We had hoped the six trustees and Mayor Teichert could pull together to work out an effective and sensible end to the village's financial dilemma.

As a solution, we reject the option of curtailing services, for the village is already hard-pressed to meet its present obligations to its citizens. A utility tax, indeed, is a last resort. Rather, we believe the board should reexamine a water rate increase as the only feasible, though "unpopular," way for Mount Prospect to begin to climb out of its fiscal dilemma.

Target range plan should be dropped

The gun lobby is pushing a plan to use more than $9 million a year in federal funds to build target ranges throughout the country.

The money would come from the 11 per cent federal tax on guns and ammunition, funds that traditionally have been channeled into wildlife and conservation programs.

We have a better idea. Why not take the $9 million and use it to aid the thousands of persons wounded or maimed each year by guns?

It is a tribute to the power of the National Rifle Assn. that a bill authorizing the target range program has passed a House subcommittee unanimously.

It is also frightening to realize that so many of our congressmen are out of touch. With armed criminals making large portions of major cities unlivable, the pressing need is to take guns out of circulation, not to encourage their use.

We again implore Congress to wake up and ban the possession of handguns by anyone but law enforcement officers and members of recognized gun clubs.

'Credit card use favored'

letters to the editor

There are currently two general types of charge or credit cards prevalent in this area. Large companies issue their own cards as a convenience for their customers. There are also commercial cards issued by large banks as profit-making ventures. Master Charge and Bank Americard are the most common and they charge the merchant a fee of 3 per cent to 5 per cent of each sale for its service. Each merchant knows that, when he deposits these credit card sales slips at his bank, he will receive only 95 cents to 97 cents on each dollar.

This in effect gives the credit card user a discount of 3 per cent to 5 per cent on each purchase. It also puts the burden upon the cash customer to pay for this loss of profit. If every sale was charged by every customer the merchant would have to raise his prices in the amount of the service charges. If you ask the average merchant for a 3 per cent to 5 per cent discount for paying cash he will refuse and some of them get impatient with you for even suggesting it, but he will go to the next customer and cheerfully charge his sale, accept the reduced amount and make out all of the paper work involved in addition. Most excuse this discrimination by saying "we do not want to lose the credit card business," yet they ignore the cash customers who are the larger part of their total income.

Most independent gas station owners absorb the 3 per cent to 5 per cent service fee. Major brand station operators say that the gasoline company accepts these charge slips in payment for gas and supplies at 100 cents on the dollar and they pay the service charges. This amounts to more than 2 to 4 cents per gallon and it gives some idea of the high rate of profits in this business.

THE PEOPLE most injured by this type of discrimination are the elderly who pay cash with 1940, 1950 and 1960 dollars, the poor who live from payday to payday and the government (you and me) which pays huge welfare costs.

Village business license ordinances do not prohibit this, nor any other type of discrimination. The utility tax is under fire by most of the population, at least one governor has lost his job because of a 2½ cent income tax, but cash customers are being "taxed" by authorities upon which they have no control.

If all cash customers would immediately insist upon equal treatment or refuse to deal with merchants who discriminate, this practice would stop. This insult to the intelligence of a class of people who are the only stabilizing influence on our shaky economy should be the subject of an investigation locally, by the State's Attorney or by the U. S. Attorney. It appears that a conspiracy to fix prices exists in this system.

The next time you make a cash purchase remember that you are paying the fee to finance the next customer who will say "charge it."

Where's the RTA?

I see that the CTA is improving bus service to O'Hare Airport.

Just when does anyone think that the RTA will get around to initiating any service between the airport (including the office complex around it) and any of the Chicago & North Western stations?

Without RTA, the state Department of Transportation could probably have pulled that off!

'Hands of friendship'

A family in Schaumburg, named Dracousis, wanted to extend their hands out in friendship to a couple in Skokie, by having a "fund raising" to fight the disease of muscular dystrophy, which is plighting the lives of the two sons of said couple in Skokie.

Lee Dracousis, a tall, dynamic Nordic blonde, said, "I'm going to have a garage sale!" Steve Dracousis, a tall handsome Boston Greek said "OK!" Their two children, Arthur and Stephanie, thought, that's great! Let me tell you, a charitable garage sale is nothing but hard work, sweat and tears! I know, because I've had lots of them. I live in Skokie, and except for family and close friends, I didn't get any help.

But in Schaumburg, on Crandon Lane, all of a sudden loads of neighbors who know the kind of people that Lee and Steve are started pitching in with donations of this and that, baking for days on end, but also working days and nights for a great length of time. Young teens, boys and girls, parents and other dear friends all put their "hands out in friendship," to form a real "task force." Hands are contagious! Just put one out in friendship, and it spreads quickly!

Well, that "garage sale" in two days, raised over $1,112!!! That money will go for research, patient service care, clinic, summer camps, wheelchairs and other orthopedic devices, free of charge to all victims of M.D. I know, because I'm the mother of the two boys in Skokie, and I was there to watch the "hands of friendship" extended out.

Too numerous to mention the names of all who endeavored to make Lee's garage sale an historic success, I, my husband Len, and sons, Billy and Christopher want to put our hands out and our hats off to all the lovely people on Crandon Lane, and especially to Lee and Steve and their family and dear friends for caring! God bless you all, with our love and sincere gratitude.

Father should get respect on TV

Make a boob out of Dad on the tube. Every network is doing it. They have been for many, many years. A foreign visitor once remarked: "It's amazing how well American parents obey their children!" It's no wonder that it looks that way with the TV programs featured now and in the past. On a typical one Dad gets an assignment from Mom (his other boss) and naturally botches it. Mom, after shaking her head with resignation (she knew it would happen all along), comes to the rescue to the delight of the children and the chagrin of poor old stupid bungling Dad who smiles sheepishly at his wife and kids and says something like: "Shucks, Mabel, I don't know what I'd do without you." The day is saved and Dad gets off the hook again, saved from his inept fumbling by reliable Mom.

The kids watch this sort of performance from the time they are able to toddle until high school days and beyond, and it's no wonder they have no respect for parental authority. No real father figure to emulate because they have lost all confidence in Dad as a result of watching the boob tube undermine his image for so long. How could a guy like that do anything right? And to add fuel to the flame, now most married women are working either for extras, or more than likely out of necessity, thereby further destroying confidence in the "bread winner." Now the kids, after a head start watching Pop goof all these years on TV, just know it must be true. "He can't even support the family anymore," they must think, seeing Mom out there working. Too bad this ongoing false image has to be perpetuated first by one set of circumstances and now another. Perhaps it is responsible for a good deal of the disrespect for authority and law and order that we see nowadays in the nation's youth. The smart and dirty mouths you hear in high school hallways, and the juvenile crime rate that has ballooned fantastically in the past 20 years. Kids watch TV many, many more hours than they go to school or spend with their parents. Some of them have come to believe almost everything they see there. It is time the networks reevaluate their image of Dad and perhaps try to rectify some of the myths they have created. I for one, think they have done a great deal of damage to the American family and they should try to correct it.

Nuclear power use criticized

The Herald recently published a number of avidly pro-nuclear letters. Before your readers decide nuclear is the way to go, they should consider the following.

More than 2,000 members of the American scientific and technical community, including nine Nobel laureates, signed a declaration urging the United States to "diminish the large growth rate of the nuclear program and take other appropriate steps to ensure adequate energy for the nation." It was sent to the President and members of congress on Aug. 6.

The declaration explains that the early enthusiasm for the peaceful nuclear program has steadily eroded as "the problems of major accidents, long-term radioactive waste disposal and the special health and national security hazards of plutonium became more fully recognized."

For those reasons, the statement urges a drastic reduction in new nuclear power plant construction starts and a suspension of programs exporting nuclear plants to other countries, until the problems associated with nuclear power are fully resolved.

The scientists recommended that the United States commit itself to a comprehensive energy conservation program and the development of alternative sources of energy.

Property tax debate topic for 80 years

by ANDREW NIBLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In 1895 economist Edwin R.A. Seligman called the property tax, as administered by state and local governments, "beyond all doubt one of the worst taxes known in the civilized world."

Eighty years later, the tax and how it should be levied is a subject of heated debate in many sectors — from property owners to economists, from big businessmen to legislators.

Henry J. Aaron, a University of Maryland economics professor and a member of the Brookings Institute, is perhaps the latest to have his say.

Despite its unpopularity in some circles, Aaron says, the property tax "is likely to remain the mainstay of local government finance." He said it always will be essential to maintain local and state functions, most notably public education.

But Aaron agrees that the system should be overhauled in the interest of fairness. He outlined his views in a study called, "Who Pays the Property Tax? A New View," recently made public by the Brookings Institute, a nonpartisan research organization.

Aaron disputes the notion that the tax is "regressive," that is advantageous to the affluent while burdening lower income property owners with an unfair share of the local tax load. He adds:

"Economic analysis has shown this notion to be incomplete . . . It now suggests that the property tax is probably progressive on the average, although some low income families may be exposed to heavy burdens."

A "progressive" tax is one that taxes the rich comparatively higher than the less well off.

Aaron said tax rates vary from less than 1 per cent of a property's market value to a high of 5 per cent, depending on where it is located.

At present, 65,914 local, state and municipal governments have authority to levy property taxes. According to a recent Census Bureau survey designed to measure how such taxes are administeered, close to half of the governments were rated "unacceptable" and 1 in 11 was "atrocious."

Aaron said, however, that the elimination of "very small" assessing jurisdictions could improve this record.

He also attacked "circuit breakers" — tax rebate devices designed to help property owners whose tax burden is deemed excessive by local officials. To date 23 states have implemented "circuit breakers," most of them within the last two years.

"Circuit breakers are inefficient because they target most aid within each income class on households with the greatest wealth," Aaron said.

The economist suggested that the aged and persons whose income has been reduced temporarily could be better served with a "combination of income support programs and property tax postponements."

These programs, Aaron said, would enable the elderly to hold on to their property even when their incomes are inadequate to handle the burden of property taxes. Property owners in temporary financial trouble could be granted low interest loans to pay their property taxes until their incomes improve.

Herald opinion

Fiscal action causes concern

We can only shake our heads as the Mount Prospect Village Board continues its indecisive approach to solving the village's financial crisis.

Most recently, the board voted down a proposal to increase water rates by 40 per cent. The water rate hike would have halted a drain on the village's general revenue funds, which have been used to subsidize the water department.

By the action, the board again delayed any positive and immediate approach to solving a financial problem which finance committee chairman Edward B. Rhea Jr. said will be a "crisis situation" by the end of the year.

Mayor Robert Teichert views the situation differently. He says the village could levy a utility tax — a tax on phone, gas and electricity — if the situation becomes serious enough.

By this uncertain rhetorical position the village board is avoiding its duty to the people of Mount Prospect.

Obviously, no rate increase is popular, but in sidestepping an unpopular decision Teichert and the village board have merely postponed an answer to the village's persistent financial problems.

The crisis developed in April, when the board approved $371,000 to pay village employes 8 and 9 per cent raises. To provide a temporary solution for this budget overload, the board agreed to tap almost $300,000 in funds that were produced by a quirk in tax collection.

The board could have accomplished last week a short-term solution, allowing it the room to begin confronting long-term financial problems.

In short, next summer the village board will have to revive this spring's intensely political search for either added revenue or sharply curtailed village services.

We had hoped the six trustees and Mayor Teichert could pull together to work out an effective and sensible end to the village's financial dilemma.

As a solution, we reject the option of curtailing services, for the village is already hard-pressed to meet its present obligations to its citizens. A utility tax, indeed, is a last resort. Rather, we believe the board should reexamine a water rate increase as the only feasible, though "unpopular," way for Mount Prospect to begin to climb out of its fiscal dilemma.

Target range plan should be dropped

The gun lobby is pushing a plan to use more than $9 million a year in federal funds to build target ranges throughout the country.

The money would come from the 11 per cent federal tax on guns and ammunition, funds that traditionally have been channeled into wildlife and conservation programs.

We have a better idea. Why not take the $9 million and use it to aid the thousands of persons wounded or maimed each year by guns?

It is a tribute to the power of the National Rifle Assn. that a bill authorizing the target range program has passed a House subcommittee unanimously.

It is also frightening to realize that so many of our congressmen are out of touch. With armed criminals making large portions of major cities unlivable, the pressing need is to take guns out of circulation, not to encourage their use.

We again implore Congress to wake up and ban the possession of handguns by anyone but law enforcement officers and members of recognized gun clubs.

'Credit card use favored'

There are currently two general types of charge or credit cards prevalent in this area. Large companies issue their own cards as a convenience for their customers. There are also commercial cards issued by large banks as profit-making ventures. Master Charge and Bank Americard are the most common and they charge the merchant a fee of 3 per cent to 5 per cent of each sale for its service. Each merchant knows that, when he deposits these credit card sales slips at his bank, he will receive only 95 cents to 97 cents on each dollar.

This in effect gives the credit card user a discount of 3 per cent to 5 per cent on each purchase. It also puts the burden upon the cash customer to pay for this loss of profit. If every sale was charged by every customer the merchant would have to raise his prices in the amount of the service charges. If you ask the average merchant for a 3 per cent to 5 per cent discount for paying cash he will refuse and some of them get impatient with you for even suggesting it, but he will go to the next customer and cheerfully charge his sale, accept the reduced amount and make out all of the paper work involved in addition. Most excuse this discrimination by saying "we do not want to lose the credit card business," yet they ignore the cash customers who are the larger part of their total income.

Most independent gas station owners absorb the 3 per cent to 5 per cent service fee. Major brand station operators say that the gasoline company accepts these charge slips in payment for gas and supplies at 100 cents on the dollar and they pay the service charges. This amounts to more than 2 to 4 cents per gallon and it gives some idea of the high rate of profits in this business.

THE PEOPLE most injured by this type of discrimination are the elderly who pay cash with 1940, 1950 and 1960 dollars, the poor who live from payday to payday and the government (you and me) which pays huge welfare costs.

Village business license ordinances do not prohibit this, nor any other type of discrimination. The utility tax is under fire by most of the population, at least one governor has lost his job because of a 2½ cent income tax, but cash customers are being "taxed" by authorities upon which they have no control.

If all cash customers would immediately insist upon equal treatment or refuse to deal with merchants who discriminate, this practice would stop. This insult to the intelligence of a class of people who are the only stabilizing influence on our shaky economy should be the subject of an investigation locally, by the State's Attorney or by the U. S. Attorney. It appears that a conspiracy to fix prices exists in this system.

The next time you make a cash purchase remember that you are paying the fee to finance the next customer who will say "charge it."

Where's the RTA?

I see that the CTA is improving bus service to O'Hare Airport.

Just when does anyone think that the RTA will get around to initiating any service between the airport (including the office complex around it) and any of the Chicago & North Western stations?

Without RTA, the state Department of Transportation could probably have pulled that off!

'Hands of friendship'

A family in Schaumburg, named Dracousis, wanted to extend their hands out in friendship to a couple in Skokie, by having a "fund raising" to fight the disease of muscular dystrophy, which is plighting the lives of the two sons of said couple in Skokie.

Lee Dracousis, a tall, dynamic Nordic blonde, said, "I'm going to have a garage sale!" Steve Dracousis, a tall handsome Boston Greek said "OK!" Their two children, Arthur and Stephanie, thought, that's great! Let me tell you, a charitable garage sale is nothing but hard work, sweat and tears! I know, because I've had lots of them. I live in Skokie, and except for family and close friends, I didn't get any help.

But in Schaumburg, on Crandon Lane, all of a sudden loads of neighbors who know the kind of people that Lee and Steve are started pitching in with donations of this and that, baking for days on end, but also working days and nights for a great length of time. Young teens, boys and girls, parents and other dear friends all put their "hands out in friendship," to form a real "task force." Hands are contagious! Just put one out in friendship, and it spreads quickly!

Well, that "garage sale" in two days, raised over $1,112!!! That money will go for research, patient service care, clinic, summer camps, wheelchairs and other orthopedic devices, free of charge to all victims of M.D. I know, because I'm the mother of the two boys in Skokie, and I was there to watch the "hands of friendship" extended out.

Too numerous to mention the names of all who endeavored to make Lee's garage sale an historic success, I, my husband Len, and sons, Billy and Christopher want to put our hands out and our hats off to all the lovely people on Crandon Lane, and especially to Lee and Steve and their family and dear friends for caring! God bless you all, with our love and sincere gratitude.

Father should get respect on TV

Make a boob out of Dad on the tube. Every network is doing it. They have been for many, many years. A foreign visitor once remarked: "It's amazing how well American parents obey their children!" It's no wonder that it looks that way with the TV programs featured now and in the past. On a typical one Dad gets an assignment from Mom (his other boss) and naturally botches it. Mom, after shaking her head with resignation (she knew it would happen all along), comes to the rescue to the delight of the children and the chagrin of poor old stupid bungling Dad who smiles sheepishly at his wife and kids and says something like: "Shucks, Mabel, I don't know what I'd do without you." The day is saved and Dad gets off the hook again, saved from his inept fumbling by reliable Mom.

The kids watch this sort of performance from the time they are able to toddle until high school days and beyond, and it's no wonder they have no respect for parental authority. No real father figure to emulate because they have lost all confidence in Dad as a result of watching the boob tube undermine his image for so long. How could a guy like that do anything right? And to add fuel to the flame, now most married women are working either for extras, or more than likely out of necessity, thereby further destroying confidence in the "bread winner." Now the kids, after a head start watching Pop goof all these years on TV, just know it must be true. "He can't even support the family anymore," they must think, seeing Mom out there working. Too bad this ongoing false image has to be perpetuated first by one set of circumstances and now another. Perhaps it is responsible for a good deal of the disrespect for authority and law and order that we see nowadays in the nation's youth. The smart and dirty mouths you hear in high school hallways, and the juvenile crime rate that has ballooned fantastically in the past 20 years. Kids watch TV many, many more hours than they go to school or spend with their parents. Some of them have come to believe almost everything they see there. It is time the networks reevaluate their image of Dad and perhaps try to rectify some of the myths they have created. I for one, think they have done a great deal of damage to the American family and they should try to correct it.

Nuclear power use criticized

The Herald recently published a number of avidly pro-nuclear letters. Before your readers decide nuclear is the way to go, they should consider the following.

More than 2,000 members of the American scientific and technical community, including nine Nobel laureates, signed a declaration urging the United States to "diminish the large growth rate of the nuclear program and take other appropriate steps to ensure adequate energy for the nation." It was sent to the President and members of congress on Aug. 6.

The declaration explains that the early enthusiasm for the peaceful nuclear program has steadily eroded as "the problems of major accidents, long-term radioactive waste disposal and the special health and national security hazards of plutonium became more fully recognized."

For those reasons, the statement urges a drastic reduction in new nuclear power plant construction starts and a suspension of programs exporting nuclear plants to other countries, until the problems associated with nuclear power are fully resolved.

The scientists recommended that the United States commit itself to a comprehensive energy conservation program and the development of alternative sources of energy.

Property tax debate topic for 80 years

by ANDREW NIBLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In 1895 economist Edwin R.A. Seligman called the property tax, as administered by state and local governments, "beyond all doubt one of the worst taxes known in the civilized world."

Eighty years later, the tax and how it should be levied is a subject of heated debate in many sectors — from property owners to economists, from big businessmen to legislators.

Henry J. Aaron, a University of Maryland economics professor and a member of the Brookings Institute, is perhaps the latest to have his say.

Despite its unpopularity in some circles, Aaron says, the property tax "is likely to remain the mainstay of local government finance." He said it always will be essential to maintain local and state functions, most notably public education.

But Aaron agrees that the system should be overhauled in the interest of fairness. He outlined his views in a study called, "Who Pays the Property Tax? A New View," recently made public by the Brookings Institute, a nonpartisan research organization.

Aaron disputes the notion that the tax is "regressive," that is advantageous to the affluent while burdening lower income property owners with an unfair share of the local tax load. He adds:

"Economic analysis has shown this notion to be incomplete . . . It now suggests that the property tax is probably progressive on the average, although some low income families may be exposed to heavy burdens."

A "progressive" tax is one that taxes the rich comparatively higher than the less well off.

Aaron said tax rates vary from less than 1 per cent of a property's market value to a high of 5 per cent, depending on where it is located.

At present, 65,914 local, state and municipal governments have authority to levy property taxes. According to a recent Census Bureau survey designed to measure how such taxes are administeered, close to half of the governments were rated "unacceptable" and 1 in 11 was "atrocious."

Aaron said, however, that the elimination of "very small" assessing jurisdictions could improve this record.

He also attacked "circuit breakers" — tax rebate devices designed to help property owners whose tax burden is deemed excessive by local officials. To date 23 states have implemented "circuit breakers," most of them within the last two years.

"Circuit breakers are inefficient because they target most aid within each income class on households with the greatest wealth," Aaron said.

The economist suggested that the aged and persons whose income has been reduced temporarily could be better served with a "combination of income support programs and property tax postponements."

These programs, Aaron said, would enable the elderly to hold on to their property even when their incomes are inadequate to handle the burden of property taxes. Property owners in temporary financial trouble could be granted low interest loans to pay their property taxes until their incomes improve.

Congressional wrapup

Spending cut OKd; busing tabled

Only one vote of significance was cast in each house of Congress as lawmakers returned from their Labor Day recess Sept. 3.

In the House, an amendment was approved to reduce the ration of federal funding from 75 per cent to 50 per cent for programs under the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970 which are designed to improve services to taxpayers.

The amendment was supported by Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and opposed by Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th.

In the Senate, Illinois' two senators, Republican Charles H. Percy and Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, both voted to table an amendment which would prohibit the Justice Dept. from "promoting" school busing.

Following are the votes of members of the Illinois congressional delegation on these issues.

House

FEDERAL FUNDING. The amendment to reduce the federal share of grants under the Intergovernmental Personnel Act from 75 to 50 per cent passed 226-168. It was attached to a bill authorizing $50 million for the programs.

Proponents of the amendment said the original intent of Congress was that such programs eventually would be funded on a 50-50 basis. Rep. John Rousselot, R-Cal., said, "It is time that the federal government stop funding programs that states would ordinarily have little interest in it if it were not for the federal funds."

Opponents argued that good programs would be killed because states can't raise the 50-per-cent share.

YES: Republicans Crane, Hyde, Erlenborn, Anderson, O'Brien, Michel, Railsback, Findley and Madigan; Democrats Russo and Simon.

NO: Democrats Mikva, Metcalf, Murphy, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, Hall and Price.

NOT VOTING: Republicans Derwinski and McClory; Democrats Fary and Shipley.

Senate

BUSING. Motion to table an amendment preventing the Justice Department from promoting school busing, passed 42-35.

The amendment would have prohibited Justice from advocating busing as a remedy in school desegregation lawsuits. The amendment would not have impaired the department's role of enforcing court-issued busing orders.

The vote on the motion to table generally was on lines between those favoring busing as a desegregation tool, and those opposed to busing in principle.

YES, Percy and Stevenson.

Resolution weighs U.N. withdrawal

More than half the members of the U.S. House of Representatives, including U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, have signed a resolution urging that the United States "consider the option" of withdrawing from the United Nations if suggestions to expel Israel from the U.N. are adopted.

Crane also is one of 24 signers of a letter sent to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger calling on him to instruct Ellsworth Bunker, ambassador to Panama, to cease negotiations toward surrender of U.S. sovereignty over the Panama Canal Zone.

The letter cites the "Snyder Amendment," adopted by the House on June 26 by a vote of 246-164, which would deny funds for such negotiations.

CRANE SAID the sponsorship by 250 members of the House of the resolution regarding Israel "makes it clear that the majority of the House will not tolerate the purge of a rightful U.N. member for purely political reasons."

He also reported that he now has 24 sponsors for his legislation which would reduce U.S. contributions to the U.N. from 30 per cent of the total U.N. budget to 5.6 per cent, reflecting the percentage represented by the U.S. population compared to total population of member nations.

The bill is pending before the House Committee on International Relations.

O'Hare works on 2nd runway

Construction work has begun on a second runway at O'Hare Airport and is expected to take 45 days to complete, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said Thursday.

Work began at midnight Thursday on runway 4L-22R. Airplanes normally taking off and landing on the runway will be diverted to other runways. The flight path faces the curve at Higgins Road and will not be used until sometime in December, the FAA said.

Construction work includes resurfacing and shoulder and electrical projects. The job is similar to the one completed in mid-August, which the FAA said only caused minor delays at the airport.

The FAA explained there will be increased traffic on other runways. They warned that certain areas, depending on wind and weather conditions, may be utilized more than others.

Art Institute features Steuben Glass

A nationwide exhibition of Steuben Glass, organized last fall by the Toledo Museum of Art to celebrate 70 years of fine American glass production, opens Saturday in the A. Montgomery Ward Gallery of the Art Institute of Chicago.

For the major glass retrospective, the first of its kind ever assembled, close to 100 examples were selected from the vast, varied and distinguished production of Steuben Glass. Loans for the traveling display came from public and private collections throughout the United States.

The Steuben production falls into two main periods: the years under the direction of Frederick Carder, from the founding of the original Steuben Glass Works in 1903 until 1932; and the period when the firm was under direction of Arthur A. Houghton Jr., from the foundation of a new Steuben Glass within Corning Glass Works until Houghton's retirement in 1972.

FREDERICK CARDER, son of an English potter, came to the United States in 1903. At the invitation of T. G. Hawkes, a cut glass company in Corning, N.Y., Carder established a glass factory to produce blown forms for the Hawkes cutters.

His Steuben Glass Works, named for Steuben County in New York where Corning is located, was acquired by Corning Glass Works in 1918 and became the Steuben division of the larger company. Carder was appointed its art director.

The 29 examples of Carder Glass in the exhibition range from Art Nouveau to abstraction. Carder's work is especially noted for its color.

In 1933 Carder, then 70, retired and Arthur A. Houghton Jr., great-grandson of the founder of Corning Glass Works, took over leadership of the Steuben division.

SIXTY-EIGHT pieces from the Houghton years, examples clearly defining the newly developed clear crystal, are also part of the exhibit. The focal point of this group is "The Great Ring of Canada," a gift of the people of the United States to the people of Canada on that nation's centenary in 1967. Composed of engraved crystal plaques held in a framework of stainless steel, it is the largest piece ever produced by Steuben.

Other examples include the 1940 collection of "Designs by Twenty-Seven Contemporary Artists," a duplicate of President and Mrs. Truman's wedding gift to Princess Elizabeth in 1947, and functional objects such as bowls, vases, candlesticks and table crystal. Many of these pieces are still being made.

"Steuben, Seventy Years of American Glassmaking" continues at the Art Institute through Oct. 26.

Playwright offers one to local theater

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Playwright Jack Sharkey enjoyed Country Club Comedy Theatre's production of "Accommodations" so much last spring he accepted director Tom Ventriss' challenge.

Write a play specifically for the four-member cast of "Accommodations?" Why not? And so he did.

"Who's On First?" opens at the Mount Prospect theater next Friday and certainly Sharkey will be in attendance, weighing audience reaction. This, his ninth play, was easier to write than any of the others because "it is really tailored to this cast," he said. "I didn't have to envision the characters. I knew how they would react."

And so enthusiastic was the Elk Grove playwright about the project that he went home after seeing "Accommodations" on a Friday night and wrote the first act of "Who's On First?" that same weekend, a fact he does not like to publicize for fear people will think he threw it together.

"NORMALLY it takes six months to a year to write a good comedy. 'M' took a year and a half, and its complexities and belly laughs are well worth the time, but 'Kiss Or Make Up' and 'Who's On First?' took, respectively three weeks and 10 days. The only reason I can give for the speed is that the plot gimmick was such that it created all the complications automatically, and all I had to do was set them down.

"I wish all my efforts could be like that, but generally the work is grueling, though I don't love it any less, and time consuming. My newest effort, 'Take a Number, Darling,' for instance, has been in first-act form since April," he said.

Practice makes perfect, but even though Sharkey now has a better understanding of the technical aspects of playwriting from doing it over and over again, he remains very self-critical about his work.

"Since I do not have the luxury of out-of-town tryouts of my plays, I strive to make them better than Broadway-bound comedies, because each must 'fly right' the first time. That's why I'm so self-critical, polishing every line till it gleams and typing up every last plot thread."

"Who's On First?" represents a luxury for Sharkey, who was able to attend rehearsals this week at Country Club Comedy Theatre and make necessary last-minute alterations.

"I DO EVEN more rewriting once I see one on its feet. I always see something I wish I had done," he said.

Sharkey's previous eight plays, all optioned by Samuel French, Inc. have been produced throughout the country by both professional and amateur groups. "Here Lies Jeremy Troy," his first, has been slated for Broadway four different times. But because of intended producers, directors or actors being called away at the last minute, each attempt failed.

Negotiations are now underway to bring Paul Lynde into New York to do "Meanwhile Back On The Couch."

Even if Sharkey has yet to brag of a Broadway hit, there is no mistaking his plays are appealing to audiences everywhere, even in England.

His works, primarily single set, modern dress comedies that the entire family can enjoy, very much fit the bill for dinner-theater. No off-color lines, stiff language or depressing after-taste.

"Sex runs rampant as in other shows but it is clean, funny, man-wants-women-but-something-always bollixes things-up," he said. "When sex runs in my shows, it just runs into snags."

MOST OF SHARKEY'S plays have their roots down deep in reality with plenty of slapstick and exaggerated action thrown in for good measure.

"If there is a choice between saying something funny or falling out of a window, I think it's funnier to have the character fall out of the window. You can always stick in a funny line."

"Who's On First?" is somewhat offbeat from his other plays.

"It is a bit more insidious in plot," describes Sharkey, who calls it "funny and horrifying at the same time."

"Roomies!", his eighth play, which premiered this summer in Cockeysville, Md., is a slam-bang farce.

Sharkey makes a conscious effort to remain inoffensive and always include a happy-ever-after ending.

"If there should be an accounting after death, I don't want to be remembered for having written anything offensive."

Author of science fiction and mystery novels as well as plays, Sharkey feels the psychological rewards are greatest in playwriting, particularly comedies — "just making people laugh," he said.

He does not write drama because "I really don't enjoy it," though he quickly added, "I'd like to do just one as a challenge to myself, to see if I could do it."

A NEWS MEDIA writer for Allstate Insurance in Northbrook, Sharkey writes all his plays in his spare time. Early in his career he lived in New York for a year and as a free lance writer "almost starved." With a wife and three children, aged six to 11, he enjoys the security of a full-time position.

Yet, his job does not seem to interfere at all with his creativity. In addition to writing "Who's on First?" last spring, Sharkey and Dave Riser, musical director of Palatine High School, co-wrote "Betsy," a musical in honor of the U.S. Bicentennial. It will be presented by students next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the high school.

Bill Daily is slated to star in "A Gentleman and a Scoundrel" at Pheasant Run Playhouse in February and Vernon Schwartz, director for Drury Lane Theatres, is considering several of Sharkey's plays for future production.

AND IF THE contributions of one Sharkey are not enough, Jack's younger brother, Tom, is also a playwright. His comedy, "The Confidence Game," opens Tuesday at Drury Lane North in Lincolnshire with Forrest Tucker in the lead role.

The two brothers respect each other's work, though "we utilize entirely different techniques," said Sharkey.

"We never did see eye to eye on how to write a comedy."

In addition to writing "Who's on First?" last spring, Sharkey and Dave Riser, musical director of Palatine High School, co-wrote "Betsy," a musical in honor of the U.S. Bicentennial. It will be presented by students next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the high school.

Bill Daily is slated to star in "A Gentleman and a Scoundrel" at Pheasant Run Playhouse in February and Vernon Schwartz, director for Drury Lane Theatres, is considering several of Sharkey's plays for future production.

AND IF THE contributions of one Sharkey are not enough, Jack's younger brother, Tom, is also a playwright. His comedy, "The Confidence Game," opens Tuesday at Drury Lane North in Lincolnshire with Forrest Tucker in the lead role.

The two brothers respect each other's work, though "we utilize entirely different techniques," said Sharkey.

"We never did see eye to eye on how to write a comedy."

'Cowboy' takes Campbell back to top of charts

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

Glen Campbell has made it back to the top of the pop charts with his single "Rhinestone Cowboy," which appropriately enough has been chosen as the title for his new Capitol album, an album that is his best in two years.

I have always preferred Campbell's singing when he has challenged himself — tried to be more emotional, to strain past the natural blandness of his voice. Two years ago he did it with "I Knew Jesus (Before He Was a Star)" and on this album he repeats with "Rhinestone Cowboy" and, to an even greater extent, with Randy Newman's "Marie." On "Marie" the pain in Campbell's voice is heard as he sings, backed only by a piano.

Another highlight is Lambert and Potter's "Country Boy" with its believable lyrics about a person trapped in the big city by a job and the business of trying to get ahead.

Lambert and Potter produced the album, and it is less middle-of-the-road and more country/rock than Campbell's recent albums. The album's only failure is a too facile version of Smokey Robinson's "My Girl." I doubt that Campbell will ever have "soul."

OTHER RECENT country releases include:

"Feelin's" by Loretta Lynn and Conway Twitty and "Home" by Loretta Lynn (both MCA). Ms. Lynn is one of the country's better singers and when she teams with Twitty the combination is nearly unbeatable. The 10 songs are mostly upbeat, with several more pop than country. Their voices blend well together on such strong songs as "Little Boy Love," "Some Kind of a Woman" and "I'll Never Get Tired (of Saying I Love You)."

The style is softer on Ms. Lynn's solo album, which is a fine song collection. There's nothing really controversial on the album, like the recent "The Pill," but those who like somewhat earthy lyrics will enjoy "You Take Me to Heaven Every Night."

Ms. Lynn relies less on the background music to carry the songs as she expands her singing style. "Always Wanting You" and "Bring Some of It Home" are strong songs, and there are the usual Lynn versions of several recent country hits.

"I'VE NEVER LOVED Anyone More" by Lynn Anderson (Columbia). This is the first Anderson album I have ever recommended. The stereotype country vocal inflections (an excess of the past) is gone, as she sings with more control and much lighter, prettier results. Producer Glenn Sutton and arranger Buddy Skipper also deserves credit for the lovely way it all fits together, including the backup singers.

My favorites from the album are the title song with its waltz-like beat, "I'm Growing Up all Over Again," "Faithless Love" and "Love Has No Pride."

"Every Time You Touch Me (I Get High)" by Charlie Rich (Epic). Producer Billy Sherrill has taken Rich further into pop music and away from country — a trend begun with "Behind Closed Doors," his smash hit. Rich's bluesy, rockabilly past is all but forgotten, with the exception of the closing "Midnight Blues."

STILL, THE ALBUM is a fine pop release, and Rich can put more bite into even a pretty song than can someone like Andy Williams. Rich and Sherrill should reverse the trend next time, however. There is such a thing as being too pretty, and this album is on the borderline.

"Head Over Heels" by Poco (ABC). One of country/rock's finest and pioneering bands continues to produce good music, despite numerous defections, such as that of Richie Furay.

The band's clean vocal harmonies are its best asset, and the vocals shine on the near a capella "Keep On Tryin'" and "Let Me Turn Back To You." The band also uses some Latin rhythms on songs like "Sittin' On a Fence" which bears a close resemblance to Stephen Stills' Latin-spiced work.

The book stall

"The Quiet Revolution"
by Robert G. Dunlop
Chilton Book Co., $8.95

Business in general and big business in particular have lost the esteem of many Americans. Author Robert G. Dunlop offers an alternative, up-with-business impression in "The Quiet Revolution."

A look at the progressive side of business is presented by Dunlop, former chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Sun Oil Co. By his account, corporate life is increasingly personal, flexible and responsive to the needs of people inside the organization and in the community.

DUNLOP BELIEVES that change in the philosophy of people and work may prove the most revolutionary trend in business. The outdated master-slave concept of employe relations is evolving into programs aimed at development of human potential. The knowledge that a satisfying work relationship enables an employe to fully use his capabilities and to achieve a satisfying, useful life contribute to the commitment.

The author goes on to lionize business for its efforts to meet the demands of society. He makes the point that profits are essential in the campaign to eliminate poverty and other social ills. A discussion of the energy supply outlook and the work of ambitious oilmen are included in the book.

Dunlop's prescriptions for whatever ails business and accounts of industry success are self-serving, on occasion. "The Quiet Revolution" is laced with lessons in economics that offer a small chunk of education on the workings of business.

FOR THE CONSUMER interested in a businessman's viewpoint on what it takes to meet the changing demands of society, the book is worthwhile.

"Muhamad Ali,"
by Wilfrid Sheed.
Crowell, $19.95

Why write about Ali? Novelist and critic Sheed poses that question shortly after launching into his beautifully produced book about the odd career of the loquacious prizefighter and world champion.

Sheed seems to feel it's important to understand what and who Muhammad Ali is, to search for him "through the looking glass."

He writes, "We need Ali because we need puzzles. Howard Hughes is not enough. But is there someone else inside this super-salesman — a secret inviolable self? If so, what does it look like? Does it match his face or his antics or is it quite different?

SHEED NEVER quite finds the answers, but he is entertaining and insightful en route. He takes Ali from his boxing days in Louisville to the peak of his career and downward. Sheed is at his best delving into the massive wave of hatred that engulfed Ali when he ducked the draft.

Always, the writing is clear, precise, amusing. His descriphive passages are marvelous. Listen to him on Ali delivering a portion of his favorite lecture on "Life's Intoxication."

"He quotes from it now, and as usual his voice changes, like a child reading aloud, and he even pronounces words slightly differently, dressing them up in their Sunday best."

This is an intriguing exercise in personal biography that makes compelling reading. The black and white and color photographs festoon the book and alone are worth the price of admission.

A real 'laughter' opens 30th season for DPTG

by BOB GALLES
(A review)

Des Plaines Theater Guild begins its 30th season with a hearty laugh in an excellent production of the comedy-musical, "Where's Charley?"

The entire work, combining music, comedy and dance, provides a night of entertainment that may turn out to be one of the better offerings in the area this season.

Highlighting the fine cast is Lawrence McCauley in the title role of Charley Wykeham. He steals the show in two and a half hours of rousing comedy and antics.

Set in 1890s England, the play revolves around the antics of 10-year college student Wykeham and his roommate, Jack Chesney (Jim Buckley).

BOTH HAVE marriage on their minds to a pair of lovelies, Kitty Verdun, (Barbara Gatto) and Amy Spettigue (Jeanne Haight).

To make a zany plot short, Charley ends up impersonating his aunt from Brazil — "where the nuts come from" — in order to secure the hands of Kitty and Amy for himself and roommate.

The resulting chases and continual changes from aunt to Charley give McCauley a real chance to shine, and he takes full advantage of that.

Credit director Dennis Zacek for fine staging and choreographer Marianne Lubershane for good chorus line work. Several of the ensemble numbers done in front of the closed curtain are crisp and well-executed on a miniscule area of stage.

Other enjoyable characters include Jim Beddia as the crotchety, auntchasing Mr. Spettigue and Bob Heinzen as Sir Francis Chesney.

THOUGH HE MAY be a bit young for the part, Michael Fijolek does an adequete job as Brassett, the butler. Two bit parts, Wilkinson and the photographer, are handled exceptionally well by Marshall Kievit. And Paula Unell is radiant as the beautiful aunt, Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez.

The music is good, too, especially if you sit away from the drummer who occasionally gets a little carried away in the small confines of the Guild's theater.

Additional performances are tonight and Saturday and again Sept. 19, 20, 26, and 27 at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines.

VT's next attraction is 'Twigs'

"Twigs" is the next attraction for Village Theatre, to be presented at 8:30 p.m. Sept. 27 and Oct. 3 and 4 at Prospect High School.

The action for 'Twigs' takes place in four kitchens of three sisters and their octogenarian mother, all living separately in a big city. The time is the day before Thanksgiving when all feel the tension from a new plan not to share the traditional family dinner.

The three daughters are played by Alice Olriksen of Long Grove, A. J. Riegler, Des Plaines and Karen Knudsen, Palatine, with mother played by Doris Silver, Rolling Meadows. All are non-stop chatterboxes, which is the main comic ingredient.

SOMETIMES DARING to contradict them will be Les Griffith, and Chuck Cell, Arlington Heights, Bob Randolph of Mount Prospect, Arnold Silver, Rolling Meadows, and Roy Quid, Schaumburg, in the roles of three husbands and two friends of the husbands.

Judy Castaldi, Mount Prospect, is directing the play, and Jack Behl, Rolling Meadows, is designing the kitchens where the action occurs.

Tickets for the Friday performance are $3 adults, $1.50 students; both Saturdays, $3.50. Information, 259-3200.

Nice to hear Julie Wilson again

IT'S BEEN TWO and a half years since songstress Julie Wilson entertained at the Top of the Towers of the Arlington Park Hilton (then Towers) Hotel.

But nothing has changed. She flashes that same cameo complexion, pulled back hari and form fitting, too - tight - to - sit - down - in, black lacy sequined evening gown.

Julie's from the old school. She's racked up some 30 years of show biz

by Genie Campbell

experience, but her image is still going strong.

And it's great to once again listen to that distinctive, booming, husky voice that is well suited for such old favorites as "Sentimental Journey" and "I Wish You Love."

"I'm an old-fashioned gal with old-fashioned values," sings Julie. Then she grabs the long hot pink boa from offstage, inquires of a "Sir Galahad" from the audience to assist her in wrapping up and breaks into "I'm a bad, bad woman but I'm good, good company."

And there's nothing old-fashioned about the amusing takeoff on the hit theme song, "Fiddler."

Julie doesn't steal, borrow or imitate. Her style, her delivery, her arrangements are all her own. A real pro, who paid her dues on the once-thriving New York scene, Latin Quarter and Copacaban, to name a few clubs.

Now she lives with her two sons in Omaha.

"If they want me, they can call me in Omaha," she once said in an interview. That stubborn, independent style fits Julie and the Top of the Towers very well, too. Catch her before she leaves Sept. 27.

In continuing the parade of blockbuster talent, DAVID LONN, producer of ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE, announced this week that SANDY DENNIS will star as Maggie in "CAT ON A HOT TIN ROOF" opening at the theater Sept. 24 and continuing through Oct. 12.

The Arlington production will present the 'new' ending which playwright Tennessee Williams added to the drama just last year. When he first wrote "Cat" he said he felt compelled to give if a happy-ever-after finale. But with the public a little more mature and now capable of accepting compromise endings, he found himself able to change it to what he believes is more realistic.

Also featured in the production will be DAVID SELBY as Brick, RONALD BISHOP as Big Daddy and GERALDINE KAY as Big Mama, with PORTER VAN ZANDT directing.

An authentic eight-course ELIZABETHAN FEAST will take place next Friday in the BROTHERHOOD OF THIEVES RESTAURANT at the CHATEAU LOUISE RESORT in Dundee.

The feast will be a complete recreation of 17th meals featuring "Queen's Gate Soup," "Turtle Dove," "Boar's Head," and Royal Sturgeon with ale and claret served throughout the meal. However, the price is right up-to-date. It's $21 per person.

A new entertainment policy begins tonight at FU-LAMA GARDENS in Schaumburg. In keeping with the restaurant's Polynesian cuisine and atmosphere, the HAOLE HAWAIIANS TRIO will be featured in the Blue Dolphin Lounge Friday and Saturday nights. The group includes "HAWAIIAN EDDIE" on guitar, KATHY STEVENSON on bass and SHERWOOD FORREST, the leader, on Hawaiian guitar.

Footlighters complete casting for '10 Indians'

Entr'acte

Also Lisa Marquette, Bob Fisher, Janice Johnson, Kathleen Lyons, Mike Wilm, Steve Homeyer, Valerie Spain, Kevin Marquette and Ed Johnson.

Auditions for the remaining openings in the Metropolitan Youth Symphony Orchestra are Sept. 21. Accomplished trombonists, string bass players, violinists and first violin players are invited to call the orchestra secretary at 465-3082 for applications.

Now in its 16th year, the Metropolitan Youth Symphony Orchestra is composed of about 100 high school and college-aged musicians from the city and suburbs. Rehearsals are held in downtown Chicago every Sunday afternoon beginning next month. Several public performances are scheduled, including a final concert in May in Orchestra Hall.

A Bicentennial art fair

Algonquin-Lake In The Hills Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club is hosting a Bicentennial art and craft fair Saturday, Oct. 4, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Towne Park adjacent to the Algonquin Village Hall.

Exhibitors' booths will be rented at $7.50 for an 8x10-foot space and should be reserved by Sept. 27. Application blanks are now available by writing Gerrie Roof, 1513 Washington St., Lake In The Hills, Ill. Some spaces will be available the day of the fair on a first-come basis.

THE NEWCOMERS suggest that exhibitors wear pioneer-style clothing or at least long skirts in keeping with the Bicentennial theme.

The committee is seeking demonstrators of old-time crafts, and those who respond will be welcome to exhibit their crafts at no charge.

Ms. Roof, 658-5882, or Kathy Kirstein, 658-5994, have further information.

IF YOU'RE NOT SURE WHAT YOUR CHILD WILL DO NEXT, YOU CAN RENT A BALDWIN BEFORE YOU BUY.

Baldwin's rental plan is for parents who want to look and listen before they leap into a major purchase. For a modest rental payment, plus a small delivery charge, you can rent a Baldwin piano. Then, if you decide to buy, everything you paid will be applied to the purchase price.

Nice to hear Julie Wilson again

IT'S BEEN TWO and a half years since songstress Julie Wilson entertained at the Top of the Towers of the Arlington Park Hilton (then Towers) Hotel.

But nothing has changed. She flashes that same cameo complexion, pulled back hari and form fitting, too - tight - to - sit - down - in, black lacy sequined evening gown.

Julie's from the old school. She's racked up some 30 years of show biz

by Genie Campbell

experience, but her image is still going strong.

And it's great to once again listen to that distinctive, booming, husky voice that is well suited for such old favorites as "Sentimental Journey" and "I Wish You Love."

"I'm an old-fashioned gal with old-fashioned values," sings Julie. Then she grabs the long hot pink boa from offstage, inquires of a "Sir Galahad" from the audience to assist her in wrapping up and breaks into "I'm a bad, bad woman but I'm good, good company."

And there's nothing old-fashioned about the amusing takeoff on the hit theme song, "Fiddler."

Julie doesn't steal, borrow or imitate. Her style, her delivery, her arrangements are all her own. A real pro, who paid her dues on the once-thriving New York scene, Latin Quarter and Copacaban, to name a few clubs.

Now she lives with her two sons in Omaha.

"If they want me, they can call me in Omaha," she once said in an interview. That stubborn, independent style fits Julie and the Top of the Towers very well, too. Catch her before she leaves Sept. 27.

In continuing the parade of blockbuster talent, DAVID LONN, producer of ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE, announced this week that SANDY DENNIS will star as Maggie in "CAT ON A HOT TIN ROOF" opening at the theater Sept. 24 and continuing through Oct. 12.

The Arlington production will present the 'new' ending which playwright Tennessee Williams added to the drama just last year. When he first wrote "Cat" he said he felt compelled to give it a happy-ever-after finale. But with the public a little more mature and now capable of accepting compromise endings, he found himself able to change it to what he believes is more realistic.

Also featured in the production will be DAVID SELBY as Brick, RONALD BISHOP as Big Daddy and GERALDINE KAY as Big Mama, with PORTER VAN ZANDT directing.

An authentic eight-course ELIZABETHAN FEAST will take place next Friday in the BROTHERHOOD OF THIEVES RESTAURANT at the CHATEAU LOUISE RESORT in Dundee.

The feast will be a complete recreation of 17th meals featuring "Queen's Gate Soup," "Turtle Dove," "Boar's Head," and Royal Sturgeon with ale and claret served throughout the meal. However, the price is right up-to-date. It's $21 per person.

A new entertainment policy begins tonight at FU-LAMA GARDENS in Schaumburg. In keeping with the restaurant's Polynesian cuisine and atmosphere, the HAOLE HAWAIIANS TRIO will be featured in the Blue Dolphin Lounge Friday and Saturday nights. The group includes "HAWAIIAN EDDIE" on guitar, KATHY STEVENSON on bass and SHERWOOD FORREST, the leader, on Hawaiian guitar.

Closets full? – try a want-ad

Superjock Larry Lujack, idol of the air waves, takes his ease in his posh office.

Larry Lujack a 'potty' mouth?

by JOE SWICKARD

(A review)

Dear me. I just don't know where to start about "Superjock, the loud, frantic, nonstop world of a rock radio DJ," the autobiography of Larry Jujack, the rock-and-roll game warden.

About the only new thing revealed in this collaboration with newsman Daniel A. Jedlicka is that ol' Lar is a potty mouth. For the rest of your $6.95, you discover that one of the highest paid disc jockeys is egotistical, abrasive and doesn't think much of his job, the music he plays, nor the people who listen to it.

All this should be a surprise to you who listen to him. And for those who don't listen to him, why would you buy the book anyway?

Lujack has hopes for his autobiography.

Q: "I can't wait to see your book in the stores right up there next to 16 Magazine and Tiger Beat."

A: "Nope. I want it right up there with Len O'Connor's. I'm going first class."

FOR YOUR MONEY you get a peek at Lujack's childhood along the banks of the Wapsipinican River in Iowa and his romps with his pet Lucky the Duck. There are some hard times with Daddy going to college, and then Superjock relives high school/high jinks in Idaho with Mark Lindsay and Paul Revere, of Paul Revere and the Raiders featuring Mark Lindsay. (You didn't really expect him to go to school with John Lennon so you take what you get.)

After high school, with a brief stint of fire watching in the Idaho woods, our hero finds himself at college and talks his way into his first disc jockey job by lying.

What follows is an itinerary of his various jobs from Boston to the Pacific Northwest. This is spiced with tidbits about unnamed announcers' problems and loves with the female (mostly) listeners.

Off-the-air repartee between Lujack and his engineer pervades the book. Lujack's wit falls flat on its face in print. It must be spoken with a droll delivery. But would you really want to read this aloud?

THE BIG REVELATION is that Lar and engineer Spacey Dave say dirty words to each other when not on the air.

Lujack is starting to sound as tired on the air as in person. His constant refrain that he's in it just for the bucks is getting shopworn.

He's beginning to sound like your buddy who's always going to tell the boss where to go, get into some real "he-togs," and take off for the tall timber and groove with the critters and Mother Nature.

Even with his book, after ol' Superjock fades from the airwaves will he matter any more than Barney Pip and his trumpet or Dick Biondi and peanut butter pizzas? Probably not, but you can look at eight pages of black and white photos in the book.

I'd give it a 65, Dick. The beat's ok, I can understand most of the words, and you can dance to it. Anyway, it's good enough for rock and roll.

Superjock Larry Lujack, idol of the air waves, takes his ease in his posh office.

Larry Lujack a 'potty' mouth?

by JOE SWICKARD

(A review)

Dear me. I just don't know where to start about "Superjock, the loud, frantic, nonstop world of a rock radio DJ," the autobiography of Larry Jujack, the rock-and-roll game warden.

About the only new thing revealed in this collaboration with newsman Daniel A. Jedlicka is that ol' Lar is a potty mouth. For the rest of your $6.95, you discover that one of the highest paid disc jockeys is egotistical, abrasive and doesn't think much of his job, the music he plays, nor the people who listen to it.

All this should be a surprise to you who listen to him. And for those who don't listen to him, why would you buy the book anyway?

Lujack has hopes for his autobiography.

Q: "I can't wait to see your book in the stores right up there next to 16 Magazine and Tiger Beat."

A: "Nope. I want it right up there with Len O'Connor's. I'm going first class."

FOR YOUR MONEY you get a peek at Lujack's childhood along the banks of the Wapsipinican River in Iowa and his romps with his pet Lucky the Duck. There are some hard times with Daddy going to college, and then Superjock relives high school/high jinks in Idaho with Mark Lindsay and Paul Revere, of Paul Revere and the Raiders featuring Mark Lindsay. (You didn't really expect him to go to school with John Lennon so you take what you get.)

After high school, with a brief stint of fire watching in the Idaho woods, our hero finds himself at college and talks his way into his first disc jockey job by lying.

What follows is an itinerary of his various jobs from Boston to the Pacific Northwest. This is spiced with tidbits about unnamed announcers' problems and loves with the female (mostly) listeners.

Off-the-air repartee between Lujack and his engineer pervades the book. Lujack's wit falls flat on its face in print. It must be spoken with a droll delivery. But would you really want to read this aloud?

THE BIG REVELATION is that Lar and engineer Spacey Dave say dirty words to each other when not on the air.

Lujack is starting to sound as tired on the air as in person. His constant refrain that he's in it just for the bucks is getting shopworn.

He's beginning to sound like your buddy who's always going to tell the boss where to go, get into some real "he-togs," and take off for the tall timber and groove with the critters and Mother Nature.

Even with his book, after ol' Superjock fades from the airwaves will he matter any more than Barney Pip and his trumpet or Dick Biondi and peanut butter pizzas? Probably not, but you can look at eight pages of black and white photos in the book.

I'd give it a 65, Dick. The beat's ok, I can understand most of the words, and you can dance to it. Anyway, it's good enough for rock and roll.

by ED FINK
of Klehm's Nursery

When planting is planned there is another dimension that should be considered. Flowers are planted in the spring to bring summer color to a garden so why not plan for landscape color for fall and winter. Few of nature's visual treats are as dramatic as the spectacular colors that appear on trees and shrubs beginning in October. So, if plants that change color are added to your landscarping you get a double treat . . . rich, green foliage in summer and for fall you can choose from different fabulous colors. Some even offer a triple feature . . . spring flowers, cooling green summer foliage and extravagantly colored fall follage.

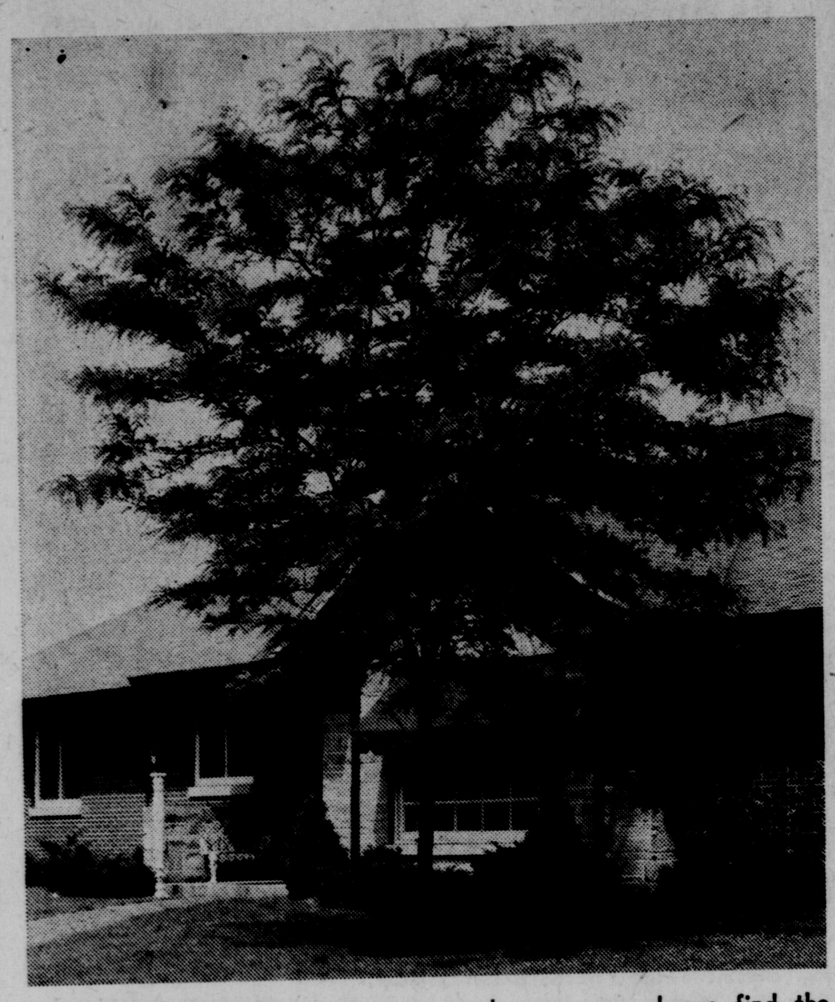
There is such an impressive list of fall color plants that whatever the landscape need there is a plant to fill the bill. For instance, there are creeping ground covers, shrubs of different heights for foundation planting, hedges, accents or eye-catching specimens. When it comes to trees, there are some that are only 10 to 12 feet at maturity or towering giants that will reach 50 to 75 feet into the sky.

Starting at ground level for a ground cover a good choice is the Juniper Andorra Compacta. As a Juniper it is a member of a very rugged family, fast growing and are among the plants that give a lot for the landscaping dollar. The Andorra Compacta grows to only about 8 inches tall but will have a spread of about five feet. Where grass is hard to grow or on an eroding slope this will add color to an otherwise bare area. During the warm months it has attractive green feathery, but dense foliage, but come winter it turns to an eye-catching purple. For a creeping evergreen to cascade over rail ties or a rock wall consider the Blue Rug Juniper. With its year round blue color it has an oriental look.

In the shrub group there are few that are more dramatic than the Burning Bush. Botanically it is the Euonymus Alatus and biblically it is the "Burning Bush" from which God spoke to Moses. In the fall when frost begins to nip foliage it becomes a blazing red that is a landscape delight. Add to the list of fall color makers the Barberries. These are bright red but there is also the Barberry Thumbergii that turns to yellow-orange. Cotoneasters, Viburnums and the Witchhazel are others to look at. In addition to their fall beauty many of these have fall and winter berries that birds feed on. Not to be overlooked are the Redtwig and Yellowtwig dogwoods. In the winter the redtwig stems are bright red that stand out sharply against the snow. Or, the bright yellow of the yellowtwig. If the location you have for planting is moist these will prosper even if the spot doesn't get too much sun.

For low growing trees you just can't do better than crabapples. Some varieties will grow from 12 to 15 feet, but there are others that will go to 20 feet. All have spectacular spring flowers and dense, lush summer foliage. You can choose crabapples whose foliage turns bright fall colors and all of them bear large crops of showy fall berries. These are special favorites of many species of birds. Or, the Washington Hawthorn. Come August these are heavily laden with clusters of bright orange berries. A special virtue of the Hawthorns is that they are very tolerant of city pollution.

Now we come to the majestic shade trees that, come fall and winter, are truly spectacular. From these you can choose your favorite color and have a tree to suit your preference. All have thick foliage for dense summer shade and when they turn color they have to be seen to be believed. Among the most popular in this area are the Maples. Sugar Maples for red and orange, Autumn Flame, October Glory and Red Sunset Maples for vivid reds. In the Oak family, the sturdy Pin Oak and Northern Red become brilliant red and are choice selections. Ginkgo, Honey Locust, Norway Maple and Clump Paper Birch for yellow. For purple you can plant a Purple Leaf Plum that will give you more than fall color . . . this will have reddish purple foliage all summer, too.



THE HONEY LOCUST is just one of the many trees and shrubs that can add fall color to your landscape. No matter what your needs, you can always find the right plant to meet your landscaping requirements.

Sow grass seed in fall

Nature sees to it that uncut field grasses bloom and drop their seeds in late summer. In that way she ensures perpetuation of the species. The seed falls on warm soil at a time when hot days are growing shorter, cool nights longer, dews heavier and soil moisture more favorable. These factors add up to better germination and seedling growth.

Likewise, there's no better time than fall for the homeowner to start a new lawn, or to seed into an existing thin lawn. The earlier it's done the better — so as to give maximum time for the seedlings to become established before winter. Seeding late in the fall isn't quite as good because the seed may not sprout or really develop until the following spring. So seed in late August through early October, if you possibly can.

Besides timing, there are other key steps which will help make it a successful seeding. First, prepare the soil properly: new lawn areas should be turned over and leveled to pea-size consistency; existing lawns should have all bare or thin spots surface-scratched.

Second, use only top quality seed. When you use "bargain" seed you not only get less robust plants, but you may be getting a high percentage of worthless chaff and filler (there goes part of the "bargain"!) Worst of all, the cheaper seed usually goes through a cheap seed-cleaning process, if at all, and may contain thousands upon thousands of weed seeds, including those classified as noxious. Once you get them growing in your lawn, there is no easy way to get rid of them. By planting the very best seed you can buy, you avoid the problem, and end up with superior grass plants.

Third, give the seedlings a sturdy start by fertilizing the lawn just before or soon after seeding.

Fourth, once germination starts, keep the soil moist until the new plants are established. It probably means daily watering (twice daily is even better) whenever there's no rainfall.

Trees dying in air we breathe

These days a breath of fresh air, really fresh, clean air, is beginning to be a rare thing. The National Arborist Association warns that trees are having their problems with air pollution too.

Sulfur dioxide has been recognized as a plant pollutant since the early 1900's. Hydrogen fluoride and silicon tetrafluoride have been seriously affecting trees since World War II when the aluminum industry began to flourish and production increased in steel, phosphate fertilizers, brick, pottery and fero-enamels. The two fluorides, present in the minerals used by those industries, are released when the materials are heated. Recently installed efficient controls have greatly reduced the fluoride output into the atmosphere, but local problems still do exist in some places.

Oxidants such as Ozone and peroxyacetylnitrate come from the emissions of autos and industries, mix with the air and undergo photo-chemical reactions in sunlight. They can cause acute damage to broad-leaved trees and conifers.

For nearly a century ammonia, hydrogen chloride, chlorine, and ethylene have been identified as injurious to plant life. Particulates, solid particles contained in smoke and dust from cement production, metal refining and foundry operations, haze the air. Oxides of nitrogen derive from auto exhausts, petroleum refining and the manufacturing of nitric acid, paint, roofing, rubber, soap, and nylon. They are known to be toxic to trees and plants.

Low-lying areas such as river beds and valleys framed by ridges and mountains frequently suffer from a meteorological condition called "inversion." This traps the pollutants and concentrates them close to the ground. Singly or in combination, it takes only a fraction of a pollutant part per million parts of air to affect trees and plants adversely.

If one of your trees or shrubs shows symptoms which puzzle you, and seem unreleated to injury, disease, insect infestation or water and nourishment problems perhaps it is a result of insidious particles and gases in the air.

Fruit trees need attention

Apple, peach, cherry and plum trees frequently suffer from injury to the bark during the winter. James E. Schuster, Horticulture Extension Adviser at the DuPage County Cooperative Extension Service says this also applies to many smooth barked ornamental trees too.

Areas most vulnerable to winter injury are the trunk itself, crotches (branch and trunk) and large limbs. One major injury is caused by hungry rabbits feeding on the trees especially on young ones. You can reduce the problem by using a tree wrap (not always effective since the animal may eat through it to get to the bark), by using a repellent (again not always effective — it wears off), or by using screen or hardware cloth collars around the base of all the trees.

Another cause of damage is due to standing water around the base of the fruit trees. The water encourages diseases that may kill the trees says Schuster. Younger trees and newly transplanted trees are more vulnerable than old established trees. Provide good drainage to eliminate this problem.

A major cause of winter injury is the fluctuating temperatures. On sunny winter days, the warm sun may warm the bark on the south to west sides of the tree as much as 30 degrees above the air temperature. At night, the bark temperature cools off quickly and thus cells in the bark are killed. The following summer, the injury becomes apparent as the bark splits open.

Prevent this type of injury by wrapping the trunk and major branches with burlap or special tree wrapping paper. Remove the wrapping when new growth starts in the spring. Schuster warns that aluminum foil must not be used.

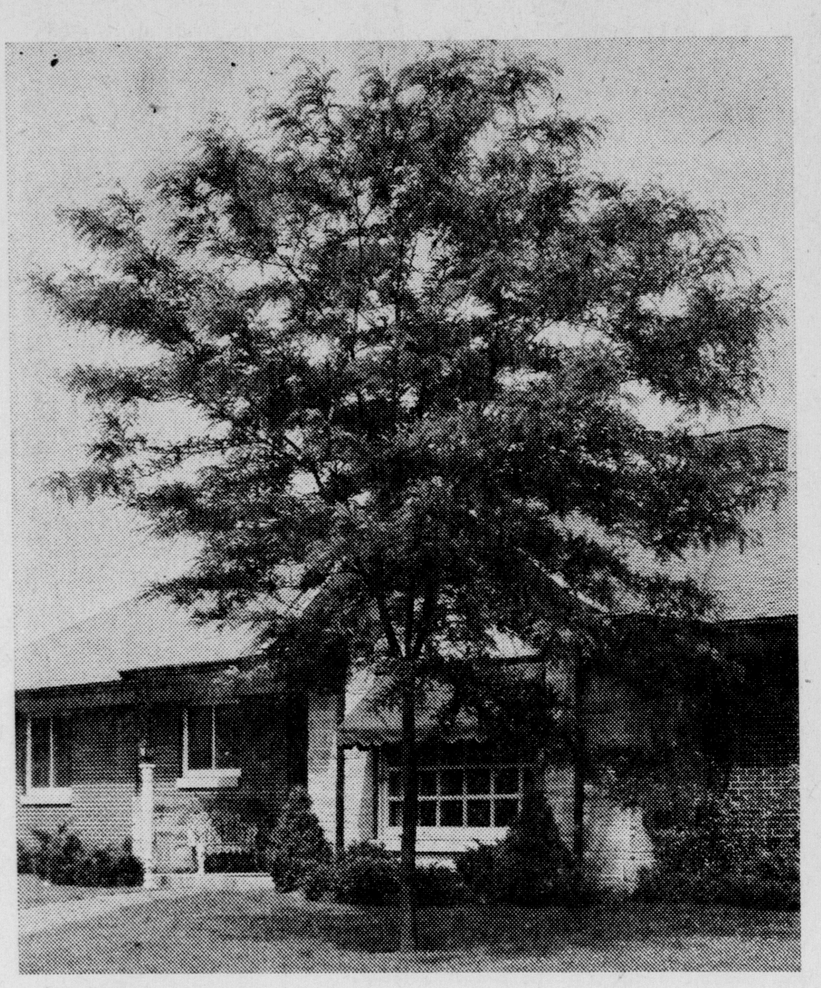
A special virtue of the Hawthorns is that they are very tolerant of city pollution.

Now we come to the majestic shade trees that, come fall and winter, are truly spectacular. From these you can choose your favorite color and have a tree to suit your preference. All have thick foliage for dense summer shade and when they turn color they have to be seen to be believed. Among the most popular in this area are the Maples. Sugar Maples for red and orange, Autumn Flame, October Glory and Red Sunset Maples for vivid reds. In the Oak family, the sturdy Pin Oak and Northern Red become brilliant red and are choice selections. Ginkgo, Honey Locust, Norway Maple and Clump Paper Birch for yellow. For purple you can plant a Purple Leaf Plum that will give you more than fall color . . . this will have reddish purple foliage all summer, too.



THE HONEY LOCUST is just one of the many trees and shrubs that can add fall color to your landscape. No matter what your needs, you can always find the right plant to meet your landscaping requirements.

Sow grass seed in fall

Nature sees to it that uncut field grasses bloom and drop their seeds in late summer. In that way she ensures perpetuation of the species. The seed falls on warm soil at a time when hot days are growing shorter, cool nights longer, dews heavier and soil moisture more favorable. These factors add up to better germination and seedling growth.

Likewise, there's no better time than fall for the homeowner to start a new lawn, or to seed into an existing thin lawn. The earlier it's done the better — so as to give maximum time for the seedlings to become established before winter. Seeding late in the fall isn't quite as good because the seed may not sprout or really develop until the following spring. So seed in late August through early October, if you possibly can.

Besides timing, there are other key steps which will help make it a successful seeding. First, prepare the soil properly: new lawn areas should be turned over and leveled to pea-size consistency; existing lawns should have all bare or thin spots surface-scratched.

Second, use only top quality seed. When you use "bargain" seed you not only get less robust plants, but you may be getting a high percentage of worthless chaff and filler (there goes part of the "bargain"!) Worst of all, the cheaper seed usually goes through a cheap seed-cleaning process, if at all, and may contain thousands upon thousands of weed seeds, including those classified as noxious. Once you get them growing in your lawn, there is no easy way to get rid of them. By planting the very best seed you can buy, you avoid the problem, and end up with superior grass plants.

Third, give the seedlings a sturdy start by fertilizing the lawn just before or soon after seeding.

Fourth, once germination starts, keep the soil moist until the new plants are established. It probably means daily watering (twice daily is even better) whenever there's no rainfall.

Trees dying in air we breathe

These days a breath of fresh air, really fresh, clean air, is beginning to be a rare thing. The National Arborist Association warns that trees are having their problems with air pollution too.

Sulfur dioxide has been recognized as a plant pollutant since the early 1900's. Hydrogen fluoride and silicon tetrafluoride have been seriously affecting trees since World War II when the aluminum industry began to flourish and production increased in steel, phosphate fertilizers, brick, pottery and fero-enamels. The two fluorides, present in the minerals used by those industries, are released when the materials are heated. Recently installed efficient controls have greatly reduced the fluoride output into the atmosphere, but local problems still do exist in some places.

Oxidants such as Ozone and peroxyacetylnitrate come from the emissions of autos and industries, mix with the air and undergo photo-chemical reactions in sunlight. They can cause acute damage to broad-leaved trees and conifers.

For nearly a century ammonia, hydrogen chloride, chlorine, and ethylene have been identified as injurious to plant life. Particulates, solid particles contained in smoke and dust from cement production, metal refining and foundry operations, haze the air. Oxides of nitrogen derive from auto exhausts, petroleum refining and the manufacturing of nitric acid, paint, roofing, rubber, soap, and nylon. They are known to be toxic to trees and plants.

Low-lying areas such as river beds and valleys framed by ridges and mountains frequently suffer from a meteorological condition called "inversion." This traps the pollutants and concentrates them close to the ground. Singly or in combination, it takes only a fraction of a pollutant part per million parts of air to affect trees and plants adversely.

If one of your trees or shrubs shows symptoms which puzzle you, and seem unreleated to injury, disease, insect infestation or water and nourishment problems perhaps it is a result of insidious particles and gases in the air.

Fruit trees need attention

Apple, peach, cherry and plum trees frequently suffer from injury to the bark during the winter. James E. Schuster, Horticulture Extension Adviser at the DuPage County Cooperative Extension Service says this also applies to many smooth barked ornamental trees too.

Areas most vulnerable to winter injury are the trunk itself, crotches (branch and trunk) and large limbs. One major injury is caused by hungry rabbits feeding on the trees especially on young ones. You can reduce the problem by using a tree wrap (not always effective since the animal may eat through it to get to the bark), by using a repellent (again not always effective — it wears off), or by using screen or hardware cloth collars around the base of all the trees.

Another cause of damage is due to standing water around the base of the fruit trees. The water encourages diseases that may kill the trees says Schuster. Younger trees and newly transplanted trees are more vulnerable than old established trees. Provide good drainage to eliminate this problem.

A major cause of winter injury is the fluctuating temperatures. On sunny winter days, the warm sun may warm the bark on the south to west sides of the tree as much as 30 degrees above the air temperature. At night, the bark temperature cools off quickly and thus cells in the bark are killed. The following summer, the injury becomes apparent as the bark splits open.

Prevent this type of injury by wrapping the trunk and major branches with burlap or special tree wrapping paper. Remove the wrapping when new growth starts in the spring. Schuster warns that aluminum foil must not be used.

Don't be reluctant to harvest

By Bill Meachem

My early training was in a commercial greenhouse growing cut flowers. As soon as a rose, chrysanthemum, carnation or orchid was ready to cut, it was picked. Even today I don't seem to have any reluctance to pick a flower or vegetable when it is ready.

However, I have noticed many people who have strange feelings about picking or harvesting their vegetables. Early this summer I saw many lettuce plants bolting to seed because folks were reluctant to pick them when they were ready. True, they may not have been the size of store lettuce, but they were ready.

Also, I saw some zuchini squash growing to monstrous sizes before they were cut. These should be harvested when they are six to nine inches long — not two to three feet when they are almost inedible except as baked squash.

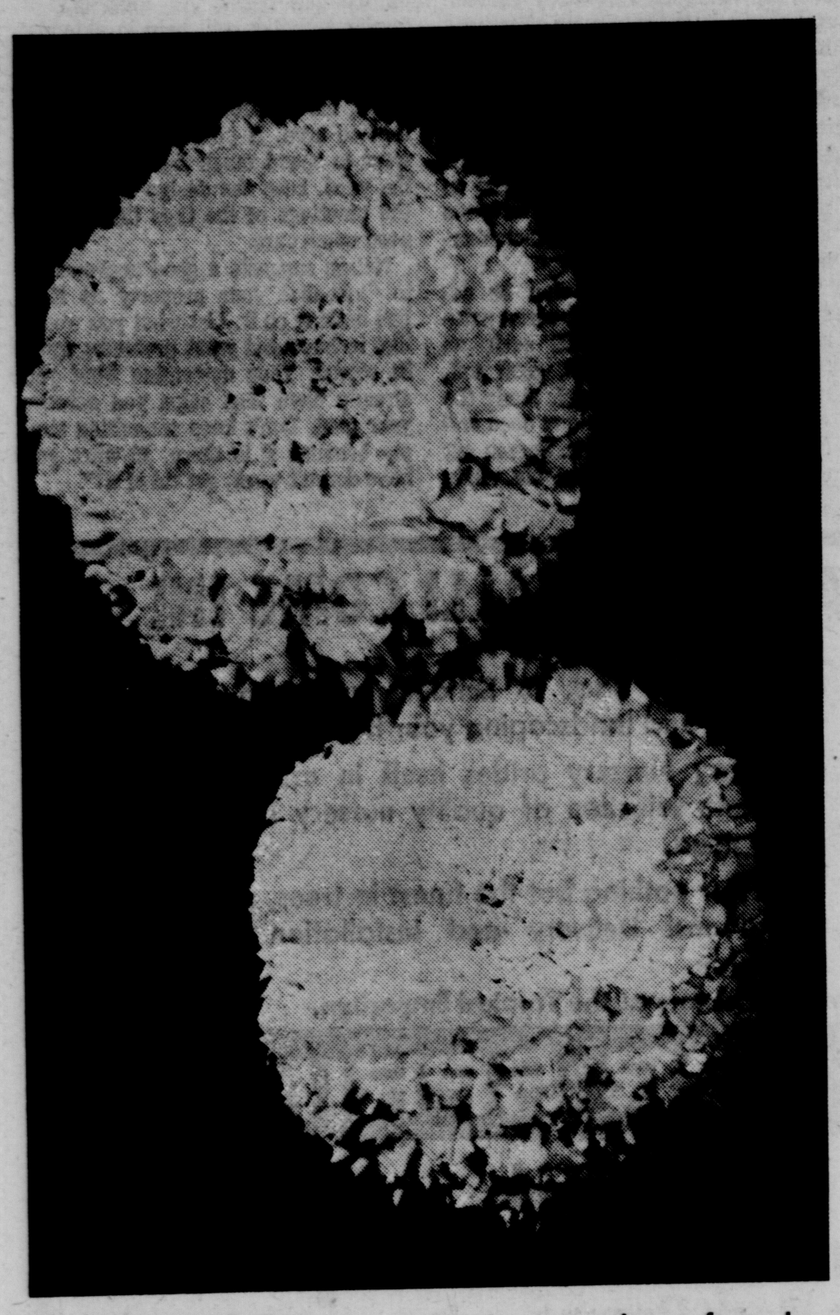
Another thing that many folks shy away from is thinning out their seedling plants, both flowers and vegetables. They will sow seeds and let all come up and mature. The result is a crowded mass of weak plants. Much, much better plants — and resulting crops — could have been harvested if the little plants had been thinned so only a few were allowed enough growing room to mature properly.

Finally, there is a reluctance to spraying for insect pests. Now I don't say you should spray just for the sake of spraying. But if there are pests which are damaging your plants, you should control them if you value the plants and the time and effort you already put in growing them.

I like to see cut flowers from the garden indoors. They add a delightful dash of color. No special or artistic arrangements are necessary — only a few flowers in a vase.

Of course, when I bring flowers inside, I will always spray them with garden spray before I place them in a vase. Outdoors a few green bugs like aphids on the stem won't be noticed; indoors on the dinner table they'll be the center of attraction.

Speaking of bugs, in our area we are having a return of the Japanese beetle. These are tough pests to control. I am using a trap near my roses, which the beetles find a delightful morsel.



THE 56-YEAR SEARCH for a white marigold by David Burpee, of the Burpee Seed Company is over. Above is the White Marigold for which Burpee paid a home gardener from Iowa $10,000. The payment makes the white marigold the costliest flower in the world.

Prepare strawberry bed for winter

Prepare your strawberry bed for winter by applying a good mulch.

There is a rather formidable list of advantages for mulching strawberries says James E. Schuster, Extension Adviser at the DuPage County Cooperative Extension Office in Wheaton, but almost any one of them is sufficient in itself to justify the practice.

Proper mulching prevents injury to the strawberry plants' roots from alternate freezing and thawing of the soil and heaving of the plants. Severe cold may also damage roots and make them more susceptible to diseases.

Extremely low temperatures may also injure the crowns where the flower buds for next year's crop are already formed.

In addition to preventing injurious effects of cold temperatures, mulches conserve soil moisture during the fruiting season, help keep down weeds, keep your fruit clean and make a cleaner, more pleasant place for pickers to work.

Mulches also reduce danger from late spring frosts by delaying the start of growth in the spring.

Wheat straw is the best winter mulch material for strawberries. Other straws or leaves may pack too densely on top of the plants and smother them.

A settled mulch about two or three inches thick, both over and between rows, is recommended for our area. This requires about three to four tons of straw per acre. For home gardens, four bales of straw per 1,000 square feet should suffice.

Timing of your mulching is important. If applied too early, the mulch may retard growth or prevent plants from hardening properly. This leaves them more susceptible to cold injury. On the other hand, if mulching is delayed too long, injury may occur before the mulch is applied. Don't mulch before the plants become dormant, a condition best indicated by foliage color and temperature.

Proper time to mulch is after a few good frosts in the fall — when leaves have started to turn red but before the temperature drops much below 20 degrees F. Strawberry plants usually become dormant about mid-November in the Northern Illinois area.

Mulch protects your strawberry plants but it also protects the winter weeds, too. Keep your planting as free of weeds as possible until the mulch is applied. If the strawberry patch is clean and a clean mulch is used, weeds shouldn't be a problem next spring.

How to house your plants

Whether a friend has just given you a single tomato in a pot or you have a whole indoor garden of potted primroses, ferns, chrysanthemums, or chives, the time is bound to arrive when you zero in on how to house your pet plants.

What kind of container should you choose? Elegant china? Tough redwood? Glazed oriental pottery? Woven baskets, plastic or wire? A cast-iron jardiniere? Or unglazed clay?

Among pot materials, the old-fashioned unglazed clay ranks highest among the experts. As the book points out, "these classic, time-honored containers are hard to beat." Clay pots help the plant — water evaporates through the sides and helps the roots stay cooler. Clay pots usually range in size from 2 to 18 inches in diameter — and all have a drainage hole.

For people with indoor plants, especially, containers of glazed pottery have a lot of appeal. These containers come either with or without a drainage hole. If you want the esthetic pleasure of a decorative container and it doesn't have a drainage hole, it's best to grow the plant in a slightly smaller clay pot inside the cachepot.

Plastic pots and baskets have their virtues. The material is light-weight, less expensive than clay, and available in the same range of sizes.

You can come up with a real decorator look using all white plastic pots, but exercise care when you choose bright colors which may tend to appear garish. Plastic pots with drainage holes are preferred to those without.

Some container gardeners go for wooden boxes or planters. Redwood does especially well outdoors. It's rot-resistant, long-lasting and attractive. Be sure to check how it's put together before you select a box or planter — metal banding is often used and it's quick to rust.

Like glazed pottery, baskets offer fascinating possibilities for interior decoration. But on the practical side, all of them rot very quickly when subjected to constant moisture. So if you want to use a basket, put the plant first into a utilitarian pot and then into the basket.

Pools, plants can co-exist

GROWING WITH JERRY BAKER

Whether or not to have a swimming pool is a big question with lots of homeowners these days. Many people who love their gardens hesitate to install a pool because they are afraid that the pool and its associated chemicals will kill the lawn and shrubs.

From the horticultural aspect I have no objection to a swimming pool, as long as it is well designed, placed, constructed, maintained and landscaped. Pools are highly recommended by most landscape architects and designers.

Pool chemicals seem to be the primary concern of most home gardeners. They kill flowers, shrubs and evergreens. This need not be the case. Plain, old-fashioned Lawn & Garden Gypsum should be spread on the lawn area, in the flower beds and evergreen rows, at a rate of fifty pounds over 1,000 square feet two or three times a season. Gypsum keeps soil loose so harmful chemicals will flush right out.

The shape of the pool should compliment the home. It should become part of the landscape and lend pleasure and beauty. It shouldn't be a big round or square hole in the ground or an oversized tin can in the middle of the lawn. A good pool builder will take into consideration the style of the building and design the pool to blend gracefully.

Above-the-ground pools present more of a challenge. On large lots, soil can be mounded up around the exposed sides and sandstone steps added, leading up to the deck. Pines and groundcovers can be used at the base, so that the mound gives the illusion of being a natural hill.

Small lots are a bit more difficult, but I have used arborvitaes in random groups with spreading junipers in small beds in between and have accomplished a very pleasant result.

A garden is to be lived in and enjoyed, not just admired. So, don't deprive your family or yourself the pleasure of a swimming pool if you have the room, patience and capital.

Got a lawn problem?

Grass thinning out . . . weeds starting to take over . . . brown patches here and there . . . too much shade?

Then read this!!!

Twenty three years ago Merion Bluegrass was introduced to the American home owner. We were enthusiastic about Merion because of its resistance to leafspot, a grass disease that was quite common and a great bother in Kentucky bluegrass lawns. Merion had other interesting qualities. It made a dense carpet like lawn, it was dark green in color and seemed to withstand dry weather better than grasses then available. Because of Merion's apparent superiority, we put most of our production in Merion Bluegrass.

Within a few years we became disillusioned with some of Merion's characteristics. We learned that it was susceptible to powdery mildew when planted in lightly shaded areas. We found a chemical to combat mildew at a low cost. We were again disappointed to learn that Merion just would not thrive in extremely hot weather or warm climates. Finally we discovered that Merion was prone to a disease known as smut for which there was no cure. We realized that, at best, Merion in many cases was only a six to seven year lawn grass.

As a result of these disappointments we set out to discover a satisfactory grass that was disease resistant, shade tolerant, could withstand rough usage and still be beautiful in appearance. We set aside 14 acres of land to be used only for lawn grass research. We built a greenhouse so that grass studies could be conducted the year around. A scientific laboratory was set up for the purpose of studying grass diseases, cross-breeding and numerous other phases of grass culture. A Doctor of Plant Pathology was placed in charge of our research efforts. Exploration trips were made all over America, Canada, England, South America and other locations in search of outstanding grasses.

As a result of this research activity, we developed and found over 1,000 strains or species of promising lawn grasses. Two of these discoveries are available to you today. They are WARREN'S® A-20 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS and WARREN'S® A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASSES BenSun Brand. Other new lawn grasses uncovered by this research will be made available as soon as they are tested by independent research organizations who have no financial interest in the sale of seed or sod.

WARREN'S A-20 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS is highly resistant to most grass diseases. It greens up earlier in the spring and stays green longer in the fall. It has a pleasant dark green color and makes a dense carpet like lawn that that can be mowed as low as one half of an inch . . . or up to two inches. It is rated first in overall performance by research organizations and universities that are doing lawngrass research.

WARREN'S A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS BenSun is the answer for problem lawns where dense shade make a decent lawn impossible. WARREN'S A-34 BenSun does well in up to 65% shade, yet thrives in open sunlight. It also carries a high performance rating by research organizations and universities.

WARREN'S A-20 and WARREN'S A-34 BenSun have been Performance Proven on tens of thousands of lawns, golf courses and athletic fields across the nation. Should you have a lawn problem, why not rip out that old lawn and replace it with either A-20 or A-34 BenSun. You will be pleased with the results.

For an excellent lawn next year, now is the time to plant sod or seed. Warren's A-20 sod and BenSun A-34 Sod or Seed planted in late summer or early fall developes a strong root system through the autumn and spring months to give you a carpet of exquisite green lawn next summer when you'll want your lawn to be at its peak.

WARREN'S A-20 is available as sod or sod plugs. WARREN'S A-34 BenSun is available as sod, sod plugs or seed. They may be obtained through your Garden Supply Dealer, Landscape Contractor or Nurseryman.

Got a lawn problem?
Grass thinning out . . . weeds starting to take over . . . brown patches here and there . . . too much shade?
Then read this!!!
Twenty three years ago Merion Bluegrass was introduced to the American home owner. We were enthusiastic about Merion because of its resistance to leafspot, a grass disease that was quite common and a great bother in Kentucky bluegrass lawns. Merion had other interesting qualities. It made a dense carpet like lawn, it was dark green in color and seemed to withstand dry weather better than grasses then available. Because of Merion's apparent superiority, we put most of our production in Merion Bluegrass.
Within a few years we became disillusioned with some of Merion's characteristics. We learned that it was susceptible to powdery mildew when planted in lightly shaded areas. We found a chemical to combat mildew at a low cost. We were again disappointed to learn that Merion just would not thrive in extremely hot weather or warm climates. Finally we discovered that Merion was prone to a disease known as smut for which there was no cure. We realized that, at best, Merion in many cases was only a six to seven year lawn grass.
As a result of these disappointments we set out to discover a satisfactory grass that was disease resistant, shade tolerant, could withstand rough usage and still be beautiful in appearance. We set aside 14 acres of land to be used only for lawn grass research. We built a greenhouse so that grass studies could be conducted the year around. A scientific laboratory was set up for the purpose of studying grass diseases, cross-breeding and numerous other phases of grass culture. A Doctor of Plant Pathology was placed in charge of our research efforts. Exploration trips were made all over America, Canada, England, South America and other locations in search of outstanding grasses.
As a result of this research activity, we developed and found over 1,000 strains or species of promising lawn grasses. Two of these discoveries are available to you today. They are WARREN'S® A-20 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS and WARREN'S® A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASSES BenSun Brand. Other new lawn grasses uncovered by this research will be made available as soon as they are tested by independent research organizations who have no financial interest in the sale of seed or sod.
WARREN'S A-20 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS is highly resistant to most grass diseases. It greens up earlier in the spring and stays green longer in the fall. It has a pleasant dark green color and makes a dense carpet like lawn that that can be mowed as low as one half of an inch . . . or up to two inches. It is rated first in overall performance by research organizations and universities that are doing lawngrass research.
WARREN'S A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS BenSun is the answer for problem lawns where dense shade make a decent lawn impossible. WARREN'S A-34 BenSun does well in up to 65% shade, yet thrives in open sunlight. It also carries a high performance rating by research organizations and universities.
WARREN'S A-20 and WARREN'S A-34 BenSun have been Performance Proven on tens of thousands of lawns, golf courses and athletic fields across the nation. Should you have a lawn problem, why not rip out that old lawn and replace it with either A-20 or A-34 BenSun. You will be pleased with the results.
For an excellent lawn next year, now is the time to plant sod or seed. Warren's A-20 sod and BenSun A-34 Sod or Seed planted in late summer or early fall developes a strong root system through the autumn and spring months to give you a carpet of exquisite green lawn next summer when you'll want your lawn to be at its peak.
WARREN'S A-20 is available as sod or sod plugs. WARREN'S A-34 BenSun is available as sod, sod plugs or seed. They may be obtained through your Garden Supply Dealer, Landscape Contractor or Nurseryman.

Landscape your home carefully

by DOROTHEA BROOKS
United Press International

No matter the size of your home, there's probably an extra room that's not giving you full living value.

It's the room that has ground for a floor, your property lines for its walls, and for a ceiling, the canopy created by structures, tree plantings, and the sky.

Unless you have given careful thought to landscaping your home, the chances are this outdoor room is not being utilized to its fullest. Even homes with numerous trees and extensive plantings are not necessarily landscaped.

"Merely planting trees and shrubs is not landscaping," says William R. Nelson, Jr., author of Landscaping Your Home. "Designing a landscape is an art — the growing of plants is a craft. Landscaping means creating a plan to make the best use of the space available in the most attractive way. It means shaping the land to make the most of the site's natural advantages. It means building such necessary structures as fences, walls, patios. Finally, it means selecting and growing the plants that best fit the design.

THE FUNCTION OF landscape architecture is not only to create and preserve beauty but to make the surroundings useful. The smaller the home grounds, the greater the need for proper planning."

In his book, Nelson outlines the principles of landscape architecture from planning and site analysis through care of plantings.

He emphasizes it is not necessary that the total design be completed at once. It can be an ongoing thing, but it is essential that an overall plan be developed. As money is available to finish different sections, these sections will fit into the total picture. Many families, he said, have found it helpful to include a regular budget item for landscaping purposes. "Whether it is $50 or $500, it can be made to go a long way when you know exactly what is to be done, how much you can buy, and how much you can do yourself."

In establishing landscape needs, Nelson suggests, first study the floor plan, window locations, the primary living areas, to establish a relationship between living and service areas in the house and similar areas out of doors. Consider, also, design from outside the house as viewed by yourself and others in order to most effectively blend the house with its site.

"The final landscape plan," he says, "will depend upon your lot and its orientation to wind and sun, your house plan, the amount of money, time and effort you want to spend on maintenance, your family's interests and activities, and even the neighborhood itself."

Nelson urges that a plan be designed to preserve all of the best natural resources of the site, such as trees, brooks or streams, good soil, rock outcroppings and turf. Study the views; keep attractive views open and framed for greatest value. Screen out unattractive and objectionable views either by structures or plantings. Develop pleasing lawn and planting areas in relation to the views from the main rooms in the house. Consider the effects of sun, rain, snow, wind, heat and cold; how the house should be sited if it is not yet built, or as is more often the case, how these effects can be modified where necessary on an existing house. An inventory of family activities will help in planning the overall layout, Nelson says.

Allow space for outdoor living needs, the children's play area, and a service area. If your family will not want to spend much time working in the yard, keep the design simple and the plantings of the type that do not need much care.

Nelson suggests a good approach is to "visualize your property as if it had nothing on it. List what you would like to have and what problems must be solved. Then determine what you already have that helps you achieve your goal. Don't keep something simply because it is there. If what you have doesn't work, get rid of it!"

To mulch or cultivate

By Bill Meachem

Over the years we have heard so much about mulching plants to save watering and weeding time.

As we all know, a mulch is a covering over the soil. It could be straw, hay, leaves, grass clippings, compost — even a sheet of black plastic. The purpose is to prevent weeds from growing and also stop water from evaporating from the soil surface.

Now, I am going to take sides with the anti-mulchers or the cultivators. These people control their weeds by occasionally going through the garden with a hoe or pronged cultivator and chopping off the weeds. When they do this the surface crust of the soil is completely broken up.

This year I cultivated my vegetable garden rather than mulching it. My plot was 10 by 20 feet and it took me approximately 15 minutes to cultivate using a four-pronged "potato hook" cultivator.

It was very dry in the early part of the season. I had to water frequently. It was so dry even those people who mulched had to add water to the soil, too.

One reason for cultivating my plot of ground was the soil. It is of a heavy clay texture. Under normal conditions this soil would have held a lot of water under a mulch. Maybe even too much water under normal circumstances.

After cultivating, the water flowed into the soil rather than off the soil over the crusted surface. In other words, cultivating can be an aid in better use of irrigation water.

But I guess my main reason for not mulching was the pests that mulches draw. There are two pests that enjoy a mulch as much as the plants: slugs and sow bugs. In fact, neighbors are asking me where all the slugs were coming from this year. The answer is, most likely from under the mulches they put around their plants.

Slugs, of course, are snails without the shells. They chew on foliage at night. A saucer of stale beer level with the soil surface will help control them.

I am not completely against mulching. I transplanted several large shrubs this spring and mulched them with wood chips. They thrived, and one reason I am sure, was the wood chips. But slugs don't climb shrubs, so they weren't a bother.

As a precaution, I sprayed the ground first with garden spray, before mulching.

So, take your pick: cultivate or mulch. Both have their place and neither is the answer to all garden woes, at least in my opinion.

Ask Andy

1st electric generator a dynamo

HOW DOES AN ELECTRIC GENERATOR WORK?

Even the mightiest electric generator has only two main parts. Some sort of energy is needed to keep one of the parts turning, while the other stays still. Its duty is to change mechanical energy into the energy of electric current. This astounding magic is called electromagnetic induction — though nobody can explain exactly why or how it works.

In the 1830s young Michael Farady cleaned up the lab to pay for his college education. Between lectures he pondered the relationship between magnetism and electric current. While experimenting with a magnet and copper disk, he learned how to generate a small current — and invented the dynamo.

Faraday's little dynamo had a hand crank to turn a copper disk so that it cut through the lines of force surrounding a small magnet. It generated a current through a loop or circuit of copper wire. A huge modern generator used the same basic principle to send a mighty surge of electricity through its power lines.

Part of the mystery lies in the invisible force lines that loop outside a magnet from pole to pole. An armature of metal is used to cut through these magnet lines again and again. For reasons unknown, this sends the surging current through the wire circuit attached to the generator.

As a rule, the armature is an iron core inside miles of coiled copper. The armature or the mighty magnet may be spun around to cut through the magnetic force lines. The generator uses some kind of mechanical energy to keep it spinning. This may be a steam engine or a waterfall. Faraday used muscle power to turn a hand crank.

The generator does not create energy but uses mechanical energy to induce electrical current through a wire circuit. It does this by generating voltage, a pushing power that sets electrons jogging all through the wires. The energy in the current is the motion of zillions of electrons.

Faraday's little dynamo sent electrons marching in one direction through his wire circuit. This was direct current, or DC. Our big generators spin and reverse in half-cycles, inducing electrons to jog back and forth. This is AC, or alternating current — which jogs to and fro at so many frequencies per second. The power is increased with bigger armatures, more powerful magnets and faster spinning.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Stephen Ruffner, 11, of Youngstown, Ohio, for his question:
WHY DO DOGS BURY BONES?

The ancestors of our tame dogs were wild and hungry meat-eaters. They hunted like wolves and other wild members of the dog family — and sometimes food was not plentiful. Some of them started saving leftovers for a later meal. They dragged off the remains and hid them in the bushes or, when no bushes were handy, scooped dirt over the meaty bones. The most successful dogs dug holes and buried the leftovers.

Wild dogs had learned this survival trick long before they were adopted into the human family. Nowadays most tame dogs know that plenty of food can be expected. But they never forget the old lesson their ancestors learned in the wilds. So just in case their human friends run short of dog food, now and then the family dog grabs a bone and buries it in the garden. Chances are he forgets where he hid it, but if he gets really famished he usually remembers and digs up his leftovers.

Ask Andy

1st electric generator a dynamo

HOW DOES AN ELECTRIC GENERATOR WORK?

Even the mightiest electric generator has only two main parts. Some sort of energy is needed to keep one of the parts turning, while the other stays still. Its duty is to change mechanical energy into the energy of electric current. This astounding magic is called electromagnetic induction — though nobody can explain exactly why or how it works.

In the 1830s young Michael Faraday cleaned up the lab to pay for his college education. Between lectures he pondered the relationship between magnetism and electric current. While experimenting with a magnet and copper disk, he learned how to generate a small current — and invented the dynamo.

Faraday's little dynamo had a hand crank to turn a copper disk so that it cut through the lines of force surrounding a small magnet. It generated a current through a loop or circuit of copper wire. A huge modern generator used the same basic principle to send a mighty surge of electricity through its power lines.

Part of the mystery lies in the invisible force lines that loop outside a magnet from pole to pole. An armature of metal is used to cut through these magnet lines again and again. For reasons unknown, this sends the surging current through the wire circuit attached to the generator.

As a rule, the armature is an iron core inside miles of coiled copper. The armature or the mighty magnet may be spun around to cut through the magnetic force lines. The generator uses some kind of mechanical energy to keep it spinning. This may be a steam engine or a waterfall. Faraday used muscle power to turn a hand crank.

The generator does not create energy but uses mechanical energy to induce electrical current through a wire circuit. It does this by generating voltage, a pushing power that sets electrons jogging all through the wires. The energy in the current is the motion of zillions of electrons.

Faraday's little dynamo sent electrons marching in one direction through his wire circuit. This was direct current, or DC. Our big generators spin and reverse in half-cycles, inducing electrons to jog back and forth. This is AC, or alternating current — which jogs to and fro at so many frequencies per second. The power is increased with bigger armatures, more powerful magnets and faster spinning.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Stephen Ruffner, 11, of Youngstown, Ohio, for his question:
WHY DO DOGS BURY BONES?

The ancestors of our tame dogs were wild and hungry meat-eaters. They hunted like wolves and other wild members of the dog family — and sometimes food was not plentiful. Some of them started saving leftovers for a later meal. They dragged off the remains and hid them in the bushes or, when no bushes were handy, scooped dirt over the meaty bones. The most successful dogs dug holes and buried the leftovers.

Wild dogs had learned this survival trick long before they were adopted into the human family. Nowadays most tame dogs know that plenty of food can be expected. But they never forget the old lesson their ancestors learned in the wilds. So just in case their human friends run short of dog food, now and then the family dog grabs a bone and buries it in the garden. Chances are he forgets where he hid it, but if he gets really famished he usually remembers and digs up his leftovers.

East delivers old 1-2 punch to South

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Here is a really tough hand from an all expert game. South plays a low spade from dummy. If East fails to overtake his partner's queen and shift to a diamond, declarer will romp home. At least declarer will work out a winning line of play. If the spade is ducked he wins the next spade, ruffs out the last two spades, runs off all his trumps and works the proper end play against West.

If East hops up with the king as he should, but shifts to a club, South rises with the ace, ruffs out spades, draws two rounds of trumps, leads his queen of clubs and West is caught in an early end play.

In the actual play East did put up his king of spades, did shift to a diamond and was rewarded by scoring 100 well-earned points.

Why did he lead the diamond? He explained at length that it was the presence of the four clubs to the 10 in the dummy.

He pointed out that there were so many combinations where that 10 of clubs could develop into a trick that he just had to lead the diamond.

M-A-S-H does it again? — a hit!

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK — The M*A*S*H 4077 unit has lost two of its stars but none of its odd stripe of humor as it moves to a new night.

Trapper John McIntyre and Henry Blake will be missed in the move from Tuesday to Friday on CBS, but Hawkeye, Radar, Frank Burns and Hot Lips Houlihan carry on the war in Korea with their own special blend of sanity, comedy and horror.

In the first episode, an hour-long special from 7 to 8 p.m. today, Mike Farrell, formerly of "The Interns," plays B.J. Hunnicutt, the doctor who will replace Trapper. Wayne Rogers, who played Trapper, defected during reruns and Alan Alda was in need of a new surgical sidekick.

COL. BLAKE WAS killed off at the end of the old season, and he will be replaced as commanding officer of the 4077 by poker faced Harry Morgan as regular Army Col. Sherman Potter. He doesn't appear in the first episode but takes command the following week when the show is back to its half-hour format at 7:30 p.m.

MEANTIME, MAJORS Burns and Houlihan are running the 4077 their way, by the book. They hope to mold the new doctor to their image of the very model of a military doctor, but Hawkeye gets to him first.

The audience won't be caught off-guard by much of the action on ABC's Mobile One, which holds the 7 to 8 p.m. slot today.

Jackie Cooper, always a pleasantly low key performer, plays Peter Campbell, a pleasant television reporter with a nose for news and a compassionate heart. Mark Wheeler plays his cameraman-sidekick, Doug McKnight.

In the first stanza of "Mobile One," Campbell finds himself involved in the helicopter rescue of a boy from a cliff, the financial rescue of a once-great actor, John Carradine, the emotional rescue of a rodeo rider paralyzed in a fall, and the rescue from a murder one rap of an ex-convict. On the last one, he goes to jail rather than reveal his source.

"Mobil One" is busy, but not very exciting or moving or dramatic.

East delivers old 1-2 punch to South

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Here is a really tough hand from an all expert game. South plays a low spade from dummy. If East fails to overtake his partner's queen and shift to a diamond, declarer will romp home. At least declarer will work out a winning line of play. If the spade is ducked he wins the next spade, ruffs out the last two spades, runs off all his trumps and works the proper end play against West.

If East hops up with the king as he should, but shifts to a club, South rises with the ace, ruffs out spades, draws two rounds of trumps, leads his queen of clubs and West is caught in an early end play.

In the actual play East did put up his king of spades, did shift to a diamond and was rewarded by scoring 100 well-earned points.

Why did he lead the diamond? He explained at length that it was the presence of the four clubs to the 10 in the dummy.

He pointed out that there were so many combinations where that 10 of clubs could develop into a trick that he just had to lead the diamond.

M-A-S-H does it again? – a hit!

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK — The M*A*S*H 4077 unit has lost two of its stars but none of its odd stripe of humor as it moves to a new night.

Trapper John McIntyre and Henry Blake will be missed in the move from Tuesday to Friday on CBS, but Hawkeye, Radar, Frank Burns and Hot Lips Houlihan carry on the war in Korea with their own special blend of sanity, comedy and horror.

In the first episode, an hour-long special from 7 to 8 p.m. today, Mike Farrell, formerly of "The Interns," plays B.J. Hunnicutt, the doctor who will replace Trapper. Wayne Rogers, who played Trapper, defected during reruns and Alan Alda was in need of a new surgical sidekick.

COL. BLAKE WAS killed off at the end of the old season, and he will be replaced as commanding officer of the 4077 by poker faced Harry Morgan as regular Army Col. Sherman Potter. He doesn't appear in the first episode but takes command the following week when the show is back to its half-hour format at 7:30 p.m.

MEANTIME, MAJORS Burns and Houlihan are running the 4077 their way, by the book. They hope to mold the new doctor to their image of the very model of a military doctor, but Hawkeye gets to him first.

The audience won't be caught off-guard by much of the action on ABC's Mobile One, which holds the 7 to 8 p.m. slot today.

Jackie Cooper, always a pleasantly low key performer, plays Peter Campbell, a pleasant television reporter with a nose for news and a compassionate heart. Mark Wheeler plays his cameraman-sidekick, Doug McKnight.

In the first stanza of "Mobile One," Campbell finds himself involved in the helicopter rescue of a boy from a cliff, the financial rescue of a once-great actor, John Carradine, the emotional rescue of a rodeo rider paralyzed in a fall, and the rescue from a murder one rap of an ex-convict. On the last one, he goes to jail rather than reveal his source.

"Mobil One" is busy, but not very exciting or moving or dramatic.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

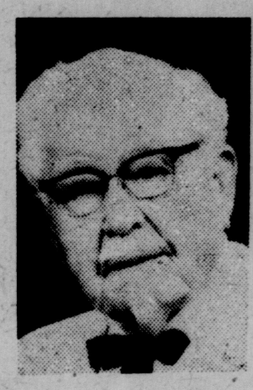
Heublein yields, samples Col. Sanders' fried chicken

by RICHARD HUGHES



Harland D. Sanders

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Heublein bought Kentucky Fried Chicken, the company hired the originator, Col. Harland D. Sanders, as "goodwill ambassador" to promote "finger-lickin' good" chicken.

Trouble is the colonel didn't much like what Heublein, a liquor and food conglomerate, was doing to his chicken. He didn't much care for the mashed potatoes and gravy either.

He knocked the chicken in public and referred to Heublein executives as "a bunch of booze hounds." But what really made him mad was they wouldn't take his advice.

"When they don't listen and are putting out a product you don't like, it makes you damn mad, particularly when they are using your name," Sanders said in an interview.

"I WAS AN outcast with the company, and an odd thing, they probably didn't like me for some reason. They were paying me $75,000 a year, plus $100,000 for the television commercials, and not getting a damn bit of good out of me."

Heublein put up with the bad-mouthing because Sanders—a "living food image" with white hair and goatee, white linen plantation suit, black string tie and carved cane — sold a lot of chicken.

But it really got to them when Sanders and his wife opened "Claudia Sanders, the Colonel's Lady Dinner House," back home in Shelbyville, Ky., and made plans to franchise it nationwide.

Heublein went to court, claiming they held exclusive rights to the colonel's name. Not to be outdone, Sanders and his wife countersued, charging Heublein with interfering with their right to open the restaurants.

MONDAY, THE day before Sander's 85th birthday, Heublein settled out of court, paid Sanders and his wife $1 million, continued his salary as "goodwill ambassador" and allowed the new venture to go forward as the "Claudia Sanders Dinner House."

But, said Sanders, what really "makes me feel wonderful" was Heublein executives finally agreed to a cooking lesson.

So last Saturday, golf day for many executives, the top officers of Heublein gathered at chicken headquarters in Louisville to watch Sanders cook "as good a chicken as I ever ate." "I proved to them that it could be done," said Sanders. "They were just as interested in quality as I was but didn't know how to go about it."

Cuts options

Ford hikes '76 car prices $216

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. Thursday said price tags on the base 1976-model cars will be raised an average $216, just $10 above a similar price jump by industry leader General Motors.

However, the boost on an average equipped vehicle was put at $247, or 4.7 per cent, some $21 below the similar increase at GM. The increases are on top of price boosts that averaged close to $1,000 a car in the past two years.

To minimize the price boosts that many industry executives feared would trigger a third straight year of slumping sales, Ford removed an average of $138 worth of standard equipment from its cars leaving it to customers to decide if they want the options.

THE CHANGES in standard equipment included such items as tinted glass, deluxe seat belts, electric clocks and white sidewall tires. On the luxury Lincoln 2-door coupe, $625 worth of equipment was removed to drop the base price by $72.

Industry executives have said they expect buyers to add on much of the deleted equipment when they buy the cars and have admitted the price increases had to be kept as low as possible.

The U.S. industry is just beginning to recover from a two-year sales slump that began with the start of the Arab oil embargo and worsened during the recession. Higher prices, which the automakers said they must have to help finance massive model changes in the next four years, were blamed for part of the slump.

Ford said 1976-model truck prices were being increased an average $330, or 6.6 per cent. Option prices for the average-equipped truck are increased $68, or 5.1 per cent, making the overall suggested truck price increase $398.

GM boosted its 1976-model truck prices by $357, or 7.3 per cent.

GM AND FORD are the only two U.S. automakers to set firm 1976-model prices. American Motors has set tentative increases at $200, or 5.8 per cent, on the average vehicle. Chrysler Corp. won't announce its prices until late October when its new models are introduced.

While base prices on most of Ford's 1976 models were increased, some models carry lower sticker prices.

The four-door Mercury Marquis with a 1975-model suggested retail price of $5,115 carries a 1976 sticker price of $5,063. A dealer discount adjustment and a reduction in the standard equipment — together worth $247 — more than offset a $195 price increase.

The popular Granada two-door model has a sticker price $9 higher than the old one, a trick achieved by removing $200 worth of previously standard equipment.

Woodfield expo features singing, shows, exhibits

The Suburban Park and Recreation Assn. will host an "Expo" this weekend at the Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg, in which all area park districts will participate.

The "Expo" will be highlighted by a zoomobile from Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo, a horticultural display sponsored by the Chicago Park District and a safety driving town for children sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Sunday will be highlighted by a belly dancing performance sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District, a performance by "The Free Spirit of '76" from the Wheeling Park District and a Penny Carnival sponsored by the Palatine Park District.

Heublein yields, samples Col. Sanders' fried chicken

by RICHARD HUGHES

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Heublein bought Kentucky Fried Chicken, the company hired the originator, Col. Harland D. Sanders, as "goodwill ambassador" to promote "finger-lickin' good" chicken.

Harland D. Sanders

Trouble is the colonel didn't much like what Heublein, a liquor and food conglomerate, was doing to his chicken. He didn't much care for the mashed potatoes and gravy either.

He knocked the chicken in public and referred to Heublein executives as "a bunch of booze hounds." But what really made him mad was they wouldn't take his advice.

"When they don't listen and are putting out a product you don't like, it makes you damn mad, particularly when they are using your name," Sanders said in an interview.

"I WAS AN outcast with the company, and an odd thing, they probably didn't like me for some reason. They were paying me $75,000 a year, plus $100,000 for the television commercials, and not getting a damn bit of good out of me."

Heublein put up with the bad-mouthing because Sanders—a "living food image" with white hair and goatee, white linen plantation suit, black string tie and carved cane — sold a lot of chicken.

But it really got to them when Sanders and his wife opened "Claudia Sanders, the Colonel's Lady Dinner House," back home in Shelbyville, Ky., and made plans to franchise it nationwide.

Heublein went to court, claiming they held exclusive rights to the colonel's name. Not to be outdone, Sanders and his wife countersued, charging Heublein with interfering with their right to open the restaurants.

MONDAY, THE day before Sander's 85th birthday, Heublein settled out of court, paid Sanders and his wife $1 million, continued his salary as ''goodwill ambassador'' and allowed the new venture to go forward as the "Claudia Sanders Dinner House."

But, said Sanders, what really "makes me feel wonderful" was Heublein executives finally agreed to a cooking lesson.

So last Saturday, golf day for many executives, the top officers of Heublein gathered at chicken headquarters in Louisville to watch Sanders cook "as good a chicken as I ever ate." "I proved to them that it could be done," said Sanders. "They were just as interested in quality as I was but didn't know how to go about it."

Cuts options

Ford hikes '76 car prices $216

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. Thursday said price tags on the base 1976-model cars will be raised an average $216, just $10 above a similar price jump by industry leader General Motors.

However, the boost on an average equipped vehicle was put at $247, or 4.7 per cent, some $21 below the similar increase at GM. The increases are on top of price boosts that averaged close to $1,000 a car in the past two years.

To minimize the price boosts that many industry executives feared would trigger a third straight year of slumping sales, Ford removed an average of $138 worth of standard equipment from its cars leaving it to customers to decide if they want the options.

THE CHANGES in standard equipment included such items as tinted glass, deluxe seat belts, electric clocks and white sidewall tires. On the luxury Lincoln 2-door coupe, $625 worth of equipment was removed to drop the base price by $72.

Industry executives have said they expect buyers to add on much of the deleted equipment when they buy the cars and have admitted the price increases had to be kept as low as possible.

The U.S. industry is just beginning to recover from a two-year sales slump that began with the start of the Arab oil embargo and worsened during the recession. Higher prices, which the automakers said they must have to help finance massive model changes in the next four years, were blamed for part of the slump.

Ford said 1976-model truck prices were being increased an average $330, or 6.6 per cent. Option prices for the average-equipped truck are increased $68, or 5.1 per cent, making the overall suggested truck price increase $398.

GM boosted its 1976-model truck prices by $357, or 7.3 per cent.

GM AND FORD are the only two U.S. automakers to set firm 1976-model prices. American Motors has set tentative increases at $200, or 5.8 per cent, on the average vehicle. Chrysler Corp. won't announce its prices until late October when its new models are introduced.

While base prices on most of Ford's 1976 models were increased, some models carry lower sticker prices.

The four-door Mercury Marquis with a 1975-model suggested retail price of $5,115 carries a 1976 sticker price of $5,063. A dealer discount adjustment and a reduction in the standard equipment — together worth $247 — more than offset a $195 price increase.

The popular Granada two-door model has a sticker price $9 higher than the old one, a trick achieved by removing $200 worth of previously standard equipment.

DRUMSTICK, star performing bottle-nosed dolphin of the Brookfield zoo is dead. Drumstick could shoot baskets, do a hurdle jump with another dolphin, and catch a football in his mouth.

Drumstick, star dolphin at Brookfield Zoo dies

Drumstick, star performing bottle-nosed dolphin of the Brookfield Zoo, died Wednesday of an enlarged pancreas, zoo officials reported Thursday. He was 6 or 7 years old. Zoo officials, trainers and attendants at the suburban zoo's Seven Seas Panorama theater, were shocked by the death of the 8-foot-7-inch, 280-pound male dolphin who showed no signs of illness during his usual high jumping performances Tuesday.

"It really makes us feel bad here," said Ed Krajniak, one of the dolphin trainers. "We really watch them. We give them vitamins. We practically tuck them in when we go home at night. And now this happens."

On Wednesday, Drumstick and the other dolphins, Angie, Vicky and Bunker, had their routine health examination. In the afternoon, Drumstick started swimming upside down. "Angie saw he was in trouble and started holding him up. We got him into the tank right away," Krajniak said. Drumstick died shortly thereafter. Krajniak said, "Wild animals never show they're sick because of their predators."

Illinois briefs

He said legal fees account for an average of 85 per cent of the monies awarded in malpractice suits.

Justice change to panel

David Fogel, executive director of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, Thursday presented Gov. Daniel Walker's plan for "sweeping changes" in the criminal justice system to the Illinois House Judiciary Committee. The committee is expected to introduce the plan into the General Assembly early next year.

Among the major provisions are abolishing parole, sentencing criminals to "flat time" jail terms as five years rather than four to nine years; shortening pretrial processing time from 120 to 60 days; keeping first-time nondangerous offenders out of jail, and giving all inmates a one day reduction in sentence for each day of good behavior.

Tax relief bills signed

Gov. Daniel Walker Thursday signed three tax relief bills and suggested changes in a measure to reform horse racing laws.

The tax break bills enable farmers to buy fertilizer and pesticides without paying sales tax, base mobile home taxes on a sliding scale depending on the trailer's age and defer higher property taxes based on home improvements. Under the home improvement law, increased property taxes due to additions or repairs valued at up to $15,000 must be deferred four years.

Using his amendatory veto, Walker altered the race reform bill to prevent race track and other racing interests from making political contributions.

The bill also allows winter racing and Sunday racing if area residents vote for it.

The Illinois Supreme Court Thursday recalled retired Judge Caswell J. Crebs to fill the high court vacancy left by the Sept. 30 resignation of Justice Charles H. Davis of Rockford. Crebs, 63, begins work Oct. 15. A permanent replacement for Davis will be chosen at the 1976 general election.

Railroad 'turns corner'

The bankrupt Rock Island railroad has stopped spending more money than it is taking in and may have turned the corner to fiscal respectability, William Gibbons, the court-appointed trustee, said Thursday. "The bleeding has stopped," said Gibbons, sounding more hopeful than he has at any time since the large midwestern line filed a bankruptcy petition last March 17. "We had a positive cash flow position in July and August."

That means more money came in than went out, Gibbons said, adding that in July the railroad still wasn't in the black. He said he was still waiting the final figures to see the exact position for August.

Sex experiment goes on

Trustees of Southern Illinois University Thursday refused to get involved in the controversy over a research project to determine whether use of marijuana inhibits male sexual arousal. By not presenting a motion or taking a vote on continuation of the experiment on the Carbondale campus, the board gave its tacit approval to the federally funded project.

Under the project, paid volunteers will inhale marijuana smoke and will be shown erotic movies. The response of the volunteers will be measured by electronic devices attached to the participants' genitals.

Goldblum sentence hit

Stanley Goldblum, accused mastermind behind the $2 billion Equity Funding scandal, received the same sentence for violating the Illinois Insurance code as the thief who steals shopping carts from a supermarket, Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott said Thursday. Scott used Goldblum's latest sentence to illustrate what he called the "grossly inadequate" penalties for financial crimes in Illinois. Scott called for legislation which would raise maximum sentences to 20 years.

On Wednesday Goldblum was sentenced to one to three years in prison by a DuPage County court for violating the Illinois insurance code.

Law hit on malpractice

A former American Medical Assn. president said Thursday the legal profession "stimulates and promotes" malpractice suits. Dr. Charles Hoffman, now serving as chairman of the Medical Liability Commission, also criticized attorneys for taking a disproportionate share of malpractice settlements.

DRUMSTICK, bottle-nosed dolphin of the Brookfield zoo is dead. Drumstick could shoot baskets, do a hurdle jump with another dolphin, and catch a football in his mouth.

Drumstick, star dolphin at Brookfield Zoo dies

Drumstick, star performing bottle-nosed dolphin of the Brookfield Zoo, died Wednesday of an enlarged pancreas, zoo officials reported Thursday. He was 6 or 7 years old. Zoo officials, trainers and attendants at the suburban zoo's Seven Seas Panorama theater, were shocked by the death of the 8-foot-7-inch, 280-pound male dolphin who showed no signs of illness during his usual high jumping performances Tuesday.

"It really makes us feel bad here," said Ed Krajniak, one of the dolphin trainers. "We really watch them. We give them vitamins. We practically tuck them in when we go home at night. And now this happens."

On Wednesday, Drumstick and the other dolphins, Angie, Vicky and Bunker, had their routine health examination. In the afternoon, Drumstick started swimming upside down. "Angie saw he was in trouble and started holding him up. We got him into the tank right away," Krajniak said. Drumstick died shortly thereafter. Krajniak said, "Wild animals never show they're sick because of their predators."

Illinois briefs

He said legal fees account for an average of 85 per cent of the monies awarded in malpractice suits.

Justice change to panel

David Fogel, executive director of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, Thursday presented Gov. Daniel Walker's plan for "sweeping changes" in the criminal justice system to the Illinois House Judiciary Committee. The committee is expected to introduce the plan into the General Assembly early next year.

Among the major provisions are abolishing parole, sentencing criminals to "flat time" jail terms as five years rather than four to nine years; shortening pretrial processing time from 120 to 60 days; keeping first-time nondangerous offenders out of jail, and giving all inmates a one day reduction in sentence for each day of good behavior.

Tax relief bills signed

Gov. Daniel Walker Thursday signed three tax relief bills and suggested changes in a measure to reform horse racing laws.

The tax break bills enable farmers to buy fertilizer and pesticides without paying sales tax, base mobile home taxes on a sliding scale depending on the trailer's age and defer higher property taxes based on home improvements. Under the home improvement law, increased property taxes due to additions or repairs valued at up to $15,000 must be deferred four years.

Using his amendatory veto, Walker altered the race reform bill to prevent race track and other racing interests from making political contributions.

The bill also allows winter racing and Sunday racing if area residents vote for it.

Fill high court vacancy

The Illinois Supreme Court Thursday recalled retired Judge Caswell J. Crebs to fill the high court vacancy left by the Sept. 30 resignation of Justice Charles H. Davis of Rockford. Crebs, 63, begins work Oct. 15. A permanent replacement for Davis will be chosen at the 1976 general election.

Railroad 'turns corner'

The bankrupt Rock Island railroad has stopped spending more money than it is taking in and may have turned the corner to fiscal respectability, William Gibbons, the court-appointed trustee, said Thursday. "The bleeding has stopped," said Gibbons, sounding more hopeful than he has at any time since the large midwestern line filed a bankruptcy petition last March 17. "We had a positive cash flow position in July and August."

That means more money came in than went out, Gibbons said, adding that in July the railroad still wasn't in the black. He said he was still waiting the final figures to see the exact position for August.

Sex experiment goes on

Trustees of Southern Illinois University Thursday refused to get involved in the controversy over a research project to determine whether use of marijuana inhibits male sexual arousal. By not presenting a motion or taking a vote on continuation of the experiment on the Carbondale campus, the board gave its tacit approval to the federally funded project.

Under the project, paid volunteers will inhale marijuana smoke and will be shown erotic movies. The response of the volunteers will be measured by electronic devices attached to the participants' genitals.

Goldblum sentence hit

Stanley Goldblum, accused mastermind behind the $2 billion Equity Funding scandal, received the same sentence for violating the Illinois Insurance code as the thief who steals shopping carts from a supermarket, Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott said Thursday. Scott used Goldblum's latest sentence to illustrate what he called the "grossly inadequate" penalties for financial crimes in Illinois. Scott called for legislation which would raise maximum sentences to 20 years.

On Wednesday Goldblum was sentenced to one to three years in prison by a DuPage County court for violating the Illinois insurance code.

Law hit on malpractice

A former American Medical Assn. president said Thursday the legal profession "stimulates and promotes" malpractice suits. Dr. Charles Hoffman, now serving as chairman of the Medical Liability Commission, also criticized attorneys for taking a disproportionate share of malpractice settlements.

Harper to make debut tonight at Wright

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Although his number will be different and he'll be playing a different position, Dave Patterson will be remembered by Wright College.

And if past experiences are a key, host Wright will not be pleased to see tonight that John Eliasik, the head football coach of the Harper Hawks, has decided to put the other half of Patterson to work.

The Wright Rams were swift and mean and thought highly of themselves in 1974 before Harper, who never paid too much attention to what another team thought about itself, beefed the Rams 19-14.

Patterson, using his lower extremities, became memorable to the Wright players by kicking two field goals, an extra point and seven punts that covered almost 40 yards a trip.

"Wright is even better than last year," Eliasik said as he looked forward to the opener tonight at 7:15 at the Rams' home. "They've got speed in the backfield and quarterbacks everywhere."

Eliasik would be happy with a quarterback anywhere.

Gary Mueller is gone. Expected back for his sophomore season, the author of 1,402 yards of offense and 14 touchdown passes in 1974 dropped out of school.

Bob Buckley, who would have been a freshman, hwas highly coveted by even major college programs for the quarterbacking aplomb he demonstrated at Niles West. Unfortunately, Buckley did not graduate from high school.

Steve Strimal, out of St. Rita, lost his shot at Mueller's old job when he reinjured a knee.

Eliasik thus turned to Dave Patterson, who played some QB at Maine South, and said, "Take it away!"

"I have a lot of confidence in Dave's ability," Eliasik said. "He's a smart kid and a good athlete. I shudder when I think about what we'll be like if he gets hurt."

Getting hurt has become a fact of life for residents of the Harper backfield.

"It has just been devastating," Eliasik groaned. "It seemed like every day we were losing one of our good backs."

It is a measure of the talent Harper has to consider they will still be strong in the running game despite the loss of Mike Amundsen (297 yards in 46 carries in '74), and the fastest man on the team in the 40-yard dash, Mike Walsh (a starter on the top JC team in Minnesota last year) and Jim Allen, a freshman speedster from Conant.

Eliasik will be going with Tom Bullen, a freshman from Fremd, at fullback, Ed Seidman at flanker and Carmel graduate Butch Allen at the other running back.

Allen is smaller but has the slippery, juking running style of All-State receiver Ervin Kimbrough.

Kimbrough, who caught 39 passes last year, and Frank Bavaro, who held onto 35, will be the receivers missed most. Wayne Mill, at split end, and Rick Lehnert, converted from defense to tight end, will team up with Seidman to form the Hawks' pass-catching club.

The offensive line, which Eliasik thinks highly of for its speed and strength, will include Mike Berry at center, Jerry Parker and Dave Savino at tackle and Jim Glueckert and Bob Cromie at guard.

With all the problems and questions that the Harper offense has, Eliasik is counting heavily on his defense and he feels he's got a good one.

"Our defense is very young," Eliasik said. "We have better overall team speed than we've ever had and much of it is on defense. Our offensive line is green but they're improving. Our defensive line, though, is in real good shape and I've got a lot of confidence in them."

Holding down the middle of the line will be sophomore nose guard Bill Nash. Flanking Nash will be tackles Mark Blix and Greg Tyson, the only lineman to score a touchdown for the Hawks last year.

The defensive ends will be freshmen Bob Lange from Crown and Kevin Koppari from Conant.

HARPER HEAD FOOTBALL coach John Eliasik could be looking over his shoulder at the approach of the Hawks' opening game with Wright tonight. Harper was 6-4 in 1974 and will be relying on Dave Patterson (12) to run the Hawks' offense at quarterback.

Mid-Suburban's South scramble to open tonight

by JIM COOK

The initial quest for Mid-Suburban League supremacy and ultimately the Illinois High School Assn. football playoffs is focused vividly in the eyes of six South Division clubs who will break the seal on the 1975 conference campaign tonight and Saturday.

Schaumburg visits Elk Grove in the contest that will be broadcast live by WWMM-FM, 92.7, and Prospect hosts Forest View tonight at 8:00 while Rolling Meadows travels to Hoffman Estates in a 2 p.m. Saturday matinee to augment the South race.

There will be a new leader in the Prospect-Forest View rivalry which represents the oldest series in the Mid-Suburban League. After last year's 14-7 Knight conquest, the 11-year war stands at 5-5-1.

The only year the teams didn't meet was 1969 and except for last year and 1968 when Prospect won 12-6, all the games have been donnybrooks of six touchdowns or more. In 1971, The Falcons prevailed 49-18.

The Knights passed their opening test with a 14-13 heartstopper at Maine West while Forest View played highly-touted St. Viator even through the first half before submitting to the Lions' ball-control tactics and falling, 24-6.

Prospect head man Dave Keefe is concerned mostly about Falcon quarterback Jim Petran. "He's an awfully good quarterback . . . a good passer and a good runner. I don't think that 6-for-25 passing effort by him last week is indicative of his ability."

Forest View coach Fred Lussow was quick to return the compliments. "Their backs (Don) Meyer and (Keith) Mason are probably the best 1-2 punch in the league. We can't afford to let them sit on the ball the way St. Viator did last week. It's awfully tough on our defense."

Meyer rushed for 92 yards and scored twice in the opener. He also made 13 tackles on defense.

Lussow blamed opening night jitters and a vicious Viator pass rush for the Falcons' one-touchdown effort and has emphasized execution, timing and carrying out assignments during this week's practice.

A backdrop of former Super Bowl champions will hang in the balance of the Schaumburg-Elk Grove clash. The Saxons, winners in 1974, and the two-time (1971-72) titlist Grenadiers both have rich traditions to protect.

Russ Zonca

Don Meyer

Schaumburg was a convincing 35-0 victor over Fremd last week while Elk Grove suffered a 28-6 loss against Elgin Larkin in the season openers.

Both coaches found a common denominator in their conversations — Schaumburg quarterback Russ Zonca.

"He's like a stick of dynamite," Grenadier coach Don Schnake compared. "You just know he's going to go off sometime."

Zonca's coach Bob Ferguson agreed. "He's a threat everytime he goes down the line. He can go inside or outside, pitch it or give it."

Upstart Hoffman Estates, the victim of a 21-14 squeaker against Palatine last week and Rolling Meadows, a dominant 26-0 victor over Wheeling will match similiar styles Saturday afternoon.

"We're particularly happy with the way we threw the ball, Hoffman coach Bill Gourley said. "We've gotten it to the point where it's now an integral part of our offense and not something we have to do when we're behind."

Hawk quarterback Wayne Jackson hit on 9-of-18 passes for 116 yards and two touchdowns with no interceptions.

But in the Meadows camp, coach Angelo Barro was equally impressed with his own signalcaller, Ken Breitbeil.

"He exceeded all of our expectations," Barro said of his senior slinger who completed 8-of-15 for 97 yards and scored three touchdowns.

There was a time when I covered high school football games by dashing up and down the sidelines.

Those were the days of youth and vigor, boundless energy.

I liked to soak up the atmosphere on the sidelines, the grunts and groans, the strategy sessions.

There were obvious problems. Punts could drive you up a wall. You would race down to where the punt receiver stood and then watch helplessly as someone, who was that?, broke through to block the kick. Then you raced back.

Position was the key. Where did you stand on the field so you could move either way depending on where the ball went? It took practice, years of practice. You tried to anticipate plays.

There was some danger attached to the sideline coverage. I was sacked three times by ball-carriers. Nothing serious. My reaction time was a little slow on those end sweeps that headed out-of-bounds.

However, I was nailed numerous times by fathers and mothers.

Dads Day (or night) or Parents Day (or night) were the worst because there was this tendency to corner me on the field and complain about the Herald coverage. There's something very disturbing about having to defend yourself on the sidelines to people who all think their children or school deserve more publicity.

It's one of the headaches you encounter far too often on this job. Public appearances usually wind up in discussions about the sports coverage, good or bad, and it gets a little tiresome. Maybe that's why I stay in the office so much.

Actually, the sideline grunts and groans — from this reporter, not the players — finally convinced me to look elsewhere for a spot to cover the games. I knew it was time to stop that nonsense of sideline coverage when I began spending time after games just learning how to walk again.

I had heard about that structure high above most football fields, the so-called press box, and although what I had heard wasn't encouraging I decided to give it a try. The sideline stuff had to stop.

You've seen the so-called press boxes. Most look like they were put together by school shop classes — that flunked. Some look like old-fashioned hot dog stands with the doors opening out and up, and I'm convinced they were built by skinny midgets for other skinny midgets.

It's always amazed me how the architects (term is used loosely) of the press box figure 25 feet of window space at the front is adequate for viewing a field 100 yards long. It is adequate if there is also viewing space, instead of blank walls, at the sides, which there never is.

Entrance to some of these press boxes can be hazardous to your health. You might have a ladder, a somewhat angled steel apparatus, or a reconstructed pile of kindling. Generally you go straight up and spend four quarters wondering how you'll get down without a parachute, or without fainting.

I'll never forget the night when the entrance to a press box at a field in the south suburbs was through a large trapdoor. On warm evenings they left the door open so that you could turn around on your stool and look down to the ground, 75 feet below. I was afraid to move.

People sit in the stands and envy those in the press box. They see us sitting in a structure situated on the 50-yard-line, which is fine. What they fail to realize is that you have a 10-yard-line view, which is not so fine.

The mud games are beautiful. You can't see anything anyway, but the press box is the epitome of chaos as everyone, elbow to elbow, keeps shouting for help.

"Did you see what happened? Who was the ball carrier? Who's at quarterback? Who made the tackle? Was that a flag? Where am I? What am I doing here?"

Let's be honest. A press box, contrary to what basketball buffs might think, is not a new all-court defense. However, if you think it is a place built for the press to cover games, you've got another guess coming.

In fact, it's gotten so bad at one area school that everyone is invited into the press box — but the press. Sad but true, particularly on those wet evenings.

A press box is there to house scoreboard operators, timekeepers, field announcers, scouts, statisticians, movie cameramen, their helpers, administrators, their friends, their friends' children, and just incidentally, the press and occasionally the radio.

There are those unfortunate times when just getting into a press box may be tougher than going a round with Muhammad Ali.

You get to the door in a driving rain, for example, after bobbing and weaving your way through the fans. You have your clipboard, binoculars and press pass showing and they ask, "What do you want?"

That's when you begin to wonder why you didn't become an accountant.

Don't get me wrong. It's hard to argue the necessity of a place to put most of these people essential to the conduct of a game.

What I object to is that they continue to fool the public by calling these structures press boxes.

There just must be a better name for this high-rise of the high school football field.

House of confusion.

People box.

WM microphones at Elk Grove

The microphones of WWMM-FM (92.7) will be at Elk Grove High School tonight for the opening Mid-Suburban League football game between Elk Grove and defending champion Schaumburg.

Air time is 8 p.m. with Bob Houghton of WM radio handling the play-by-play and Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk the color commentary at Haskell Field.

"We wanted to feature one of the league openers," said Houghton, "and this was a natural. Schaumburg is the defending champion and Elk Grove has a tradition for excellence in the league."

Schaumburg comes into the league opener fresh from a 35-0 romp past Fremd. Elk Grove lost to Elgin Larkin, 28-6.

Those were the days of youth and vigor, boundless energy.

I liked to soak up the atmosphere on the sidelines, the grunts and groans, the strategy sessions.

There were obvious problems. Punts could drive you up a wall. You would race down to where the punt receiver stood and then watch helplessly as someone, who was that?, broke through to block the kick. Then you raced back.

Position was the key. Where did you stand on the field so you could move either way depending on where the ball went? It took practice, years of practice. You tried to anticipate plays.

There was some danger attached to the sideline coverage. I was sacked three times by ball-carriers. Nothing serious. My reaction time was a little slow on those end sweeps that headed out-of-bounds.

However, I was nailed numerous times by fathers and mothers.

Dads Day (or night) or Parents Day (or night) were the worst because there was this tendency to corner me on the field and complain about the Herald coverage. There's something very disturbing about having to defend yourself on the sidelines to people who all think their children or school deserve more publicity.

It's one of the headaches you encounter far too often on this job. Public appearances usually wind up in discussions about the sports coverage, good or bad, and it gets a little tiresome. Maybe that's why I stay in the office so much.

Actually, the sideline grunts and groans — from this reporter, not the players — finally convinced me to look elsewhere for a spot to cover the games. I knew it was time to stop that nonsense of sideline coverage when I began spending time after games just learning how to walk again.

I had heard about that structure high above most football fields, the so-called press box, and although what I had heard wasn't encouraging I decided to give it a try. The sideline stuff had to stop.

You've seen the so-called press boxes. Most look like they were put together by school shop classes — that flunked. Some look like old-fashioned hot dog stands with the doors opening out and up, and I'm convinced they were built by skinny midgets for other skinny midgets.

It's always amazed me how the architects (term is used loosely) of the press box figure 25 feet of window space at the front is adequate for viewing a field 100 yards long. It is adequate if there is also viewing space, instead of blank walls, at the sides, which there never is.

Entrance to some of these press boxes can be hazardous to your health. You might have a ladder, a somewhat angled steel apparatus, or a reconstructed pile of kindling. Generally you go straight up and spend four quarters wondering how you'll get down without a parachute, or without fainting.

I'll never forget the night when the entrance to a press box at a field in the south suburbs was through a large trapdoor. On warm evenings they left the door open so that you could turn around on your stool and look down to the ground, 75 feet below. I was afraid to move.

People sit in the stands and envy those in the press box. They see us sitting in a structure situated on the 50-yard-line, which is fine. What they fail to realize is that you have a 10-yard-line view, which is not so fine.

The mud games are beautiful. You can't see anything anyway, but the press box is the epitome of chaos as everyone, elbow to elbow, keeps shouting for help.

"Did you see what happened? Who was the ball carrier? Who's at quarterback? Who made the tackle? Was that a flag? Where am I? What am I doing here?"

Let's be honest. A press box, contrary to what basketball buffs might think, is not a new all-court defense. However, if you think it is a place built for the press to cover games, you've got another guess coming.

In fact, it's gotten so bad at one area school that everyone is invited into the press box — but the press. Sad but true, particularly on those wet evenings.

A press box is there to house scoreboard operators, timekeepers, field announcers, scouts, statisticians, movie cameramen, their helpers, administrators, their friends, their friends' children, and just incidentally, the press and occasionally the radio.

There are those unfortunate times when just getting into a press box may be tougher than going a round with Muhammad Ali.

You get to the door in a driving rain, for example, after bobbing and weaving your way through the fans. You have your clipboard, binoculars and press pass showing and they ask, "What do you want?"

That's when you begin to wonder why you didn't become an accountant.

Don't get me wrong. It's hard to argue the necessity of a place to put most of these people essential to the conduct of a game.

What I object to is that they continue to fool the public by calling these structures press boxes.

There just must be a better name for this high-rise of the high school football field.

House of confusion.

People box.

WM microphones at Elk Grove

The microphones of WWMM-FM (92.7) will be at Elk Grove High School tonight for the opening Mid-Suburban League football game between Elk Grove and defending champion Schaumburg.

Air time is 8 p.m. with Bob Houghton of WM radio handling the play-by-play and Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk the color commentary at Haskell Field.

"We wanted to feature one of the league openers," said Houghton, "and this was a natural. Schaumburg is the defending champion and Elk Grove has a tradition for excellence in the league."

Schaumburg comes into the league opener fresh from a 35-0 romp past Fremd. Elk Grove lost to Elgin Larkin, 28-6.

Elder at 6-under leads World Open

Lee Elder combined deadly iron shots with an accurate putting stroke Thursday for a 6-under-par 65 and a two-stroke lead over four golfers after the first round of the $200,000 World Open golf tournament.

Heavy rainfall delayed play for almost a half hour in the afternoon round but Pat Fitzsimons, Rod Funseth and Canadian Open-champion Tom Weiskopf finished with 67s to join rookie Danny Edwards in a tie for second place.

Elder, the first black to play in the Masters this year as a result of his lone tour victory in the 1974 Monsanto Open, picked up six birdies to go with a dozen pars and said he had ample birdie opportunity because of his iron shots, many of which landed within 10 feet of the flagstick.

Jim Dent, known for his powerful drives, joined Elder briefly at 6-under after a string of birdies but a double-bogey and a bogey dropped him back to 3-under, along with Ed Sneed, Rod Curl and John Schlee. Defending champ Johnny Miller finished the first round at 73 and was well back in the 156-player field. Lee Trevino led a group of six golfers at 2-under and Jack Nicklaus was one of 16 finishing 1-under at 70.

NFL players reject pact

Leaders of the NFL Players Association, armed with a resounding membership rejection of the latest contract offer from the owners, sounded out its members on a strike Thursday, but there was little likelihood such a drastic move would be adopted.

A spokesman said the players vote against the management package offer was 868 to 10 with two teams yet to be heard from. Of the 24 teams which messaged their vote, 18 were unanimous in turning thumbs down on the July 23 offer.

As a result, negotiators for the union were expected to press for an early new response from the NFL Management Council on a new round of bargaining before regular season play begins in 10 days. A seven-week player strike in the pre-season failed in 1974 and the NFLPA has been without a contract since then.

Bomb scare on Royals' plane

The Kansas City Royals, still shellshocked by an Oakland A's three-game sweep that all but eliminated them from the pennant race, underwent another jolt enroute home today when a bomb scare forced their chartered jet to land.

The United Air Lines 727 was ordered to make an unscheduled landing at Salt Lake International Airport in the early hours of the morning, moments after an unidentified male caller phoned Oakland Airport and said, "There's a bomb on board the Royals' plane."

Salt Lake police, aided by two dogs trained to sniff out explosives, searched the jet for two hours without finding a bomb, and permitted the plane to proceed to Kansas City.

The Royals, who Wednesday night lost their third straight game to the A's, 9-1, were in flight for 20 minutes when the phone threat was received shortly after midnight.

Cubs club St. Louis; Kingman belts 34th

Bats were booming around the Major Leagues Thursday night with the Chicago Cubs setting the tempo. The Cubs banged out 16 hits while continuing their role of spoiler in the National League East with a 12-6 romp over St. Louis.

The Cardinals failed to lose any ground in the pennant race however. While Dave Kingman temporarily took over the Major League home run lead and set a new club record with his 34th round tripper, the New York Mets were ripping the Pirates 7-0.

In the hot American League East runoff there was no change among the frontrunners but both New York and Baltimore kept pace with Boston by pounding out 10-2 verdicts, the Yankees taking out their wrath on Milwaukee while the Orioles were clubbing Cleveland. Earlier the Red Sox took a 3-1 decision on Luis Tiant's nifty 3-hitter.

Other National League results had Houston nipping San Francisco 4-3 in 12 innings and Philadelphia bettering Montreal 5-0.

The Cubs scored six times in the first inning en route to their eighth win in their last 11 games, chasing Card starter Bob Forsch after two outs. Don Kessinger, with two singles and a double, and Jose Cardenal, with three singles, led the Chicago attack against eight St. Louis pitchers all told.

Cub starter Rick Reuschel also exited early—in the fourth—and Oscar Zamora, second of four pitchers, notched the win.

Although the Cardinals failed to gain any ground on losing Pittsburgh, the Phillies did move to within five games of the Pirates and no sooner had Kingman poked his 34th circuit blow to help Pittsburgh to defeat, then Mike Schmidt of the Phillies responded with his 34th to move back into a share of the lead in the homer derby.

Kingman's solo shot tied a club record set by Frank Thomas in the Mets' inception year of 1962. It came in support of a six-hitter by Jerry Koosman that moved New York back within nine games of the league lead.

Schmidt connected for his homer in the fourth to back a three-hit shutout by Larry Christenson in a game called by rain after 6 2/3 innings. Major League RBI leader Greg Luzinski had earlier upped his total to 113 during a two-run first inning rally off losing pitcher Steve Rogers.

Rob Andrews singled to score Roger Metzger from second with two out in the 12th in Houston's 4-3 win over the Giants. The winning pitcher was Joe Niekro who retired nine straight batters before leaving for a pinch hitter in that same frame.

In the AL, Tiant threw a no-hitter for 7 2/3 innings and collected his 16th victory in his first start since Aug. 15. Aurelio Rodriguez singled up the middle to spoil his no-hit bid and a ninth-inning homer by Bob Baldwin tarnished his shutout.

Jim Palmer and Catfish Hunter, leading contenders for the Cy Young Award, each picked up their 21st victory in 10-2 decisions Thursday. Palmer lowered his ERA to 2.17 and Lee May belted his 20th homer as the Orioles spanked Cleveland. It was Baltimore's 40th win in 61 games since the All-Star break.

Graig Nettles slammed a pair of two-run homers to highlight a 17 hit attack while Hunter hurled his 28th complete game of the season at the expense of Milwaukee..

CHICAGO CUBS' Andy Thornton is safe at home as St. Louis Cardinals' Ted Simmons tumbles trying to make tag in first inning Thursday afternoon. Chicago won, 12-6.

Blue-ribbon Friday, Saturday package

Weekend treats for football fans

by JIM COOK

The theory that non-conference football games and their results are insignificant will be shattered tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

District, community and neighborhood arch-rivalries spice a blue-ribbon card of prep clashes that pits St. Viator at Hersey, Conant at Palatine, St. Francis de Sales at Arlington, Carmel at Mundelein at Wheeling and Buffalo Grove at Wheaton Central tonight at 8 while Fremd at Holy Cross punctuates this weekend's schedule Saturday afternoon at 2:00.

The St. Viator-Hersey series has developed into a classic confrontation of neighbors, friends and even relatives, in some cases, as these two schools tangle in their Arlington Heights backyard.

The winner-take-all pot has been further sweetened by the command performance of these two clubs during opening week contests that found Viator handling Forest View, 24-6 and Hersey topping Elgin, 29-6.

"They have a very, very good football team and they'll be real up for it," St. Viator head coach Jim Lyne offered. "We beat them the last three years, so they have some incentive."

The Lions are hurting physically with defensive back Kevin Mulroy, tackles George Catalano, and Dan Skarzynski and center Mark Lamantia all hobbling with injuries.

"They're big," Hersey coach Joe Gliwa testified, adding, "It's hard to say how good we'll be this year until we've really been tested. This week we'll really be tested, that's for sure."

Another acid test is scheduled at Palatine where District 211 rivals Conant and the Pirates will be in the trenches for hand-to-hand combat.

Palatine is fresh off a 21-14 triumph over Hoffman Estates that saw punishing running back Jim Popp score three times and rush for 126 yards in the come-from-behind verdict.

Conant was stung, 33-8, by Buffalo Grove, but the opening-game player jitters and debut by new head coach John Ayres are history and the settled-down band of Cougars promise to do their own stinging tonight.

At Arlington, the Cardinals may think they're looking in a mirror when St. Francis takes the field. "They're big and strong and quick," Cardinal coach Chuck Haines noted. Those same three adjectives have been used to describe his Arlington outfit, too.

Both clubs were winners in their 1975 openers — Arlington topping Homewood-Flossmoor, 28-25, in a thriller and de Sales crimping Mount Carmel, 13-0.

"We'll have to move bigger people off the line (including a 6-foot-5, 272-pound St. Francis tackle) to make our offense go," Haines said, "and we've been working extra hard on shorting our pass defense (that permitted 317 passing yards to Homewood)."

Buffalo Grove will be seeking to make it two straight victories, having whipped Conant, 33-8, last week, but Wheaton Central poses a formidable obstacle.

"We'll definitely have our hands full," Bison head coach Grant Blaney said. "They beat West Aurora last week, 33-0, and one back in particular was impressive, rushing for 175 yards and pulling in a 76-yard touchdown pass. Wheaton isn't a big team, but they're a good team and quick as heck."

At Wheeling, first-year head man Gerry Clinnin promises more platooning against Carmel of Mundelein, a 7-0 loser to St. Joseph in the Corsairs opener.

"We just spread ourselves too thin last week," Clinnin admitted. "We're making a number of adjustments and there probably will be more to come. It's going to take some time before we feel we have all the right personnel in the right jobs, but we're still very optimistic."

So is Fremd which drew a 35-0 blank against Schaumburg last week. "We'll need a good pass rush against their (Holy Cross) quarterback," Fremd coach Joe Samojedny said of the Vikings' Saturday afternoon assignment. "He's a very important part of their team."

Fremd, in the throes of a 10-game skid, are waiting for that one early break, either created by the Vikings or presented by Holy Cross, that will turn that streak around.

Six non-conference games . . . but try to tell the players and coaches they aren't important.

Antoine: 'Watch the Bears; we're OK'

Mike Klein
Sports Columnist

The huge smile maybe eight inches wide first impresses you upon meeting Lionel Antoine. He seems eternally happy. And then his hands. When you shake one, your own little paw gets lost and has trouble relocating the wrist and arm from whence it came.

Because Lionel's a truly super human being, one who always stops to say hello and pass the time of summer, fall or whatever, he's a person I've enjoyed knowing these past seven years.

We first encountered each other when Lionel was a 6-foot-7, 255-pound freshman lineman for Southern Illinois University. I masqueraded as a 5-10, 120-pound neophyte reporter for the campus Daily Egyptian.

Today, Lionel measures 6-7, 260 and dreams of becoming an All-Pro offensive tackle. I've grown one inch and 22 pounds and dream entirely too much. So you can see that we are quickly becoming an equal match.

Which is something Lionel's Chicago Bears haven't always been . . . an equal match as they traveled around the National Football League.

Actually, they were PPP under Abe Gibron . . . Pathetic Pitiful Pansies. They're seeking to once again become BBB under Jack Pardee . . . Big Bad Bears.

Lionel arrived in Chicago three seasons ago, a first round draft choice after two All-American seasons for the SIU Salukis. An Abe Gibron draft choice.

"Twine" would become the big offensive lineman Abe said he required for building a winner . . . when Abe wasn't busy prancing inside your television set trying to sell automobiles.

Anyhow, the Bears plunged into sports anonymity. The commercials disappeared. And so did Abe.

If you think the past few seasons have been any batch of chocolate chip cookies for the guys in Halas Blue, then perhaps you also think Mt. Everest is a school in the Chicago Catholic League.

"It was a downer, man," Lionel said Thursday after Pardee let out class at the Bears' Lake Forest camp. "The first couple years here I wouldn't tell anyone I played for the Bears.

"A person would look at me and think I must be a football player. Then they'd ask and I'd always say no," Lionel related. "If I said yes, the guy'd come up and start talking about the Bears . . . and we'd probably end up in a fight."

Lionel Antoine

Those were the bad old days. It's all changed, right Lionel?

"Now, my head's up high. Hell, yes, I play for the Bears," Antoine said, leaning forward for emphasis. "We're a good football team. We're proud. I'm as excited as hell."

The next test of Chicago's newfound goodness occurs at 8 p.m., Saturday, in Soldier Field against the Houston Oilers. It's the last preseason game.

Not to diminish Lionel's enthusiasm, but the Pardee men are seeking to snap a two-game losing streak. They're 2-3 in summer league affairs.

Most recent were Denver's 13-0 victory in Chicago and the 21-10 licking last week in Miami. Lionel admits he was looking for Chicago to score often against Denver, but "nothing happened."

He's much happier about their showing in Miami . . . until Bobby Douglass' weekly intercepted pass.

"Look at what we did to Miami the first half," Lionel said. "We beat the bleep out of them. We had more rushing, more plays, moved the ball all over the field.

"The thing which turned the whole game around was the interception."

So why should these Bears get our time-of-day as NFC powerhouse people?

Richard the Lionhearted (ala Mr. Butkus) used to say the Bears had their best personnel on defense and those in charge of scoring points were something less.

Or course, Richard was correct.

But Pardee has shortened that gap with new wide receivers (Ron Shanklin and Bob Grim) plus new running backs (Walter Payton, Cid Edwards, Roland Harper and Mike Adamle).

Also, there is a rebuilt offensive line where Antoine and Bob Newton are the only holdover regulars.

The Bears will score points and lots of them, says Antoine. Now 25 and recovered from left knee injuries which wasted his rookie season, Antoine charges ahead. His goal: To become the best offensive tackle in football history.

"If I ever reach that is to be seen," Lionel said. "But that's the goal."

As for all the Bears . . .

"Everybody talks about respectability. Damn that! Damn that! That's mediocre, halfway. Why not all the way?" Lionel questioned.

"The only championship team I've ever been on my whole life was in high school. This game isn't worth a dime to me if I'm not on a championship team.

"The game is supposed to be fun," the big man said. "When you're winning, it's fun. To hell with 7-7! Why not 12-2? Or 14-0:"

Why not, Antoine wonders, the Super Bowl?

Harper Hawks open tonight at Wright

Schaumburg, the 1974 Mid-Suburban League champions, contributed linebacker Kevin Kristick who joins another former Saxon sophomore Kent Knudson.

In the defensive secondary Steve Kennedy will be the Monster, sophomore Dugan McLaughlin the safety and John Spores and Jon Campbell, both freshmen, the cornerbacks.

The Hawks have moved to a new league, the North Central Community College Conference, and play only three of nine games at home. With players like Mueller, Kimbrough, Rich Hoevel (leading rusher in 1974 with 652 yards) and huge lineman John Kern gone from last year's explosive 6-4 squad, Eliasik may well look forward to playing away from the prying eyes of home fans.

But if Dave Patterson's upper extremities work as well as his lower those three home dates could become social events to look forward to.

Richard the Lionhearted (ala Mr. Butkus) used to say the Bears had their best personnel on defense and those in charge of scoring points were something less.

Or course, Richard was correct.

But Pardee has shortened that gap with new wide receivers (Ron Shanklin and Bob Grim) plus new running backs (Walter Payton, Cid Edwards, Roland Harper and Mike Adamle).

Also, there is a rebuilt offensive line where Antoine and Bob Newton are the only holdover regulars.

The Bears will score points and lots of them, says Antoine. Now 25 and recovered from left knee injuries which wasted his rookie season, Antoine charges ahead. His goal: To become the best offensive tackle in football history.

"If I ever reach that is to be seen," Lionel said. "But that's the goal."

As for all the Bears . . .

"Everybody talks about respectability. Damn that! Damn that! That's mediocre, halfway. Why not all the way?" Lionel questioned.

"The only championship team I've ever been on my whole life was in high school. This game isn't worth a dime to me if I'm not on a championship team.

"The game is supposed to be fun," the big man said. "When you're winning, it's fun. To hell with 7-7! Why not 12-2? Or 14-0:"

Why not, Antoine wonders, the Super Bowl?

Schaumburg, the 1974 Mid-Suburban League champions, contributed linebacker Kevin Kristick who joins another former Saxon sophomore Kent Knudson.

In the defensive secondary Steve Kennedy will be the Monster, sophomore Dugan McLaughlin the safety and John Spores and Jon Campbell, both freshmen, the cornerbacks.

The Hawks have moved to a new league, the North Central Community College Conference, and play only three of nine games at home. With players like Mueller, Kimbrough, Rich Hoevel (leading rusher in 1974 with 652 yards) and huge lineman John Kern gone from last year's explosive 6-4 squad, Eliasik may well look forward to playing away from the prying eyes of home fans.

But if Dave Patterson's upper extremities work as well as his lower those three home dates could become social events to look forward to.

IS IT TOO LATE TO HAVE YOUR CAR RUSTPROOFED?

YES:
It's too late if scale rust has already started. No rustproofer can guarantee to stop rust. Not even Ziebart.
Ziebart technicians will give your car a free rust inspection to find out if it's too late.

NO:
If rust hasn't started, we can help keep it from starting. With our unique Ziebart sealant that actually seeks out rust-prone metal. And our patented spray tools to apply it.

Reader likes new look in Herald

Fan's forum

Dear Editor:

Usually I only bother to write letters to the editor when there's something to complain about. This time I want to take the time to say how much I enjoy reading the "new" Herald sports page, if new is what you want to call it. It always seemed to me that the only thing that was holding back your sports section from being a really high-class section was the fact that you ignored the world of pro sports. Now that has been taken care of. Congratulations on your effort to give readers a total look at sports.

TOURNEY WAS GREAT

Editor:

The Herald and Paddock Publications are to be commended for running another great tennis tournament this year despite the lousy weather which always seems to strike on the Labor Day weekend. The tourney director did a good job of making sure everybody knew where he was supposed to play and when. The Paddock Tennis Tourney has to be the best, most organized (and most fun) tournament I've ever played in.

G. Bratko
Hoffman Estates

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Herald would like to thank all the players who took part in the 15th annual Paddock tourney and also extend thanks to tourney director Mel Timmons and all the people af the Arlington Tennis Club who helped with the tourney logistics. A very special thanks must go to Nelson Campbell, the manager at River Trails, who once again this year welcomed the Paddock tourney to his indoor facility.

HEADS-UP PLAY

Fans Forum:

One of the Chicago papers is running a promotional contest in conjunction with Major League Baseball in an attempt to find the greatest moment in Cubs and White Sox baseball. Nobody has yet nominated my favorite moment in Sox history the night Ron Hansen hit a line drive off Dan Osinski's head for an uncanny double play, one to six. Osinski, whose wife once taught grade school in Palatine, wasn't impressed.

Second ace for Buffalo Grove golfer

Sports shorts

Dan Krolack, 332 Glendale in Buffalo Grove and a member of the Bison varsity golf team, aced the 175-yard par-3 14th hole of the Buffalo Grove Golf Course recently.

Krolack used five iron to card his second career hole-in-one.

Classic loop elects officers

The Paddock Classic Traveling League has elected officers for the 1975-76 season with Ernie Koche of Hoffman Estates as president, Bob Kula of Chicago vice-president and Don Christensen of Arlington Heights secretary-treasurer.

Huskie band in Milwaukee

The John Hersey High School marching band, under the direction of Donald Caneva, will perform in the pre-game and halftime shows Sunday, Sept. 21 in Milwaukee County Stadium for the opening game of the NFL season between the Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions.

The theme of halftime show will be a "Salute to Famous Streets."

From campuses nationwide

—Fran Taucher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taucher of 264 Mimosa Lane in Elk Grove, will be playing football for the University of Dubuque (Iowa) Spartans this fall.

Taucher is a 5-10, 175-pound senior tail back.

—Indiana State University sophomore Judy Huck has been selected to play on the Sycamores' varsity tennis team.

A 1974 graduate of Hersey High School, Ms. Huck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huck of 1805 Wistoria in Mount Prospect, is a recreation major.

—Also at Indiana State, Pat Teefey, who recently married his high school sweetheart, is a captain and senior receiver with the Sycamores' football team.

—Ken Slepicka, a sophomore at North Park College from Wheeling High School, is battling for the starting quarterback job as the season opener with Illinois Wesleyan Sept. 20 approaches.

—A pair of Maine West cross-country runners have found a home at Northern Illinois University. Rich Pawelko finished fourth in the Huskies' time trial and the big gun of the team is expected to be Chip Barbour.

NIU harrier coach Gordie Scoles expects Barbour to finish in the top-10 of the Mid-America Conference. Since the Huskies' highest finish last season was 56th that's quite a vote of confidence for Barbour.

Barbour easily captured the NIU intrasquad meet with a course-record 26:34 time over the five mile trip.

—Elk Grove graduate Brian Powell is also contributing his considerable talents to the Ball State University cross-country program.

—Mark Wilkans of Buffalo Grove is a returning starter with the Coe College football team.

—Illinois Wesleyan is using Dave Lemmon, a sophomore who graduated from Conant High School, at tackle on the varsity football team.

—Pat Geegan, from Rolling Meadows, and Steve Bobowski from St. Viator, are on the injured list for the Northwestern University football team. Geegan has a broken arm and Bobowski a broken jaw.

Jim Maycan from Palatine, though, is healthy and listed on the second string Wildcat squad at left end.

—Three young men from Des Plaines have been honored with selection to the Mid-American Conference academic honor roll for 1974-75. They are Dan Hammer and Rich Pawelko of Northern Illinois University plus Larry Bierwirth who attends Eastern Michigan University.

—Indiana State University football players Bob Teefey (Hersey) and Bob Radzis (Elk Grove) are mentioned in three college football magazines: Street and Smith's, Game Plan and Roundup.

—Frank Bavaro and Mike Muti (both from Elk Grove Village) plus Richard Novak (Mount Prospect) and Mark Michuda (Palatine) are varsity football candidates at Southern Illinois University. Novak is a returning letterman for the Salukis of Carbondale.

Colleges face big weekend

Last year's national champion, Oklahoma, entertains the Oregon Ducks. The "on-paper" point spread looks like a mis-match, but season openers can be foolers. The powerhouse Sooners are favored by a whopping 52 points.

Two games will give some quick answers to just where the power is in the Big Ten conference. Michigan State meets Ohio State in Lansing, and Wisconsin challenges Michigan. The Buckeyes and Wolves have been 1-2 in the conference for the past 200 years, or seems that way. If the Badgers and Spartans fall by the wayside in these contests, make it 201! Wisconsin is an 11-point underdog and Michigan State is picked to lose by 13 points.

Another big test — this one an inter-conference struggle — pits L.S.U. of the Southeastern Conference against Nebraska, Big 8 power. L.S.U. had a down year in 1974, winning only five of 11. The Sugar Bowl champion Cornhuskers had another strong season, and are the favorites by 22 points.

Tennessee edged Maryland in last year's Liberty Bowl game, 7-3, and they're right back at each other just nine months later. The Terps won the Atlantic Coast championship last year while the Vols finished eighth in the Southeast Conference. Even though it's a home game for Tennessee, it looks like Maryland by a chalk-line.

And in what may prove to be a real tough opener, Notre Dame travels to New England to tangle with Boston College. The Eagles rolled up 375 points last fall as they won eight of 11 games. The Irish will win, but not big. The point spread: just four.

Texas lost to Auburn in the Gator Bowl, and Southern Cal upset Ohio State in a thriller in the Rose Bowl. The Trojans will whip Duke Friday night by 30 points. The Longhorns are 27-point favorites over Colorado State, and Auburn will beat Memphis State by 18 points.

Demanding schedule faces Devine in first campaign

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (UPI) — Dan Devine's first season at Notre Dame might be memorable for something other than just a coaching change.

The Fighting Irish, with Devine taking over from a coach who lost only 17 of 116 games in 11 years, Ara Parseghina, could lose more than three games for the first time since 1963, when Hugh Devore has the interim coach between Joe Kuharich and Parseghian.

Not that the Irish will be exceptionally weak. They probably just won't be as strong as the subway alumni have expected and there is a testing schedule. For one thing, Notre Dame opens Monday against Boston College, which retains most of the personnel from a team that won its last six games last year, including those against Tulane, Syracuse and Villanova.

Only five days later Purdue will appear and last year the Boilermakers ran up a record 24 points in the first quarter and whomped the Irish. Later the schedule includes Michigan State, North Carolina, Southern California, Georgia Tech and Pittsburgh, and all should be on equal footing with the Irish.

Devine has a problem with his offense, and he said bluntly "our kicking game and our defense are going to have to do the job as we bring the offense along.

"We don't have a great deal of depth. If we can keep our first defensive unit healthy, it's going to be a good one. They're good tough kids, solid people. I don't feel like somebody should carry somebody else, but there's more experience and ability on defense."

Offensively Devine is groping to find the right people. "I've never had a team where I've had to make so many position shifts," he said. Only one offensive starter returns, guard Al Wujciak. So Devine has shifted Steve Quehl, who missed last season with such a serious leg injury that he was not expected to play again, to center.

Ernie Hughes was converted from defensive end to guard. Ed Bauer has a little time at tackle and sophomore Harry Woekenberg might grab the other spot. Ted Burgmeier was shifted from defensive back to split end. Only at tight end is there a potential super star, Ken MacAfee. "He's going to be a fine player," Devine said. "But he's got a way to go to be as good as he can be."

In the backfield the problem is worse. First there's no established quarterback and both Frank Allocco and Rick Slager are coming off injuries. Joe Montana and Gary Forystek, both inexperienced, have a chance at the job. But it's unlikely that anybody is going to step up, seize the position and stay there.

Two freshmen, Jim Browner and Jerome Heavens, look like the only possibilities for breakaway speed and Mark McLane, Terry Eurick, Russ Kornman, Steve Schmitz and Steve Orsini probably will have to do the bread and butter churning into the line.

The return of five players suspended last year should help, particularly on defense with Ross Browner and Willie Fry at defensive ends and Luther Bradley in the backfield. Steve Niehaus and Jeff Weston will complete the front four, and Mike Stock will shift to linebacker, to bolster a weak spot.

Joining Bradley in he backfield will be Randy Harrison, John Dubenetzky and Randy Payne.

"We've got to piece it together," Devine said. "It's a new experience. Maybe that's why I'm excited about it."

Colleges face big weekend

Just about everybody in college football gets in the act Saturday as the bigs, the littles, and a lot of in-betweeners open their 1975 seasons.

Last year's national champion, Oklahoma, entertains the Oregon Ducks. The "on-paper" point spread looks like a mis-match, but season openers can be foolers. The powerhouse Sooners are favored by a whopping 52 points.

Two games will give some quick answers to just where the power is in the Big Ten conference. Michigan State meets Ohio State in Lansing, and Wisconsin challenges Michigan. The Buckeyes and Wolves have been 1-2 in the conference for the past 200 years, or seems that way. If the Badgers and Spartans fall by the wayside in these contests, make it 201! Wisconsin is an 11-point underdog and Michigan State is picked to lose by 13 points.

Another big test — this one an inter-conference struggle — pits L.S.U. of the Southeastern Conference against Nebraska, Big 8 power. L.S.U. had a down year in 1974, winning only five of 11. The Sugar Bowl champion Cornhuskers had another strong season, and are the favorites by 22 points.

Tennessee edged Maryland in last year's Liberty Bowl game, 7-3, and they're right back at each other just nine months later. The Terps won the Atlantic Coast championship last year while the Vols finished eighth in the Southeast Conference. Even though it's a home game for Tennessee, it looks like Maryland by a chalk-line.

And in what may prove to be a real tough opener, Notre Dame travels to New England to tangle with Boston College. The Eagles rolled up 375 points last fall as they won eight of 11 games. The Irish will win, but not big. The point spread: just four.

Texas lost to Auburn in the Gator Bowl, and Southern Cal upset Ohio State in a thriller in the Rose Bowl. The Trojans will whip Duke Friday night by 30 points. The Longhorns are 27-point favorites over Colorado State, and Auburn will beat Memphis State by 18 points.

Demanding schedule faces Devine in first campaign

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (UPI) — Dan Devine's first season at Notre Dame might be memorable for something other than just a coaching change.

The Fighting Irish, with Devine taking over from a coach who lost only 17 of 116 games in 11 years, Ara Parseghina, could lose more than three games for the first time since 1963, when Hugh Devore has the interim coach between Joe Kuharich and Parseghian.

Not that the Irish will be exceptionally weak. They probably just won't be as strong as the subway alumni have expected and there is a testing schedule. For one thing, Notre Dame opens Monday against Boston College, which retains most of the personnel from a team that won its last six games last year, including those against Tulane, Syracuse and Villanova.

Only five days later Purdue will appear and last year the Boilermakers ran up a record 24 points in the first quarter and whomped the Irish. Later the schedule includes Michigan State, North Carolina, Southern California, Georgia Tech and Pittsburgh, and all should be on equal footing with the Irish.

Devine has a problem with his offense, and he said bluntly "our kicking game and our defense are going to have to do the job as we bring the offense along.

"We don't have a great deal of depth. If we can keep our first defensive unit healthy, it's going to be a good one. They're good tough kids, solid people. I don't feel like somebody should carry somebody else, but there's more experience and ability on defense."

Offensively Devine is groping to find the right people. "I've never had a team where I've had to make so many position shifts," he said. Only one offensive starter returns, guard Al Wujciak. So Devine has shifted Steve Quehl, who missed last season with such a serious leg injury that he was not expected to play again, to center.

Ernie Hughes was converted from defensive end to guard. Ed Bauer has a little time at tackle and sophomore Harry Woekenberg might grab the other spot. Ted Burgmeier was shifted from defensive back to split end. Only at tight end is there a potential super star, Ken MacAfee. "He's going to be a fine player," Devine said. "But he's got a way to go to be as good as he can be."

In the backfield the problem is worse. First there's no established quarterback and both Frank Allocco and Rick Slager are coming off injuries. Joe Montana and Gary Forystek, both inexperienced, have a chance at the job. But it's unlikely that anybody is going to step up, seize the position and stay there.

Two freshmen, Jim Browner and Jerome Heavens, look like the only possibilities for breakaway speed and Mark McLane, Terry Eurick, Russ Kornman, Steve Schmitz and Steve Orsini probably will have to do the bread and butter churning into the line.

The return of five players suspended last year should help, particularly on defense with Ross Browner and Willie Fry at defensive ends and Luther Bradley in the backfield. Steve Niehaus and Jeff Weston will complete the front four, and Mike Stock will shift to linebacker, to bolster a weak spot.

Joining Bradley in he backfield will be Randy Harrison, John Dubenetzky and Randy Payne.

"We've got to piece it together," Devine said. "It's a new experience. Maybe that's why I'm excited about it."

What Ziebart knows about rustproofing:

What car dealers know:

We use 2,000 pages of instructions compiled from factory specifications. Your car dealer uses a few pages of general directions from the salesman who sells him sealant.
We use 9 patented spray tools to get at every inch of vulnerable metal inside your car's body. Your car dealer uses 2, maybe 3 tools.
There are other important differences, too. And you should check them all out.

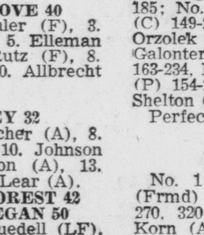
What Ziebart knows about rustproofing:

What car dealers know:



We use 2,000 pages of instructions compiled from factory specifications. Your car dealer uses a few pages of general directions from the salesman who sells him sealant.
We use 9 patented spray tools to get at every inch of vulnerable metal inside your car's body. Your car dealer uses 2, maybe 3 tools.
There are other important differences, too. And you should check them all out.

Hawks, Mustangs continue to win; Fremd and Palatine show strength

by ART MUGALIAN

Cross Country Editor

Hoffman Estates solidified its position as the top cross country team in the South division of the Mid-Suburban League with a stunning 15-48 victory over Schaumburg Thursday in the opening round of MSL dual meets.

The Hawks of coach Jim Swift packed five runners within 16 seconds of each other — and all ahead of the first Schaumburg harrier. Hoffman's top five were Dave Porzel (16:16), Kevin Rooney (16:16), Sam Cox, Steve Lind and Ken Krueger. Porzel broke his own Hoffman course record by two seconds.

In other conference duels, Rolling Meadows captured its second straight South division victory, 22-35 over Conant, Palatine showed underclass strength in whipping Wheeling, 19-42, Fremd began its title defense with a 21-40 win over Buffalo Grove, Arlington beat Hersey, 27-32, and Prospect stopped Elk Grove, 23-33.

In a nonleague double dual, Forest View dispatched of Lake Forest and Waukegan as Falcon junior Darryl Robinson rolled to a three-mile victory in 15:51.

Ten of the Mid-Suburban squads will see action again on Saturday, including Hersey, Prospect, Conant, Arlington, and Rolling Meadows, who will all journey to Maine West for the 11th annual Center Meet.

Hoffman and Fremd will get their first look at each other — along with Wheeling and Buffalo Grove — when the Lake Park Invitational convenes, also on Saturday. In addition, Schaumburg will venture to the Warren Invite and Suburban Catholic contender St. Viator will run at the Notre Dame Invitational.

Thursday's conference meets showcased several premier underclassmen, and, among other things, demonstrated that perennial powerhouses Fremd and Palatine are for real.

And the "new" powerhouse Hoffman Hawks showed something, too.

Schaumburg's harriers, touted as early-season contenders in the South, put up a good fight for the first mile against Hoffman Estates, but quickly fell behind the blistering pace set by Porzel and Rooney. Saxon junior Randy Lewis finished sixth, but Hoffman's sixth and seventh men placed ahead of Bruce Anderson, the second man for Schaumburg.

Rolling Meadows junior Tom Choice won his second conference race in a row, turning in a 14:50 against Conant, just edging the Cougars' Dan Cummings by three seconds. Coach Bob Rees' Mustangs got good performances from Dave Gish (3rd), Brian Germano (4th), Bill Bradley (6th), and Dave Campbell (8th).

Conant, running without Jeff Krautwurst and Pat Hagen, still managed to make it close behind a fifth-place finish for sophomore Bill Baird and a seventh for Jeff Walter.

It was a battle of sophomores at Palatine as the Pirates' Tom Johnson nipped Ben Sanchez of Wheeling by three seconds. Johnson's winning time was 14:57. Another Palatine sophomore, Chuck Elliott, was third in 15:01 and Pirate junior Tony Vargas was fourth.

Coach Joe Johnson's Palatine squad gave notice that they will threaten Fremd's dominance of MSL cross country. Seniors Dave Horwath, Mike Monson, and Pete Kearns placed fifth through seventh, just five seconds apart. However, they were more than 15 seconds behind fourth-man Vargas.

Fremd's standout juniors, John Filosa and Danny Tischler, ran one-two ahead of a pair of Buffalo Grove sophomores, Joe Schmidt and Joe Shields, and the defending MSL champion Vikings took the next six places. Filosa's winning time at the 2.75-mile Union Oil course was 14:20. Schmidt and Shields came in together in 14:27.

Prospect's victory over Elk Grove came as senior Bill Hrbek captured his first conference dual win in 14:39 and Knight sophomore Mark Smith took second in 14:43. Joe Cullen was Elk Grove's top finisher in third place with a time of 14:48.

Arlington eked out a close decision over Hersey although visiting Woodstock grabbed the top five spots in defeating both MSL teams in the double dual. Hersey's Craig Hanssen was sixth in 16:04 over the three-mile Hasbrook Park course, followed by Arlington senior Mike Fischer, and Hersey's Rick Meyer.

Arlington sophomore Tom Tremblay and Hersey freshman Steve Johnson ran ninth and 10th.

Next Thursday's featured dual will be a showdown between Hoffman Estates and Forest View. The Falcons of coach Bill Mohrmann have yet to see any South division action, but already they are being tabbed as the strongest challenger to the Hoffman Hawks.

Associates begin golf tourney

The Arlington Associates golf league started their tournament at Arlington Country Club last Tuesday and will end it this week. In Flight A, Eloise Harrison carded a 54 to take low gross honors and Marge Melcher took low net honors with a 36.

Ginny Faloon and Jeanne Fleming tied for low putts at 16.

In Flight B, Jean Ryan and Becky Satko tied for low gross and low net with a 60-39. Dottie Zale needed only 15 putts.

Pauline Shields recorded a 70-38 and had 18 putts to win all honors in Flight C. Pars were recorded by Bea Dunn (2), Fleming, Harrison and Ruth Hisel.
